Trustees slate Bieber public hearing July 2

The Wheeling Village Board Monday night ordered public hearings on the dismissal of Building Dir. William Bieber as a result of his admission that he accepted a gift valued at more than $300 from a local developer.

Village Mgr. George Passolt announced the public hearings after more than an hour-long closed-door meeting on the matter.

The hearing has been set for 7 p.m. July 2. The board declined to comment further on the matter.

The Herald disclosed last week that Bieber admitted on a state-required ethics form that he accepted a gift valued at more than $300 from the Pekin Corp., developers of Tahoe Village.

Bieber told the Herald that gift was a trip to Florida.

The building director is charged with extorting that January 1973 trip with former Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman James Stavros from the Pekin Corp. in exchange for building and zoning favors.

HE ALSO FACES charges of extortion and conspiracy to commit extortion, perjury and filing a false income tax return in three pending cases.

Bieber is expected to plead guilty on the federal charges against him as soon as he is released from Lutheran General Hospital, where he is being treated for a back ailment and skin disease.

The public hearings may therefore come after Bieber's release from the hospital and subsequent plea. Bieber's attorney said in U.S. District Court Monday he will try to have his client in court by June 10.

Village officials have said that Bieber will be dismissed the moment he is convicted or pleads guilty.

Village officials previously said they could not fire Bieber before he either pleaded guilty or was convicted.

They said they feared Bieber would sue the village and be reinstated in his position.

The admission that Bieber accepted a gift valued at more than $300, however, gave the board an opportunity to review their position on firing the building director.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS said that under normal circumstances the acceptance of such a gift might be grounds for dismissal or discussion of dismissal.

The lengthy debate in closed session apparently dealt with whether action

Judge wants Bieber in court by June 10

The attorney for Wheeling Building Director William Bieber said Monday he hopes his client will be released from the hospital and in court by June 10.

Bieber currently is being treated for a back ailment and skin disease at Lutheran General Hospital. He is expected to plead guilty on federal charges against him as soon as he is released from the hospital.

U.S. District Judge Abraham Lincoln Marovitz told attorney David Schippers to have his client in court June 10, the date originally set for trial in the case. Bieber is charged in this case with conspiring with former Wheeling trustee William Hart and former Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman James Stavros to commit extortion against Bernard Wasmer of Duo Sign Co.

HART, HOWEVER, is the only defendant expected to stand trial in the case. Stavros pleaded guilty in April to extorting $92,000 from three Wheeling developers, with eight other charges against him dropped at that time. Bieber is also expected to plead guilty to some of the 11 federal charges against him.

Hart waived his right Monday to a jury trial, and Judge Marovitz advised attorneys of preparations for the upcoming trial.

Bieber and Hart are among six former and present Wheeling and Cook County officials indicted Jan. 31 following a against Bieber would jeopardize the case against the building director in federal court.

At least three trustees had earlier indicated their support for public hearings, while other board members said they would rely on the opinion of Village Atty. Paul Harner.

Weekend drawing attracts 84 donors

Blood drive falls short of its goal

Hopes dimmed for keeping the Wheeling Community Blood Plan alive following this weekend's blood drawing, which attracted only 84 donors.

The Wheeling Jaycees, sponsors of the program, called the special blood drawing in an effort to bolster the program, which has been suffering from lack of community support. James Bronson, program chairman, said he had hoped to add at least 200 pints to this year's program, which must meet a 700-pint quota by the end of the year.

This figure represents about 4 per cent of the Wheeling population, the amount nationally estimated to cover all blood replacement needs.

THE WEEKEND DRAWING brought this year's blood drive effort up to 316 pints, less than half the amount needed to meet the year's quota. Only two drawings remain, with the next scheduled for September.

Bronson said the Jaycees must collect about 200 pints at the next two drawings in order to meet the quota. "If we can hit 200 pints in the next two drawings, we'll keep the plan alive," he said. "If it doesn't happen, then it's up to the Beverly Blood Bank to decide what to do with us."

The program chairman said he is not optimistic about meeting the 700-pint quota. Noting that the program has received a lot of publicity, Bronson said "It still hasn't turned out a 200-pint drawing, and I can't really look forward to getting 200 pints twice."

THIS YEAR'S first two drawings attracted a little more than 100 persons each. The third drawing brought in fewer than 100 persons.

Bronson said the only encouraging thing about the weekend drawing was the fact that none of the donors had previously given blood to the program. In the past, the same donors have repeatedly supported the program. Bronson also said that several people walked in off the street, increasing the drawing from the 75 donors who had pledged to give blood this weekend.

Last year, the program fell about 270 pints short of its quota, but was continuing because enough blood had been collected to cover the needs of the community. The Jaycees had hoped for a better response this year because the program is more established and residents are more aware of it.

WHILE WHEELING residents have only used about 35 pints of blood, Bronson said he did not know if the Beverly Blood Bank will allow the program to be continued if the 700 pint quota is not met. He said that Beverly has already notified the Jaycees that the program will be ended if the quota is not met, despite the fact that more blood has been collected than has been used in the community.

According to Bronson, the blood plan has saved residents over $2,000 in blood replacement since the program was begun nearly two years ago.

The program provides free blood replacement to all village residents. In addition, the plan provides donors with free blood replacement for their parents and spouse's parents.

Residents in need of blood replacement should contact the Wheeling Police Department at 537-2131. The police will take the resident's name, address and phone number and relay this information to the Jaycees.

'74 completion of Dundee Road work threatened

Unless a strike by gravel, cement and sand truck drivers ends soon, motorists traveling on Dundee Road may be faced with another treacherous winter.

Albert Sifrer, project engineer for the Illinois Division of Highways, said Monday the strike already has caused delays and if it is not settled by July 1, workers may have difficulty finishing the project by next winter.

The drivers went out about two weeks ago in sympathy of a strike called by ready-mix cement drivers. Sifrer said workers have been unable to resume paving because construction materials have run out.

THE PROJECT CONSISTS of widening and repaving Dundee Road to four lanes between Elmhurst Road and Ill. Rte. 53. It also includes hooking up the realignments of Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights roads and repairing a 900-foot section of Arlington Heights Road north of Dundee Road.

The entire project is scheduled to be completed by October 1. Sifrer said workers are currently doing some minor tasks, but eventually will be unable to work unless more materials are delivered.

The battered portion of Arlington Heights Road adjacent to Buffalo Grove High School was closed recently by village officials and will not be reopened until repairs are made. Public Works Director Charles McCoy said motorists can still drive on the road, but are advised that it is at their own risk.

Stavros sentencing scheduled for today

James Stavros, former Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman, is scheduled to be sentenced today in U.S. District Court for extorting $92,000 from three Wheeling developers and filing a false income tax return.

Stavros faces a maximum penalty of 63 years imprisonment and up to $35,000 in fines. The U.S. Attorney's Office is expected to outline part of its case against Stavros in arguing for a "stiff sentence" before U.S. District Judge Hubert Will.

Stavros pleaded guilty April 30 to three extortion charges and a tax charge as part of an agreement with the U.S. Attorney's Office in which eight additional counts against Stavros were dropped.

Among the eight counts which were dropped were charges of extorting an additional $91,250 from Wheeling developers.

ACCORDING TO the terms of the agreement, Stavros is protected from all further prosecutions stemming from the federal grand jury investigation which led to his indictment. The government also agreed not to call Stavros to testify before the grand jury on that investigation.

In pleading guilty, Stavros admitted to having enough control over village government to prevent construction of the three developments if he opposed them.

Stavros is one of six former and present Wheeling and Cook County officials indicted Jan. 31 following a year-long federal probe into shakedowns of Wheeling developers. He is the second defendant in the case to plead guilty and will be the second sentenced.

FORMER WHEELING trustee Michael Valenza was sentenced to nine months imprisonment after pleading guilty to conspiracy to commit extortion. Judge Bernard Decker said the sentence would have been stiffer if Valenza had not cooperated fully with the government.

There is, however, no indication that Stavros has cooperated with the U.S. Attorney's Office.

The sentencing is scheduled for 2 p.m. at the Federal Building in Chicago.

Industrial zoning before panel today

The Wheeling Zoning Board tonight will consider zoning for a proposed industrial park at the northwest corner of Wolf and Hintz roads.

Both the school and park districts have already agreed to release a school-park designation on the property in exchange for a donation. The Wheeling Partnership, petitioner for zoning, is asking that the residential zoning be changed to an industrial classification.

The zoning board will also consider a request for business zoning at 2324-2330 W. Hintz Rd. The Kulwin-Belder Construction Co. is seeking the zoning change.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

Referendum to voters today

The fate of a $1.1 million referendum will be decided today by Prospect Heights Park District voters. Only one polling place, the Prospect Heights Public Library, 12 N. Elm St., Prospect Heights, will be open for the referendum. Ballots may be cast from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The referendum seeks approval for a major renovation of the Lions Park pool on Camp McDonald Road and the construction of an adjacent community center-sports complex.

Park officials estimate the cost of the referendum to property owners in the district will be about $17.89 a year per $10,000 assessed valuation for 16 years. Officials add, however, that the yearly cost may be higher in the beginning, but will lessen as various apartment complexes within the district are completed, occupied and taxed.

Threatened lawsuit halts night racing card

Scariano

Did the Illinois Racing Board, chaired by Anthony Scariano, violate the Illinois Open Meetings Act, written by Anthony Scariano? The Rolling Meadows city attorney thinks so. His threat to file suit because the law may have been violated caused the racing board Monday to cancel night racing at Arlington Park only six hours before the planned 8 p.m. post time. City Atty. Donald Rose objected to a weekend telephone poll of racing board members that resulted in the approval of the first night racing at the Arlington Heights track since 1960. Rose was 20 minutes away from filing a suit for a temporary injunction Monday when racing board attorney Martin Oberman informed him that the night session was canceled. Scariano, former state representative and author of the 1967 law requiring open meetings by public bodies in Illinois, was unavailable for comment.

Maine teachers OK pay hike

Teachers in Maine Township Dist. 207 voted overwhelmingly Monday to accept a 1974-75 pay schedule providing an average 9.9 per cent pay hike. Starting pay will rise 8.2 per cent to $9,630 under the schedule and top pay will be $21,795, up 8.1 per cent. Mid-scale teachers will get 10.5 per cent raises.

Teacher rally for salaries

More than 250 teachers in High School Dist. 211 held a rally Monday night to support their negotiators in salary contract talks. The teachers' negotiating team is asking for a 10 per cent increase in salary next year but the board of education has offered only a 6.2 per cent raise. The teachers' proposal would raise the base salary for teachers from $8,930 to $9,850. Dist. 211 teachers have said their 4 per cent pay raise last year was actually a cut in salary since the cost of living based on the consumer price index rose 8.8 per cent.

Repaving contract awarded

A $1 million contract for repaving and widening Palatine Road from Algonquin Road to just west of Quentin Road was awarded Monday by the Cook County Board. No starting date has been set for the project, which could be delayed by the current cement truck drivers' strike.

Stavros sentencing today

James Stavros, who pleaded guilty to extorting $92,000 from three Wheeling developers, is scheduled to be sentenced today in U.S. District Court. Stavros, former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman and political boss of the Village of Wheeling, faces up to 63 years in prison and fines totaling $35,000.

Metron buses to run again?

The president of Metron Systems Corp. said Monday he still hopes to set up Northwest suburban bus routes despite the ending of bus service Friday for Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove. "We're still in business. But we don't know what's going to happen," said Claude G. Luisada. The company will pursue efforts to establish bus services in other suburbs, including Mount Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Wheeling, he said.

Parks referendum today

Prospect Heights Park District residents will vote today on a $1.1 million bond issue referendum to raise funds for the renovation of Lions Park pool and construction of an adjacent community center-sports complex.

Armed bandit escapes

An armed bandit escaped with $100 cash Sunday from Woodfield Jewelers of Schaumburg after threatening owner-operator Betty Gunn with a pistol. The store was held up last August by another robber who pistol-whipped Mrs. Gunn and escaped with about $12,000 worth of rings.

In light of Cook County decision

Auto emission tests to be reviewed

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will "reconsider" its order for suburban auto emission testing by Jan. 1, 1975 in Cook County.

Federal officials said Friday that the order for car testing will be reexamined because the Cook County board refused to complete plans by a June 1 deadline.

"They asked that we reconsider and that's the approach we'll take," said Jack Chicca of the EPA air control division.

The board voted Wednesday not to submit plans for the testing to the Chicago office of the Environmental Protection Agency. Northwest suburban officials, including the Arlington Heights village board and the Northwest Municipal Conference, oppose mandatory emission testing in the suburbs.

CHICCA SAID that the EPA will "mount a pretty sizeable response" to objections raised in the county board resolution.

The response would be the first discussion of the deadline between county and federal officials since a board hearing April 4. The EPA failed to answer a letter request by Board Pres. George Dunne for extension of the deadline and angered board members.

Dunne has called the June 1 planning deadline, and a federal order to begin testing by Jan. 1, 1975, "unrealistic." The EPA ordered 50 per cent reduction of carbon-dioxide pollution in Chicago's central business district by 1975. County auto testing would reduce Loop-area pollution about 1.7 per cent, John Kirkwood of the EPA has said.

Opening of five computerized suburban car centers to test emission of nearly 1.5 million autos would cost more than $3.5 million. Dunne has said that the county does not have the funds and he opposes a $3 to $5 fee for testing.

"We do have some questions on the cost figures," Chicca said. "We know the equipment is available."

Dunne said the federal order is based on traffic and emission figures from 1971. The energy crisis has reduced cars in the central business district and by 1975 new autos will be fitted with catalytic converters to reduce pollution.

PROPOSED TEST plans "omitted the obligation of trucks, taxis and commercial vehicles to reduce pollution," Dunne said. Retrofitting with catalytic converters would "more than reduce the carbon-monoxide content and would eliminate the need for testing of suburban cars."

"We'll work on this until we've exhausted all avenues," Chicca said. "We have a lot of data and have found much support for the program. We would be disappointed if it didn't proceed."

A federal lawsuit to enforce the Jan. 1, 1975 testing deadline is possible if discussions with county officials fail, the EPA official said. "This is the first time the government has promulgated something like this. It kind of put us on a fence," Chicca said.

The EPA announced the test deadlines at a hearing Dec. 14, 1973 in Chicago after rejecting state pollution-reduction plans.

At a county hearing on the test proposal April 4, suburban officials called for rejection of the plan.

County rebuffs proposal for vote machine bids

The Cook County Board rebuffed a suggestion by Comr. Carl Hansen Monday that a legal opinion from the state's attorney be sought on companies bidding for voting machine contracts.

Hansen, GOP candidate for county board president, said later he would seek the opinion himself. He said conviction of former county clerk Edward Barrett for kickbacks in voting machine purchases warrants investigation of the companies by the state's attorney's office.

Hansen made the request as the board approved advertising for bids for 400 new machines Monday. He said the investigation needs to be made now to avoid a last-minute crisis later in the summer. The machines will be needed for the November elections. Hansen said the issue has already been delayed eight months, since County Clerk Stanley Kuser Jr. first asked for the bids last September. The machines are expected to cost about $1 million.

The board last month authorized Kuser to prepare specifications for the bids, although Hansen objected because such a major item was not listed on the agenda. It was on the agenda Monday. Hansen, who was appointed to finish out the unexpired term of the late Comr. William Erickson, also objected to the practice of issuing bonds to pay for the machines instead of including them in the annual budget.

COUNTY BOARD Pres. George Dunne, a Democrat, and opponent of Hansen in the upcoming county elections, said now is not the time to question the companies. He said the board is perfectly legal in advertising. Dunne said legal opinions can't even be sought until they know who bids on the order.

Kuser's Republican opponent, Lola Flamm, has also criticized purchase of the machines. She said Kuser should disqualify himself as purchasing agent because he refused to testify before a grand jury investigating allegations that Kuser was on the payroll of agents of the voting machine company he dealt with as chairman of the Chicago Board of Election Commissioners.

Dunne said Monday that only two voting machine companies make suitable equipment — one that meets Chicago specifications, and one that meets county specifications. He said the county's previous supplier, was the Shoup Voting Machine Co. of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa., is no longer in business. Shoup was involved in the Barrett bribery.

Buckminster Fuller to address Mensa

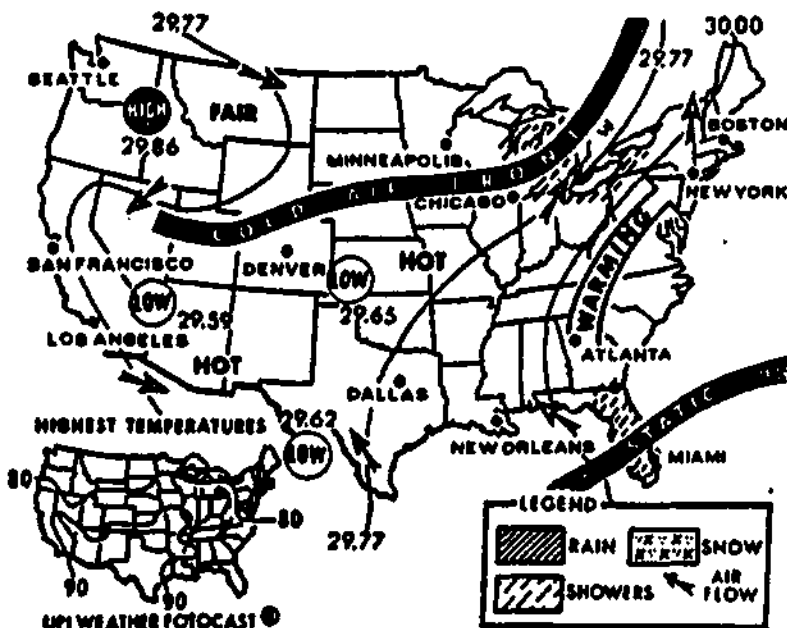

Buckminster Fuller, father of the geodesic dome, will speak in Chicago June 22 at the annual gathering of American Mensa, Ltd., a world-wide organization of persons with high IQ's.

Fuller is the international president of Mensa, which admits only persons who have scored in the upper 2 per cent of the general population on standard IQ tests. Mensa, the Latin word for table, signifies that members form a round-table of equals in regard to intelligence.

"Intelligence: To Make A Difference" will be the theme of the convention hosted by Chicago Area Mensa at the Playboy Towers Hotel June 21-23. Speeches by Mensa members and a variety of workshops are scheduled.

Anyone interested in Mensa membership and attending the convention can contact Steven Langer, 309 Herndon St., in Park Forest or Charles Fallon, 4817 W. Kirk, Skokie.

Prime lending rate cut to 11.6 per cent

The First National Bank of Chicago yesterday announced a prime lending rate of 11.6 per cent effective today, to mark the first decline in the rate since March 4. The highest previous rate of 11.75 per cent was imposed two weeks ago. It was a record for the bank.

CTA 'super pass' hikes Sunday ridership

The Chicago Transit Authority said its bus ridership was up 8 per cent Sunday, the first day of its "super transfer pass." The pass, to be offered each Sunday this month, costs a rider 70 cents, and allows him or her any number of rides on CTA buses or trains between 3 a.m. Sunday and 3 a.m. Monday.

Bakalis: study high tuition costs

State School Supt. Michael Bakalis said yesterday a study should be made in Illinois to determine how many persons are prevented from attending college because it costs too much. "All we have now are educated guesses, or opinions," Bakalis said in testimony before the tuition study committee of the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Algeria not bound to boycott Holland oil

In Cairo yesterday, Algeria said it does not consider itself bound by a weekend Arab decision to continue the Arab oil embargo against Holland and will ignore the ban. Algerian Oil Minister Belaid Abdessalam said that of the nine OAPEC nations, only Saudi Arabia raised real objections to lifting the ban on Holland.

Complete troop pullout from Laos

A spokesman at the U.S. Embassy in Laos said the last American military personnel left Vientiane for home yesterday. The pullout completes a total withdrawal of 185 military personnel in accordance with the protocol setting up the Lao-Tian Coalition Government. In Saigon, Soviet-built rockets hit Bien Hoa and an airfield only 14 miles northeast of Saigon yesterday in the deadliest Communist shelling near the capital since the cease-fire. The attack killed 31 and wounded 62.

Hunt sea for ship's missing passengers

The Philippine navy searched the Sula Sea 400 miles to the south of Manila yesterday for 31 persons reported missing when the inter-island passenger vessel Aloha caught fire and sank. A spokesman said three persons, including a 6-year-old girl, were confirmed dead and 243 others were rescued.

Hint Mafia, Italy bombings linked

Police sources in Rome said yesterday neo-fascist gangs blamed for a bombing that took seven lives at Brescia political rally may have links with the Mafia. They said investigators were exploring this possibility after finding evidence that the right-wing extremists financed their activities at least partly through kidnappings for ransom and sales of illegal weapons.

Auto club asks auto air bags be optional

The Automobile Club of Michigan asked the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration yesterday not to make air bags mandatory on 1977-model cars. The auto club was joined in the plea later in the day by General Motors and Ford, whose test fleets of 1,800 air bag-equipped cars have logged more than 64 million miles. Nine insurance companies have urged the government not to back off its demand that the systems become mandatory.

Pickets effectively shut down the nation's men's and boys' clothing industry yesterday, two days after the strike was ordered by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union. The strike was called Saturday when union negotiators failed to obtain key wage demands from the Clothing Manufacturers Association.

Textron to invest $85 million in Lockheed

The financially troubled Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in Burbank, Calif. announced yesterday a tentative plan for Textron Inc., one of the nation's largest conglomerates, to invest $85 million in exchange for a new issue of stock. The announcement was made jointly by Daniel Haughton, Lockheed board chairman, and G. William Miller, chairman of the board of Textron.

Report Nixon abandons welfare reform

Top Administration officials in Washington said yesterday President Nixon has abandoned welfare reform that would give cash assistance to the working poor because the program can't win support from conservatives. Instead, the administration will seek agreement among congressmen and governors for a more modest, less immediate reform that could mean just patching up the present system which Nixon has called "a monstrous, consuming outrage."

Rabin takes over as Israel premier

From United Press International
Yitzhak Rabin succeeded Golda Meir on Monday as prime minister of Israel, pledging that Israel will seek peace from a position of military strength and will not surrender all occupied territory demanded by the Arabs as a precondition for peace.

The 120-member Knesset parliament voted 81-51 with five abstentions to approve Rabin's government in a ballot that made him Israel's fifth prime minister in its turbulent 26-year history.

In Geneva, Israeli and Syrian generals, while pointedly continuing to ignore each other and communicating through a Finnish general acting as a go-between, reached agreement Monday on the technicalities of troop and weapon disengagement and on the exchange of all remaining prisoners of war and the dead.

The Israeli-Syrian military working group said the agreements would be signed on Wednesday with a final detailed disengagement map.

All was quiet along the Golan Heights front between Israel and Syria. In Cairo, a United Nations spokesman said the first U.N. troops assigned to patrol the Heights left Egypt by air Monday for Syria, where they will be stationed between Syrian and Israeli forces.

A Beirut news bulletin said Monday that President Hafez Assad of Syria has promised Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger that his country will not allow Palestine guerrillas to cross the cease-fire line into Israel.

In Jerusalem, Rabin and his 18 cabinet ministers took the oath of office immediately after the confidence vote.

The vote climaxed an eight-hour debate and ended Mrs. Meir's five years as prime minister and 50 years in politics.

Rabin needed only a simple majority of the Knesset members present. But a negative vote by one of the Rafi faction members of his ruling Labor party foreshadowed problems in future parliamentary votes when he will need all of his 61 votes.

Appearing fatigued, Rabin afterwards led his cabinet to the home of President Ephraim Katzir to present the new government.

Nixon heads to Mideast next week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will leave next Monday on a nine-day trip to the Middle East, including stops in Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Saudi Arabia, it was learned Monday.

White House officials said a formal announcement would be made Tuesday of Nixon's timetable and final decision to go to the Middle East prior to starting a third round of summit talks with Soviet leaders in Moscow June 27.

It was learned that Nixon would leave June 10 from Washington and return June 19, stopping overnight in Salzburg, Austria, on his way to the Middle East. Tentative plans call for a first stop in Cairo and conferences with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

White House officials said Nixon decided to go to the Middle East to demonstrate his continuing interest in the region. They said he would be seeking to strengthen U. S. relations with Israel and also with the Arab countries where Soviet influence seems to have slipped as a result of Kissinger's peace-making missions.

Advance planning teams left Washington for the Middle East Monday to make arrangements for the President's visit.

OREGON GOV. TOM McCall and California Gov. Ronald Reagan, (center) chat after opening of 66th National Governors' Conference in Seattle. Addressing the panel was Sen. Edward M. He said the peoples' need for health care is at war with insurance profits.

Ray may have won way to new trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James Earl Ray won Supreme Court clearance Monday to seek withdrawal of his guilty plea and a new trial in the 1968 slaying of Martin Luther King Jr. The Court held his lawyers may have unduly influenced him because of a book in which they had an interest.

Without comment, the Court rejected an appeal by the state of Tennessee of an order from the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that a hearing be held to determine whether Ray had been deprived of his constitutional rights to due process and assistance of counsel.

That hearing now can be held, and if the change of plea is accepted Ray would be entitled to a new trial. He pleaded guilty in 1969 to the slaying of the civil rights leader in a Memphis, Tenn., motel and was sentenced to 99 years in state prison.

Shortly after he was sentenced, Ray claimed that his counsel, well-known criminal attorney Percy Foreman of Houston, had coerced him into pleading guilty in order to keep facts in the case from coming out in open court.

Ray turned his case over to Foreman after dismissing attorney Arthur Hanes, who had signed a contract with writer William Bradford Huie for a book on the King slaying, with Hanes to get 30 per cent of the royalties. Foreman kept the agreement in effect, but increased his share to 60 per cent.

Ray contended that Foreman advised him to plead guilty so that information on the case could be preserved exclusively for the book.

Judge William E. Miller, writing the appeals court decision that a change-of-plea hearing should be held in U.S. district court, said that if the allegations were true they would support a finding that Ray's attorneys "deliberately compromised their client's interests in order to further the financial success of Huie's works in which they themselves had a substantial interest. Such conduct would constitute an outrageous abrogation of the standards which the legal profession sets for itself and upon which its clients have a right to rely."

In other actions, The Supreme Court declined to rule on the constitutionality of a Florida law requiring consent of husbands or parents for an abortion and agreed to rule whether high school authorities can ban student newspapers which use vulgar language but do not violate obscenity laws.

Colson pleads guilty; impact awaited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former White House Special Counsel Charles W. Colson, promising to cooperate in other Watergate-related cases, unexpectedly pleaded guilty Monday to a single count of obstructing justice in the prosecution of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski dismissed the indictments against Colson in both the Ellsberg and Watergate cover-up conspiracy cases with the understanding Colson will cooperate with the prosecution in those cases.

This means that Colson, once one of President Nixon's closest advisers, almost certainly will be questioned — and may be called to testify — about allegations that he had discussions with President Nixon about clemency for the Watergate break-in defendants; that he was involved in a $2 million pledge by milk co-operators for Nixon's re-election; and that he was involved in the aftermath of International Telephone and Telegraph's favorable antitrust settlements and ITT's promise of up to $400,000 for the 1972 Republican National Convention.

In addition, former White House Domestic Affairs Assistant John D. Ehrlichman now is the remaining chief defendant in the Ellsberg trial scheduled to start June 17, and presumably Colson must testify against him.

The full impact of Colson's action could not be assessed immediately.

Meanwhile, U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, before whom Colson pleaded guilty, rejected Nixon's claimed right to be the sole judge of what White House evidence to surrender for a criminal trial. He warned again the remaining Ellsberg break-in indictments may be thrown out if Nixon does not honor defense subpoenas.

TV commercials stir some new controversy

From United Press International
Renewed controversy over television commercials broke out Monday as:

• Chairman Louis R. Engman of the Federal Trade Commission said he would try to prohibit the offering of prizes in TV commercials aimed at children; and

• The chairman of Mobil Oil Corp. said the refusal to allow commercials dealing with ideas rather than products may have created the danger of monopoly copyright in the U.S.

In a speech to the American Advertising Federation, Engman spoke of plans to seek a vote by all five FTC members to ban what he thinks may be the unfair practice of advertising premiums. He said the use of hero figures and the practice of drug advertising during children's programs also are high on the commission's agenda.

Mobil Chairman Rawleigh Warner Jr. said "the real issue seems to be whether the commercial networks should have total control over what is broadcast to the American people. Since network broadcasting is among the most concentrated of U.S. profit making industries, it would appear that our country may be facing a danger of monopoly censorship."

Warner was referring to the refusal of CBS and ABC to televise commercials dealing with the energy crisis and the environment rather than advertisements of products.

Scramble in California primary today

• All political eyes will be on California today where five well-known Democrats square off in a free-for-all for the party's gubernatorial nomination. Among those in the race are secretary of state Edmund G. Brown, son of the ex-governor who in 1962 was the last man to beat Richard Nixon; Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti; San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto; former trade negotiator William Roth; and Rep. Jerome Waldie. Republicans butting heads will be state controller Houston Flournoy and Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, who was a big favorite to succeed retiring Gov. Ronald Reagan until he — Reinecke — was indicted on three counts of perjury in the ITT case.

• Two days after he and leaders of his order resolved their differences over his outspoken defense of President Nixon, and one day after he was quoted — perhaps tongue-in-cheek — as saying he was available for exorcisms, Rev. John McLaughlin was speaking out again. The Jesuit priest and Nixon aide took on the House Judiciary committee, saying it has "no legal case against the president," and suggesting it refused to hold public hearings to cover up "unprofessional and amateurish procedures."

• A week ago, Donald Santarelli — head of the Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration — had been quoted as saying government service was cheapened by the Watergate scandal and the government is "just a nastier place to be these days." Monday, it was reported Santarelli had submitted his resignation.

• Keeping up with Gerald Ford: the vice president was reported trailing Sen.

Said she today: "It's all ancient history."

• From the docket: a former United Mine Workers organizer — William Prater — was sentenced in an Erie, Pa., courtroom to life imprisonment for his part in the 1969 murders of UMW leader Joseph Yablonski and his family . . . a federal judge in Columbus, Ga., refused a motion by attorneys for Army Lt. • Fresh from his jail term for the Howard Hughes biography hoax, author Clifford Irving has found work. Cleo Crouch of St. Joseph, Mo., says he's paying Irving $40,000 to ghost-write a book about how three poor farm boys — Cleo and his brothers Arthur and Ovid — built a three-truck outfit into a business that grossed $24 million last year . . . the most popular writer at a Washington book fair was Jeb Stuart Magruder, happily autographing copies of "An American Life — One Man's Road to Watergate." It tells about the adventures for which today, at the Allenwood, Pa., federal penitentiary, he'll begin serving a 10-month-to-four year sentence for obstructing justice.

THESE TRADESMEN may be part of a widespread layoffs in the residential construction industry if cement truckdrivers remain on strike very much longer than the three weeks they have already been out.

Related strikes may halt all work

Construction industry to shut down?

by BARRY SIGALE

The threat of statewide major shut-downs and extensive layoffs in the residential construction industry looms larger as several related strikes continue to halt work, a building industry executive said Monday.

"The carpenters, plumbers and electricians will run out of work. There will be nothing for them to do," said Ted Doufexis, executive vice president of the Residential Construction Employers Council.

Doufexis predicted residential construction will be thrown into a chaotic state if the strikes last another week. He was referring to home and apartment construction only, but the three-week-old strike by some 3,000 cement truckdrivers threatens to completely paralyze all road construction and repair work and other projects in northern Illinois if it continues another week, according to industry outlooks.

THE EFFECT of the walkout was magnified Monday with the news that 5,000 truckdrivers had gone on strike in central and southern Illinois in a contract dispute with building contractors, thereby halting major construction work in nearly the entire state.

The Teamsters strike in northern Illinois began May 15 and centers around a salary deadlock between the union and the Illinois Ready Mix and Materials Assn. Since then, as cement and other materials became unavailable, projects have been shut down or at least delayed.

Doufexis said about $2 billion worth of residential construction work was scheduled this year in northern Illinois and that a major portion of that work has been affected by the strike. He added that the result will be higher costs passed on to the consumer in the future for housing that now will be delayed because of the strike.

DOUFEXIS SAID the only work being done in the residential construction field is on buildings that were technically completed — that is, the basement and garage floors, driveway and sidewalks were finished — before the cement truck drivers went on strike.

Thomas P. Coulter, executive director of the Chicago Chamber of Commerce and Industry, said there is some $250 million worth of construction done in the Chicago area per month and that most of this work has stopped. "How much? I haven't the faintest idea," he said.

Negotiators for both sides of the dispute between cement truckdrivers and the association reportedly have developed a "significant dialogue" despite a breakdown of formal negotiations last week, according to federal mediator Sam Mazza.

The strike, which affects work in Cook, Kane, Lake, Kendall, Will, DuPage and McHenry counties, mainly is over salary. The union is asking for a $3.75 per hour raise over three years while the association has offered $1.50 an hour for the same time period. The two sides are expected to meet sometime this week in an effort to resolve their differences.

Tokyo steak sale — only $14.70 per lb.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Skyrocketing world food costs boosted the price of a pound of boneless sirloin steak to $14.70 in Tokyo between March and May, but the U.S. Agriculture Department says relief is finally in sight for foreign consumers.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) compared prices of 14 food items in 14 world capitals and found median prices for 10 of the items rose between March and May. Only the prices of boneless chuck roast and eggs were cheaper, and white bread and onions remained unchanged.

According to the survey, the median price of boneless sirloin — the cost in 50 per cent of the cities surveyed — rose from $2.41 a pound in March to a record $2.70 in early May. But steak prices in Tokyo leaped by $4.39 — from $10.31 a pound in March to $14.70 in May.

THERE WAS BETTER news, however. Other FAS data showed increases in food prices in "several major economies" have been smaller than inflationary gains for other products.

"In general, many of the factors that led to higher prices last year are less likely to dominate the market this year," Agriculture officials said. They added that big crops in many major producing countries should improve the outlook.

In other world capitals: The price of sirloin steak remained at the government-controlled 69 cents a pound in Buenos Aires, but officials said many price-controlled meat items were not available in local supermarkets.

Sirloin in Washington rose from $2.29 in March to $2.59 a pound in May despite generally lower U.S. beef prices.

A pound of bacon in Brasilia cost $3.09 in May compared with 94 cents in Washington, but Brazilians paid only $1.14 a pound for boneless sirloin compared with $2.38 in Paris, $2.59 in Washington and $4.19 in Stockholm.

State police ask minority recruits

A recruitment drive aimed at men, women and members of minority groups has begun by the Illinois State Police.

The department is seeking persons of all races to apply for positions as troopers. This year, the department will also be including women in its general recruitment drive.

To qualify, applicants must be between the ages of 21 and 33, have minimum vision of 20/30 in each eye without corrective lens, be free of color blindness and have no depth perception deficiency. Applicants are also required to have a high school education or the equivalent. Weight must be in proportion to height and persons must also have a valid driver's license.

Those qualifying must pass mental, physical and psychological testing as required by the department. Starting pay for recruits is $817 per month as well as various fringe benefits.

Application may be made at any State Police headquarters or by writing to the Illinois State Police Merit Board, 1016 Ridgely Building, Springfield, Ill., 62701. The local headquarters is located in Des Plaines at 477 Des Plaines Ave.

Scholarship winners named

High school students in the third state legislative district were named winners of the Eugenia S. Chapman Scholarship recently by Rep. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

Winners of the scholarships to the University of Illinois are Steven Ignots, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gazel Ignots, 803 Carol Ln., Mount Prospect, and Katherine Ann Kosche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Koscho, 313 Hatten Ct., Mount Prospect. Both will graduate this month from Forest View High School.

Other winners are Dawn Marie Kimball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kimball, 1044 Tobey Ct., Schaumburg, and Christy Lee Lindabauer, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Lindabauer, 4736 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows. Dawn will graduate this month from Schaumburg High School and will attend Western Illinois University planning to become a speech therapist. Christy, a June graduate of Rolling Meadows High School, plans to attend Illinois State University and study for a career in the medical field.

If a student changes his plans for attending one of these colleges, an alternate winner will receive the scholarship.

Alternates for the University of Illinois Scholarship are Marcia Lou Rodgers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Rodgers, 211 Wilborn, Mount Prospect, a Prospect High School June graduate who plans a career in magazine journalism and Kevin Tenbrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Tenbrook, 2116 Quail, Rolling Meadows. Kevin, who will graduate in June from Rolling Meadows High School, plans to be an architect.

Alternates for scholarships to other state schools are Lynn Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carlson, 104 MacArthur, Mount Prospect and Peter Cheney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cheney, 471 Burno Dr., Palatine. Lynn, who is completing her second year at Western Illinois University, plans a career either in personnel or marketing. Peter, who graduated from high school in 1967 and has been employed, has been attending Harper College. He has been a volunteer aide at Pleasant Hill School in Palatine and at Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights, and plans to be a teacher. He will be a junior at Northern Illinois University in September.

Stevenson High School wrapup

Instructional, open swim scheduled

Three two-week instructional programs for Lake County elementary and preschool students and open swimming will begin June 14 at Adlai Stevenson High School's indoor pool.

Registration for the summer swim programs will be from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday in the main lobby at the high school. No reservations will be accepted in advance, but reservations may be made the week following for any classes that are not full, according to pool director Hank Andrew.

Open swimming will be Tuesday and Thursday afternoons only, from 1:30 to 3 p.m. during June and July. Admission is 50 cents for residents of Dist. 125, and $2 per person for non-residents.

Elementary school classes will be three times during the morning for two-week periods beginning June 14, June 28 and July 12. The enrollment fee is $10 per student for each two-week period. Beginners, intermediate and advanced swimmers may sign up for any of the classes which will be at 9, 10 and 11 a.m. Classes are limited to 35 students.

In addition, one instructional class will be from noon to 1 p.m. for three and four-year-old preschoolers. Enrollment in this course is limited to 15 youngsters, and each must provide his own life preserver, Andrew explained.

Bilingual program approved

A proposal to establish a bilingual Spanish program among several Vernon Township schools has been approved by the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Called the Greater Vernon Area Bilingual Education Program, which includes Lake County Buffalo Grove, the project involves Stevenson High School, and three elementary schools: districts 96, 102 and 103.

Local school representatives will meet with OSPI officials in Springfield on June 11 to work out details. The original proposal asked for a $20,000 appropriation for hiring a teacher and teacher's aide who would work with Spanish-speaking students from kindergarten through 12th grade. The purpose would be to help students overcome linguistic and cultural differences.

In addition to regular classes, the bilingual instructor would be available for counseling and home visitations.

2 Exchange students selected

Two foreign exchange students have been selected to attend Stevenson High School next fall under the International Student Program.

They are Francoise Guilleldroit from Chauny, France, who will be living with the Glenn Millers of Long Grove; and, Yumiko Aoshima of Tokyo, who will live with the Gerald Harbarts of Hawthorn Woods.

'73 grads to be surveyed

Adlai Stevenson High School students who participated in vocational programs and graduated in 1973 will be the subject of a special study by the Illinois Followup System. It was announced today by Wayne Schnable, curriculum coordinator.

"We are interested in knowing how well former students felt that their occupational courses prepared them for entering the world of work," Schnable commented. "The survey, which is to be conducted under the direction of the Center for Educational Studies at Eastern Illinois University, will be funded by the Illinois Division of Vocational and Technical Education."

Former students will be asked about their post-secondary schooling and work experience and what recommendations they would make for improving occupational education courses.

Employed respondents will be asked to provide the name and address of their present employer or supervisor so they can be contacted for their recommendations concerning occupational education.

Personnel of the Illinois Followup System will mail questionnaires to former students and their employers, tabulate the responses, and prepare a report for Dist. 125.

Distribute student questionnaires

The Adlai Stevenson High School Freshman Studies Committee has mailed or delivered survey questionnaires to all freshman and sophomore students, parents, and upper-grade teachers, according to John Balmes, District 125 board member and committee chairman.

The questionnaire covers many aspects of the new freshman studies program including whether it should be optional, as some residents have asked. Surveys were designed for each of the groups.

The Freshman Studies Program began in 1972 using the thematic approach to learning by teaching basic courses such as English, math, science and social studies as units rather than separate subjects. Early this year, several parents expressed a desire to see Stevenson return to a more traditional program, or at least provide a traditional program for those parents who wanted it.

Couples to pucker up in record-making try

The Great Kiss Off starts noon Saturday in Schaumburg's Woodfield shopping center when 11 couples from across the United States begin smooching to earn their place in the Guinness Book of World Records.

The current record is held by a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., couple, Louise Heath and Vince Torro, who kept their lips in touch for four days and 32 minutes, said Ruby Ruppert of Woodfield, Ill., Rte. 53 and Golf Road.

Competitors are being flown in from 11 major cities across the United States including Detroit, Milwaukee, Philadelphia and San Diego, said Dave Herzog of WEA Distributors, Des Plaines.

The competition began in Miami, Fla., where the first kissing competition was held to promote the rock group Kiss, he said.

RULES ALLOW FOR five-minute breaks each hour during the first two days of competition, five minutes every two hours on the third day and five minutes every three hours on the fourth day, Miss Ruppert said.

The contestants play cards, chess and read books while competing, she said, adding winners will also get an eight-day all expense-paid trip to Acapulco.

Kisses will be sold by Playboy bunnies Saturday in a booth near the Grand Mall of Woodfield where the competition will be held. Proceeds will go to St. Jude's Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., she added.

Celebrities expected on the scene include Howard Cosell, Jan Murray, Joel Gray, and disc jockey Larry Lu-Jack of WCFL, co-sponsor of the competition with Casa Blanca records.

Rolling Meadows attorney forces decision

by KURT BAER

The City of Rolling Meadows apparently forced the cancellation of night racing at Arlington Park Race Track Monday when it threatened to sue the state racing board for a violation of the Illinois open meetings law.

The city's attorney, Donald Rose, Monday objected to a weekend telephone poll of racing board members which had been used as authorization for Arlington Park to schedule its first nighttime horse races since 1969.

Rose said he was less than 20 minutes away from filing a Cook County Circuit Court suit that would have requested an emergency injunction against the night races when the attorney for the racing board, Martin Oberman, called to say the program would be canceled.

The decision was announced just six hours before the 8 p.m. scheduled starting time of the first evening race.

The racing board will hold a hearing at noon today to discuss the possibility of a day-night "double header" at Arlington Park Friday and Saturday.

Rose said he would attend today's hearing to object to any future nighttime racing at Arlington Park because of the potential disturbance it poses to Rolling Meadows residents who live directly across Euclid Avenue from the race track.

ILLINOIS RACING Board Chairman Anthony Scariano could not be reached for comment Monday on the allegation that the board had violated the open meeting statute. Ironically, it was Scariano who, as a state legislator, authored and championed the state's tough open meeting law.

"We just weren't aware that there was any opposition to night racing out there," a racing board spokesman, Tom Sommers, said Monday. "In an emergency situation it seemed valid for the board to act without going to the trouble of all getting together in one room."

The "emergency situation" is a contract dispute between horsemen and the operators of Sportsman's Park which forced the cancellation of Monday night's harness racing opener at the track in Cicero.

Calling off the races at Sportsman's will cost the state $100,000 a day in lost revenue, Sommers said.

"Because of the obligation to protect the state's revenue, the racing board agreed to grant permission to run an evening program at Arlington Park," he said.

It was "unclear," he said, whether the board's weekend decision had violated the open meetings law.

ROLLING MEADOWS Mayor Roland Meyer said Monday the city's injunction maintained that the board violated "the public's right to know" when it failed to hold a public hearing on night racing.

"The papers were all drawn up and ready to be taken to court," said Meyer, who had instructed Rose to look into the ethics of the racing board's decision.

Both Meyer and Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said Sunday they had no knowledge that the racing board had acted to approve Monday night's program.

Officials and residents from Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights objected vehemently when Arlington Park's former owner, Marje Everett, first proposed night racing in 1968-69.

However Arlington Heights is barred by the terms of its annexation agreement with Arlington Park from any further objection to night horse racing.

SOMMERS SAID "it was only today that we found out there was opposition. We hope anyone who's interested will attend the hearing (today)."

The racing board is scheduled to convene at noon, on the 10th floor of the State of Illinois Building, 169 N. LaSalle St., Chicago.

Arlington Park Pres. Jack Loomie is expected to request permission for day-night races at Arlington Park this Friday and Saturday if the dispute at Sportsman's Park is not resolved.

Metron head seeks other bus routes

The president of Metron Systems Corp. said Monday he still hopes to set up Northwest suburban bus routes despite the firm's ending service in Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove.

Metron made its last run Friday for some 100 commuters in the two suburbs, terminating the nine-month-old service because it was costing the firm $4,500 a month in losses.

"We're still in business," Metron Pres. Claude G. Luisada said Monday. "But we don't know what's going to happen."

He indicated he would continue to pursue efforts to set up bus service in other suburbs, including Mount Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

IN EACH municipality, Luisada has made presentations offering to conduct a study of transportation needs, then to set up and manage a bus system to meet the needs.

In Mount Prospect, the Metron propos-year-long federal grand jury probe into shakedowns of Wheeling developers. Two of the six, including Stavros, have already pleaded guilty.

The building director faces charges of extortion, conspiracy to commit extortion, perjury and filing a false income tax return in three other pending cases.

BOTH SCHIPPERS and Assistant U.S. Atty. Steven Kadison Monday asked that U.S. District Judge Bernard Decker have the Bieber case currently in his court transferred to Judge Marovitz. This apparently is the first step in negotiations between Schippers and the U.S. Attorney's Office. The government indicated that the cases against Bieber will all be moved to Judge Marovitz's court, where Bieber will plead guilty.

Schippers said Bieber could not appear in court Monday because he is paralyzed from the waist down. He said that while his client is beginning to get a return of feeling, he has also developed a "painful and embarrassing" skin disease. The attorney said the only way his client could have appeared in court was by ambulance.

The U.S. Attorney's Office said there can be no resolution of the Bieber cases until the building director is able to appear in court.

Buffalo Grove High choral meeting today

Parents of students in Buffalo Grove High School choral groups will meet today at 8 p.m. in the school choral room.

It will be the fourth meeting of the newly formed Buffalo Grove High School choral guild whose purpose is to support the school choral groups and promote the activities of the choral department. The guild hopes to finance trips, concerts and scholarships for choral students.

Members are parents of students in the freshman girls choir, the girls glee club, concert choir and bell ringers. The group will install officers tonight and discuss plans for next year. More information is available from Marilyn Krosland, president, 541-6197, and Kathy Rice, publicity, 537-5562.

al is being studied by the village board's fire and police committee, with no decision expected in the near future.

In Rolling Meadows, the city council's public works-building and zoning committee is reviewing the proposal, though Mayor Roland Meyer gave it a cool reception, suggesting that the city rent two buses from a local church and run its own transportation service.

In Schaumburg, the Metron plan is being considered, along with two other proposals and a third for contract bus service, by the village's mass transportation committee. A decision on whether to start bus service is expected to be made by the village board this month.

IN WHEELING, no action has been taken on the Metron proposal.

The bus service in Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove consisted of rush hour rides to and from the Arlington Heights train station from the Northgate, Mill Creek, Ivy Hill, Berkley Square and Surrey Ridge subdivisions and the Windsor Woods and Villa Verde apartments. About 100 commuters regularly took the bus.

Luisada attempted to secure a subsidy from the Village of Arlington Heights in order to continue the bus service, but the village board turned down the request, forcing the closing of the service.

Choral concert to 'think summer'

"Think Summer" will be the theme of the choral concert Thursday at Buffalo Grove High School.

The concert choir, freshman girls' choir, girls' glee, and ensemble will perform in the school's theater beginning at 8 p.m. Tickets are $1 at the door.

Suspect camper truck fire result of arson

Arson was being investigated as the cause of a fire that caused $500 damage to a camper truck, apparently set afire near 360 Florian Dr. in Des Plaines.

The truck, a 1967 Dodge camper, was owned by L. R. Olson, of Silverton, Ore. The incident occurred late Friday, police said.

The fire was believed to have been set because a box of matches was found on the ground in back of the truck.

Herald opinion

Ethics law must cover all

Palatine's much-revised ethics law is unacceptable and discriminatory in the form approved by the village board last week.

It would require realtors on the Palatine plan commission and zoning board of appeals and their employers to sign annual affidavits that no compensation would be received for one year from property reviewed by the boards.

The trustees' goal is to eliminate possible conflict of interest situations. What the trustees have created is a constitutionally questionable law that could drive realtors from service on the two boards. One zoning board member who is a realtor, Thomas LaDore, resigned two days after village trustees approved the ordinance last week.

The Herald has consistently called for stronger ethics legislation in Illinois. The interest of local governments using home rule powers in ethics regulation is commendable. But an acceptable ethics law should be all-encompassing and should not concentrate on one type of businessmen.

Board members who are realtors could face conflict of interest situations when reviewing zoning proposals, but engineers, employees or owners of construction firms, and even salesmen, to name a few other occupations, also could risk conflicts by subcontracting with developers of projects that were reviewed by the boards.

Enforcement of the ordinance, which could lead to loss of a local broker's license or a $500 fine, seems difficult. A possible violator who signed the affidavit and then profited from a zoning decision could be drawn into a bloody battle where local officials play federal agents during the investigation.

For ethics legislation, we suggest that the Palatine village board look back to 1971 and reconsider its never-adopted plan to require income disclosure from all elected, hired and appointed village officials.

Until the state legislature closes loopholes, stronger ethics laws will come from local governments — and we encourage them to approve such laws.

Palatine began involvement in ethics legislation last year by requiring disclosure of trust beneficiaries seeking zoning. The village board should now reconsider its anti-realtor law, which may draw a court challenge, in its effort to avoid conflict of interest situations.

Dyed hair stuns cat

A couple of years ago I claimed that the most radical thing I'd done in my lifetime was buying a wig, especially since it was a red wig and I'd been a Natural Drab all my life. Comments at home ranged from "ye gods" to "omigawd" and back to "ye gods," laced with some expressions of concern about how being a redhead might affect my willingness to cook.

What the comments were outside the home I never told my family because they wouldn't have believed them anyhow.

About a year later I bought a Somewhat Blonde wig. Everybody said it made me look five years younger so naturally I put the red one in the box in the basement labeled "Halloween costumes" and let the family worry about what my being somewhat blonde was going to do to their meals.

Wigs are nice for keeping your head warm in the winter and dry when it rains and your family on their toes at all times. However, they're like a hothouse in the summertime and cause condensation on the scalp which sometimes trickles down the back of your neck.

Dorothy Meyer

Besides, the cat recently fell in love with my hair piece and slept with it whether it was on my head or off so last week I did something so radical I still don't believe it.

I had my hair dyed.

This time there are no comments at home because the family is struck dumb which is a welcome relief from "ye gods" but now I'm the one who says it. I say it every time I look in the mirror — it's a very spooky feeling to think that some stranger has stolen your reflection, and I keep waiting for an introduction before I brush my teeth in the morning.

My honest intention was to have my hair dyed the same color as my wig but something happened and I turned out white.

And it was very expensive.

I now have to get new glasses, new make-up, a new wardrobe and the kitchen painted. My glasses are black-rimmed and I look like a snowbank wearing a couple of burnt doughnuts. The makeup, wardrobe and kitchen have to get a lot more color in them, especially the kitchen where I have to keep moving or else the family loses me against the white appliances and the off-white walls.

Actually I must be stunning because even the cat is stunned and keeps walking around the house shaking his head which in a cat is an indication of ear mites but not this time — he's stopped sleeping on my head.

The hairdresser assured me I'd get used to the new me in a week or so and I sure hope so — every time I see Snow-white in the mirror I look around for the Seven Dwarfs.

Summit meeting requires groundwork

by STEWART HENSLEY

WASHINGTON — A presidential summit conference with other national leaders, especially when it involves the Soviet Union, has come to be regarded as evidence of major progress for American foreign policy initiatives.

The fact that summits have acquired such a mystique, without respect to the importance or lack of what is accomplished behind the glowing rhetoric, worries critics of Nixon as well as some of his friends.

They fear that Nixon, beset by domestic scandals, may make unwise concessions to get some dramatic agreement on arms limitations that ultimately would prove perilous to the United States.

Senator Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., is one of those concerned. He wants a strategic arms limitation agreement on offensive nuclear weapons nulled down before the President leaves for Moscow in about three weeks. Otherwise, Brooke fears, the Kremlin may be able to take advantage "of a weakened President who desperately needs a dramatic gesture to counterbalance his political liabilities."

Nixon has made it clear he intends to go to the Moscow summit, and possibly make other trips abroad to confer with foreign leaders because he has important business to transact, business which has to do with the peace of the entire world.

There certainly will be no overall strategic arms limitation agreement before Nixon goes to Moscow because the two sides are still having trouble determining the exact ground rules.

But Nixon's peripatetic Secretary of State, Henry A. Kissinger, has said that it may well be possible to sign a partial arms limitation agreement, which could later be incorporated in a general package. That alone, Kissinger contends, would be enough to warrant the Moscow trip.

The only such partial agreement Washington has "leaked" so far concerns a possible U.S. proposal to supplement the ban on nuclear tests above ground with an agreement banning all underground nuclear tests above a certain size, because they can be policed by seismic equipment.

While such an underground ban could be presented as a sign of progress, it also would have the effect of legitimizing all underground tests below thresholds agreed upon.

Nixon also hopes to be able to meet with leaders in the Middle East at some point if the tenuous military disengagement agreement Kissinger has achieved remains effective long enough. A Middle East summit could take place before the Moscow trip, but indications are it would more likely follow it.

The President could also meet with Soviet leaders, as well as the representatives of 33 other countries involved in the

Hits baseball editorial

Regarding your Herald editorial in the May 24 issue, concerning the parents' participation in structured baseball.

Let's play ball! I have a thousand boys, and you have a thousand boys. Let's try to play baseball without the structure in baseball and the backbone of such a large undertaking, parents! Without the long hours, the endless time they spend to get everything just right for the boys who want to come out and play ball in a league that is organized. Unlike the time and frustration of trying to figure out who goes on whose team, where home plate shall go, and who will bring the ball and bat. Then when you win a ball game with supervision and the care coaches and managers give, you know you've received a great victory. Not just the game itself, no, it goes much deeper. You know you won fairly and by the rules.

Tell me, Mr. Editor, would your paper publish the results of an unorganized ball game? You can turn to the sports section of your paper almost every day and find the names of those boys who participate in organized baseball. To know that you

Thank you

About six weeks ago I submitted a letter to you about the Mount Prospect Jewel Tea store closing in Mount Prospect on Northwest Highway. In the letter I mentioned the employees being terminated and benefits taken away.

I want to thank you very much for printing the letter. Fortunately the right people saw it. It was taken to the proper management and Jewel and the union. It brought to light things that Jewel and union were not aware of. Because of your printing the letter, all the employees have been reinstated and all benefits returned.

A special thank you to Mr. Neil Carlson, union representative who got the ball rolling.

earned enough to get your name in the paper is pride in a job well done.

I am a 13-year-old boy who is an avid fan of baseball. One who has moved from Arlington Heights, but because of the organization they have (which is unlike any other league I have observed or played in) we managed to stay in the Arlington Heights Baseball League. All I can say is that it's fantastic!

Instead of tearing down the structure of baseball, why not congratulate the parents, the heart of the organization, who give their time and energy to making a program like this work!

Come on, editor, why aren't those thousand boys playing ball?

Planning gap blasted

Your recent editorial of May 22 supported the need for long range planning in developing our suburban area looking toward a time 20 years hence. This is a laudable position. However, using Mayor Teichert's philosophy for developing Mount Prospect as a basis for supporting your position is analogous to promoting satanism to spread Christianity.

The need for long range planning in suburban areas, such as Mount Prospect, is evident today because it was essential 20 years ago for all suburbs now developed and not done. Only one suburb, Oak Brook, has accomplished a correct melding of business, housing and recreation.

Today we find developed municipalities fighting over the remaining unincorporated property along their borders. To gain support of the property owner, usually speculative developers, each village tries to outdo the other in selling out hard-won protection of existing residents to gain the advantage of annexation. In other cases, running scared from court decisions or using them as an excuse, zoning to high density multi-family usage is granted for isolated parcels of land within our established single family areas in what can only be described and has been by land use experts as flagrant spot zoning.

True, the addition of these high density structures does seem to present a better balanced housing mix on paper for developed single family communities, but in reality the lack of proper planning through no fault of the existing home owner means not the creation of a well balanced community for the future but the sowing of seeds that will ripen to produce a steady reduction in property values, then the tax base, and finally lead to future slum conditions.

Long range plans having a multiplicity of housing in a community is beneficial but required before substantial development takes place not when almost 100 per cent development is a fact. We can hope new communities will see this planning need. However, for communities such as Mount Prospect long range plans take on a different need. It is to protect our remaining open space. The fact is that Illinois currently ranks near last among states in recreation area per citizen.

It is not the citizens that are short-sighted as your editorial implies but local officials who keep stating their self-proclaimed magnanimity as shown by their resistance to us so-called "reactionary" citizens whose only offense is in trying to maintain the values of their community. It is these short-sighted officials who lack the required intestinal fortitude to maintain the continuity of our communities. As your paper recently reported, this lack of "guts" is the main reason we are now paying 1994 prices for property in 1974.

Last year a professional planner was hired on a consulting basis to develop an updated long range plan for Mount Prospect. Could the lack of follow-up concerning details of this plan be because it did not support the high density developments pushed by Mayor Teichert?

The ability to prevail against the wishes of the people is not an attribute to be admired. The mayor has circumvented his own village ordinances as in the issue of the Brickman development at Camp McDonald and River Roads. I cannot equate this action to courageous government. It is just the continuing paternal attitude toward the usually disorganized residents and the supporting or at least acquiescing to big money developers who have speculated land prices and homes out of reach of more families every year. But, of course, isn't the profit so much greater on high density developments?

Meetings around state tonight

Dems to pick 'delegate electors'

by BOB LAHEY

Illinois Democrats will gather throughout the state tonight to decide who will pick the delegates to their "mini-convention" in Kansas City next December, a national conference which is expected to set the tone and direction of the party for the next four years.

Throughout Chicago's 50 wards, the 30 suburban Cook County townships and the 101 Downstate counties, open meetings will be held to elect 10 "delegate electors." Under rules designed to encourage widespread participation, any qualified voter declaring himself to be a Democrat will be allowed to vote.

This "open door" policy has resulted in an enthusiastic turnout of elector candidates, with "regular" party slates in most areas and a liberal sprinkling of "independents" and representatives of such organizations as the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education and the National Organization of Women.

THERE WILL be competition for the 10 spots in each of the five townships of the Northwest suburbs. Those elected will meet within each of the state's 24 Congressional districts to choose the delegates who will represent them at the Kansas City conference, which is expected to draft a new charter for the national party and consider rules for the 1976 presidential nominating convention.

The 106-member Illinois delegation will include two from the 12th Congressional District and three from the 10th District, according to a formula based on the total Democratic vote in the 1968 and 1972 presidential elections and the 1974 primary election.

With the exception of William B. Rose of Elk Grove Township, committeemen in each of the Northwest suburban townships have submitted their names as candidates for delegate elector.

The other candidates are:

MAINE Township (13) — Doris and Earl Wilson, Thomas Flynn (candidate for the Illinois House), Patton Feichter (candidate for the Illinois Senate), Norman Dachman (candidate for the Cook County Board), Nicholas Blase, township committeeman, all of Niles; Betty Ashman and Alvin Friedman of Morton Grove; Larry Wagner and Mark Junge of Park Ridge; Mary J. Berry and Thomas Paul of Des Plaines; and Lester Block of Glenview.

Margaret Pageler

PALATINE Township (15) — Donald Metevier, Walter Siroka, committeeman Richard Mugalian, Robert Giorich, Carol Berman, Marc Gaynes, W. Robert Olson, Mary J. Brooke, Patsy Griffin Kelley, Kathleen J. Torgersen, George J. Fruzyan III, Dominic Berta and Robert DiFatta, all of Palatine; and Rena Trevor and Roger L. Florey of Rolling Meadows.

SCHAUMBURG Township (15) — Ralph Norton, Leonard Goduto, Margaret Pageler, Edward Murphy, Sheryl Reynolds and Irene Pliske, all of Hoffman Estates; committeeman John Morrissey, John P. Kelley, John Carsello, Dennis Watts, and James Caruso, all of Schaumburg; Burton Friedman, Dominic DiNuzzo and Helen Rogale, all of Hanover Park; and Richard Lemole of Roselle.

WHEELING Township (20) — Committeeman Donald L. Norman, State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, Lucille Gallagher, Priscilla Powell, Raymond Carroll, Peter J. Wenzel, Rose McDonald, Gil Francis Tierney, Jeanne Peters, Judy Brady-Keller, George DeHague, Carol Wrabl, Witt Harwell, Barbara Woods and William E. Hendriksen, all of Arlington Heights; Harvey Sturman and Elizabeth Schmidt of Wheeling; Charlotte Franzone and Elizabeth Bates of Mount Prospect; and Harry Harlin, Buffalo Grove.

Each of the delegate electors selected Wednesday will have an equal share of the township's weighted vote when they convene to elect delegates on June 18.

In the 12th District, the votes will be distributed as follows: Wheeling Township, 17,856; Elk Grove Township, 11,035; Palatine Township, 9,360; Schaumburg Township, 9,253; Hanover Township, 5,498; Barrington Township, 9,253; and Lake County townships, 22,983.

In the 10th District: Niles Township, 43,799; Evanston Township, 28,408; Maine Township, 27,838; New Trier Township, 18,847 and Northfield Township, 12,480.

Summer school signup set

Summer school registration for High School Dist. 214 will continue through June 20 at the district's eight high schools.

Summer school classes will run through Aug. 2. All required classes are offered during summer school, along with elective and special courses.

Most courses are scheduled from 8 a.m. until noon on weekdays, with some scheduled in the afternoon and evening.

Among evening courses are music-drama classes which will prepare musicals for presentation later in the summer.

In addition, a social studies seminar titled "Awareness: Exploring, Experimenting and Experiencing" will be offered through Arlington High School Tuesday through Thursday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. The class will focus on philosophy, religion psychology and human relations.

Archdiocesan CCW to meet for annual workshop June 12

The Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, Vicariate 1 invites all officers, commission and committee chairman and interested women to attend the Sixth Annual Vicariate Workshop Wednesday, June 12, from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. It will be held at Carmel High School for Girls, Route 176, Mundelein. Registration is $1.50 per person which includes coffee and dessert.

Vicariate 1 membership consists of residents of all parishes in Lake County and those in Arlington Heights, Barrington, Bartlett, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg, Streamwood and Wheeling.

The workshop's theme is "The Christian Woman Today." The day's program will begin with registration and includes paralyturgy, individual workshop sessions for parish presidents, priest-moderators, and the commissions: organization services, church communities, family affairs, community affairs and international affairs and a general closing session.

AMONG AREA WOMEN conducting workshops will be Mrs. Robert Rebman of Elk Grove Village, president; and Mrs. Robert O'Reilly, Elk Grove, and Mrs. John Trunda, Wheeling, vice presidents; and Mrs. Daniel Murphy, Hoffman Estates, chairman of family affairs.

Aim of the individual sessions is to share experiences and introduce new ideas. Guest speakers, panel discussions, buzz sessions and exhibits will also be included in the workshop.

Those wishing reservations or further information may call Mrs. Rebman at 437-3048.

Arnold Klehm is married

When a professional nurseryman arranges a bridal bouquet he selects flowers fitting to the bride, her gown and the mood of the ceremony. Arnold John Klehm, son of Mrs. Carl Klehm, Elk Grove Village, and the late Mr. Klehm, chose two white phalaenopsis orchids and red and salmon roses for the cascade carried by his bride, Nancy Jean Dehmow.

Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. T. Dehmow, Wilmette, and the couple were married May 22 in the chapel of First Congregational Church of Wauwatosa, Wis., by Rev. Norman S. Ream, a friend of the bride's family.

Only the immediate families were present for the 11 a.m. double ring ceremony. Nancy and Arnie had no attendants. Besides their parents, Arnie's brothers and sister, Roy, Charles and Mrs. James Marlingall, and Nancy's brother and sister, Steve and Mrs. David Smith, were among the guests. After the service a reception was held in the Hillcrest Restaurant, Wauwatosa.

NANCY CHOSE A floor-length gown of white jersey fashioned with high neckline, long sleeves and a bodice outlined in bugle beads. Her fingertip veil was edged in lace.

Both Arnie, a graduate of Forest View High School, and his bride are graduates of the University of Illinois. Nancy majored in music history receiving her degree in 1974, and Arnie majored in ornamental horticulture receiving his degree in 1973. The couple met at the university when both were in the same choral group.

The groom is with the family business, Charles Klehm and Son Nursery, Arlington Heights, and for the summer Nancy is employed as an accompanist for a voice teacher at Northwestern University.

Newlyweds honeymoon in the islands

Four of the Hawaiian Islands were visited by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Meyers Jr. during their two-week honeymoon last month. Married May 11 in St. Joseph the Worker Church, Wheeling, the newlyweds are now residing in Wheeling.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Thomas O'Meara, 1704 N. Beech Road, Mount Prospect, the bride is the former Patricia Ellen O'Meara, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Meyers, 182 Sunrise, Wheeling.

The double ring service took place at 3:30 with Patricia wearing an Empire ivory gown of crepe with Venice lace trim on the bodice and sleeves. The hemline of her gown was in scallops and ended in a train. A camelot headpiece held her elbow-length veil, and she carried a cascade of ivory phalaenopsis, stephanotis and white ivory roses.

DONNA MARIE STINE of Des Plaines, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and her sisters, Elizabeth Scheffer and Maureen O'Meara, both of Mount Prospect, were bridesmaids. All

Homemaker confab opens Wednesday night at U of I

An estimated 450 Illinois homemakers are expected to attend the 37th Citizenship and Homemakers Extension Federation Organization Conference at the University of Illinois Wednesday through Friday.

Speakers will include Opal Mann, assistant administrator, home economics, for the USDA's Cooperative Extension Service; Pauline C. Paul, director of the UI School of Human Resources and Family Studies; and Constance McKenna, assistant director, home economics, UI Cooperative Extension Service.

Speaker for International night, June 5, is Rev. Hubert H. Temme, a native of Australia who will speak about that country. Australia is the site of this year's triennial conference for the Associated Country Women of the World of which the Illinois Homemakers Extension Federation is a member group.

Rev. Charley Willey, a family and marriage counselor, will speak at the banquet Thursday.

Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning, conference participants will be able to attend two classes on various consumer-related topics.

Classes will be taught by UI Extension Specialists Beatrice Bagby, family life; Irene Downey, foods and nutrition; Dorothy Goss, family economics; Marjorie Mead, clothing and textiles; Lawrence O'Reilly, health education; Karen Schmitzgrund, family economics; K. Virginia Seidel, home furnishings; and Marjorie Sohn, clothing and textiles.

The conference will close after a luncheon, June 7.

wore ivory chiffon gowns with matching jackets. Bodices of their gowns were trimmed in crewel embroidery. In their colonial bouquets were Abbey roses and natural greens with apricot ribbon streamers.

The groom's 4-year-old niece, Amy Malone, Antioch, was flower girl wearing a sheer floral print gown in the colors of the embroidery on the brides' gowns. Amy's flowers were the same as those carried by the other attendants.

The bride's 7-year-old brother, John, was ring bearer. Best man was Andrew Hanson, Janesville, Wis., and ushers were Chip Martin, Milwaukee, and Bruce Goldsworthy, Racine.

A reception for 175 guests was held at the Park Ridge Inn.

The new Mrs. Meyers is a graduate of Wheeling High School and employed by Allstate in Northbrook. Her bridegroom studied at the University of Wisconsin—Whitewater, and is now with the Kitchens of Sara Lee in Deerfield.

New bleached flour is usable faster

Dear Dorothy: I learn constantly from your column. What I'd like to know now is which is the best all-purpose flour to use for pie crust — bleached or unbleached? What are the benefits in using one over the other? — Mrs. Ruth Gaudman

I learn, too — as in researching this one. Unbleached all-purpose flour is a fairly recent entry in the market. Bleached flour not only has bleaching but maturing agents to speed up the process of the dough becoming soft and elastic in the baking. In short, it's usable faster. The unbleached or natural flour takes longer, therefore, to develop in the baking process. Because pie crust involves a simple process, it isn't necessary to use bleached flour. Either kind will work fine.

Dear Dorothy: Water is running from the bottom of our refrigerator. Friends say it means the drain is clogged. Is this something I can handle myself? — Helen Werthum

If your instruction book shows where the drain is, you might be able to handle it yourself. Our file shows several reports from readers on this problem. One used a rubber syringe to squirt hot water into the drain to clear it. Another used a syringe to siphon out the water and then hot water to dissolve the ice stopping up the drain. But if you have no book and are baffled, go ahead and call the service people. It's well worth the small amount involved for the call.

Dear Dorothy: The doctor put my husband on a strict diet — and really scared him. Do you have a recipe for low-calorie salad dressing? — Mimi K.

This one works fine in a blender: Two

TORONTO FUN SPOT. Ontario Place, situated in a triangular setting on the shore of Lake Ontario, is now open and liesure complex. predominates this aerial view of the 96-acre cultural complex. for the summer season until Sept. 3. The Cinesphere

3-island cultural complex Toronto's pride and joy

by STEPHEN McNAMÉE

Where in the world can you get an old view movie on a screen measuring 60 by 80 feet? Where can the young "get lost" in an elaborate three-tier funland? Where can you enjoy the pleasures of 10 licensed restaurants serving a variety of German, Chinese, Italian and Canadian food, or go shopping in a boutique area offering Eskimo and Indian artifacts?

The answer to these questions is to be found on a 96-acre cultural and leisure complex located on the three man-made islands in Lake Ontario. Known as Ontario Place, Toronto's pride and joy opened its gates last summer to almost three million visitors from Canada, Europe and the United States.

The spherical, domed motion picture theater — called the Cinesphere — is considered to be among the most advanced ever built. Seating 800 persons, the theater features the world's largest indoor curved screen. The 1974 season, which continues through September, is showing "Volcano," a dramatic actuality of the volcanic eruption which occurred in Iceland in January, 1973.

THE FORUM is Ontario Place's outdoor amphitheater. Accommodating 8,000 people — 2,000 under the translucent vinyl canopy, and 6,000 seated on the surrounding grassy slopes — the Forum spotlight is shared by celebrities from symphony orchestras, opera and ballet companies, and by stars from the rock, pop, jazz and country music fields. Styled after the classic Greek theater-in-the-round, the Forum presents a wide array of talent each evening throughout the summer and every weekend from Labor Day to October.

Perhaps the most imposing structure on the site is the Ontario Place Pavilion. Suspended 105 feet above the lake, this five-moduled steel and glass building contains nearly 250,000 cubic feet of exhibit theaters and restaurant space. The reception area features a Welcome Wall and a computerized map which inform the visitor about Ontario Place.

If you're between the ages of four and 14, Children's Village is where the action is. Adventures abound in this two-acre playground, featuring such dozzlers as the Earth Box Crawl, Soda Fountain Mountain and Foam Swamp. There's a gaping lion's jaw to explore for cavities and a crazy caterpillar shop, a rubber forest and a giant trampoline. Most of the area is covered by a bright orange canopy.

The latest addition to the village is simply called Water Play, which magnifies the glories of the water pistol, the garden hose, and the old swimming hole. Up to 480 soaking, splashing youngsters at once can enjoy Water Play's Tarzan-type rope swings, waterfalls and water cannons, then can parade happily into the mouth of a gigantic "beastie" which was thoughtfully built to double as a warm air drying room.

DURING THE SUMMER, yachtsmen from as far away as Florida berth their craft at the marina at Ontario Place. With a capacity of 320 boats, ranging up to 60 feet in length, the marina facilities include showers, rest rooms, telephones and restaurants. Reservations for space should be made early and in writing.

For sightseers, the HMCS Haida, a World War II and Korean War destroyer, is permanently berthed opposite the East Island. Sea cadets from Ontario train aboard the Haida throughout the summer months, and last year almost 200,000 visitors toured the ship.

The variety of cuisine at Ontario Place offers a price range to satisfy all tastes. Choose among seafood, roast beef, chow mein and hotdogs while enjoying good jazz, a folk ballad, or a band. Wine and dine on outdoor terraces or waterside decks. The "Island Ports" complex is another beautiful place to gather. Spectacular views of the Toronto skyline and a variety of interior settings offer wide scope for guest lists of up to 800 people.

SINCE ITS first weeks of operation in 1971, Ontario Place has risen to become one of Canada's fastest-growing tourist attractions. Space-age structures, experiential theaters, live entertainment, restaurants, boutiques, marina, spectacular films, Children's Village, and picnic areas provide a wide range of activities for people of all ages.

Ontario Place's summer program is in effect until Sept. 2. The park is open daily from 10 a.m. to 1 a.m. The autumn program runs from Sept. 4 through Oct. 14, weekends and holidays only.

General admission for adults is $1.50, juniors (13 to 17) $1, and children (12 and under, accompanied) are admitted free.

Where can I find out about farm vacations in the Midwest?

Mrs. R. B. Des Plaines
Down-on-the-Farm Vacations, a Springfield, Ohio, firm has packaged an assortment of farm vacations and farm tours in Ohio. Write them at 1828 Westward Dr., Springfield.

We'll be touring several European countries this summer. We are wondering about translating foreign menus since several of us are on special diets and want to be sure of what we are eating.

Mrs. T. L. Palatine
Write to TWA Department P.P., 605 Third Ave., New York, N.Y. 10016, and ask for their Menu Translator. It's a neat, wallet-sized chart for reading menus in French, German, Italian and Spanish. It's free.

We'll be stopping for a week at the French Riviera on a European tour in September. What kind of clothes should we have?

Mrs. J. P., Mount Prospect
It's glamorous, so take something sifffy. Dress up as much as you like — but leave your furs at home. A wool stole is better. Don't forget your sturdy footwear for walking on the cobblestone streets when you explore the hill towns.

Can we use Polaroid pictures for our passport photos?

L. D., Elk Grove Village
No. Go to a regular passport photo company for regulation passport pictures.

Should I take my electric razor to Europe with me?

R. T., Schaumburg
Safety razors are better. If you insist on taking an electric one you must have a small transformer and a set of adapter plugs, available at major department stores or electric shaver companies.

Expo '74 provides for the wheel-bound

SPOKANE — Expo '74 World's Fair management went all-out to see that the handicapped and parents with toddlers enjoy the fair pretty much on their own.

The grounds and most of the pavilions are easily negotiated by people in wheelchairs and on crutches (though there is an escalator in the Australian pavilion). Parents can rent strollers for their young ones or place youngsters with qualified personnel (including nurses) at the Lutheran Child Care Center — both at reasonable prices.

"Our aim was to make it easy for everybody to get around the fairgrounds and take in all the exhibits with minimum effort," said Peter L. Spurney, Expo general manager.

Strollers and wheelchairs are available from Expo Rentals, a private firm at all five of Expo's gates.

Prices for strollers is 75 cents an hour or $2.75 per 12-hour day. Wheelchairs rent for $1 per hour or $7.50 per 12-hour day.

And rolling them around the site is easy — surface grades were kept to no more than 8½ degrees on most of the grounds.

Yellowstone bracing for many backpackers

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. — Yellowstone National Park expects a record number of backpackers this year, according to Chief Ranger Harold J. Estey.

The park staff estimated in the late 1960s that only about 6,500 people a year ventured away from park roads, but by 1972 the count had soared to more than 55,000 each year.

Ten years ago the backpacker had the wilderness pretty much to himself but now restrictions have been imposed, including a back country registration system which gives rangers an opportunity to contact hikers and offer advice.

Mackinac Island under 'invasion'

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. — Since this tourist haven reopened for the summer last week, Mackinac Island has been invaded "like no time since the British recaptured it in 1812."

At least that's the opinion of R. D. Musser, president of the Grand Hotel, who reported a record week of business.

Musser and proprietors of some of the other 100-odd businesses on the island agree that if the past week is any prediction of the coming season, the energy crisis will have little effect on business.

The island, which bans motor vehicles in favor of bicycles and horse-drawn carriages and is accessible only by boat or plane, sits between Michigan's Upper and Lower Peninsulas, about 300 miles from Detroit.

"This past weekend, it looked like about the middle of summer," said a beaming Musser.

FRANK NEPHEW, president of the island's chamber of commerce, and Harry Ryba, the island's fudge and bicycle king, reported brisk sales of the famous Mackinac Island fudge — a delicacy that comes in several varieties including strawberry and pistachio nut.

However, due to a hike in the price of sugar from $12 to $31.50 a 200-pound bag, a pound of fudge now sells for $2.40 in the island's five candy shops. Last year, the island realized $324,000 in revenue for selling 445,000 pounds of fudge at $2 apiece.

Ryba reported all 395 of his bicycles were rented for the entire weekend, and Bob Hughey said he served standing-room-only crowds at his restaurant during most of the Memorial holiday.

One of the surest methods to gauge business activity, according to Nephew, is to count the number of horse-drawn carriages on Main Street.

"If business is poor with the horses, they all line up in the center of the street," he explained.

This past week, there was rarely a horse in sight.

hour layover at Canyon Station, passengers picnic and climb to a lookout point from which station buildings and the train are seen far below.

Ontario

Canadian province offers awesome scenery and a romantic way to experience it—by rail

Special to the Herald

Put Ontario in your travel plans this summer and you might wind up a passenger on one of the last great, romantic train rides in North America.

The vast Canadian province offers one-day family rail adventures through two of its untamed regions.

One is aboard the Ontario Northland Ry.'s Polar Bear Express, major lifeline for Indians and whites stretching from the supply center of Cochrane, 180 miles north to the Arctic tundra of the lonely outpost of Moosonee on James Bay.

THE OTHER is on the Algoma Central Ry. into storied Agawa Canyon, acclaimed as the most awesomely scenic region east of the Canadian Rockies.

Most of the year the Polar Bear with its mixed cargo of freight and passenger coaches, slips importunately out of Cochrane just three times a week. But in summer, when the tourists take over, timetables turn crazy.

Departing Cochrane at 8:15 a.m. and allowing for five hours to explore Moosonee and nearby Moose Factory Island before returning to Cochrane at 11 p.m., it is a journey through history.

Those wishing to linger longer in Moosonee may, with advance reservations, find accommodation in one of two comfortable establishments — ONR's Moosonee Lodge and the Polar Bear Lodge. There is also a government-run camp site for tenters.

To the first-tripper, the sights and sounds of Moosonee are about as familiar as those of Katmandu. This is no Hollywood version of a neat, tidy frontier town. It is a tough, gutsy working community in a land where nature forgives few mistakes.

IT'S A sparse, determined settlement where the solitude is broken daily by the roar of aircraft taking off to supply mail and provisions to the far-flung seal hunting grounds of Povungnituk or to the missionary and trading outposts scattered along the rugged shores of James and Hudson Bays to the north.

If they ever build a highway to Moosonee, and there's been talk of that, too, much of its appeal will die, for most of the fun is getting there aboard the Polar Bear Express.

Through totally different country from that of the Polar Bear's route is Algoma Central's one-day journey to the floor of Agawa Canyon, over 114 miles of a 296-mile railroad which took from 1899 to 1914 to complete.

The train departs sharply at 8 a.m. from ACR's "Soo" terminal in the heart of town. And before riders have finished breakfast in the diner, they're whisked into a wilderness wonderland so gloriously unspoiled as to almost defy belief.

IT FOLLOWS an incredible route through stretches of dense forest, along ledges of mountainous hills, over towering trestle bridges and into fjord-like ravines. An engineering feat in itself is at the entrance to Agawa Canyon where, in the distance of just 12 miles, the track level drops more than 500 feet onto the canyon floor.

While most passengers are content to sit by their windows and marvel at the passing panorama, others flock to the rear coach with cameras to capture the drama on film. At times their view finders will catch practically the entire train as it snakes around perpendicular cliffs, sometimes ranging between 1,411,500 feet above sea level.

The excursion takes 10 hours — four hours up, a two-hour stopover at Canyon Station, or Mile 114 — and four hours back by 6 p.m.

Fares for this adventure are $10 for adults and $5 for students and children, with youngsters under five riding free.

Craft program at Williamsburg

Young visitors between the ages of 8 and 16 will have the opportunity this summer to engage in craft experiences just as their ancestors did 200 years ago. Colonial Williamsburg's new innovation for the vacationing family, called "The Craftsman's Apprentice" program, will take place at the 18th century Powell-Waller House starting June 15.

Participants will be supervised by escorts who have received their training from Williamsburg craftsmen. They will instruct their apprentices in candle dipping, candlemaking, flax breaking and preparation, spinning and weaving.

Youngsters will actually make their own candles, learn to spin and weave flax and wool and weave linen.

Two learning sessions will be conducted daily from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. They will be open to children having a general admission ticket plus the "Craftsman's Apprentice" ticket, which is $2, and available at the Information Center.

VILLAS FOR COUPLES

Honeymooners and other couples can now rent luxury vacation villas in Jamaica at a new low price plan.

The new $175-a-week price, which includes a cook, maid and gardener, will be in effect through the months of June, September and October, Nov. 1 to 15 and Dec. 1 to 15.

Travel briefs

Most of the villas included in the plan have two bedrooms and many have private swimming pools and beach privileges. The villas are located in the Ocho Rios area. All are regularly inspected for upkeep and cleanliness by the Jamaica Association of Villas and Apartments.

For further details contact JAVA, Jamaica, 200 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017, or contact the Jamaica Tourist Board in Chicago at 356-1546.

SIX FLAGS OPEN EVERY DAY

Six Flags Over Mid-America, the giant family amusement center near St. Louis, is open daily — with more than $2 million in new attractions.

Located on Interstate 44 southwest of St. Louis, the Park will be open Sundays through Fridays from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Saturdays until 11 p.m. through Labor Day.

The one-price daily ticket of $6.50 for adults and $5.50 for children entitles guests to ride all the rides and see all the shows as many times as they wish that day. A two-day ticket is also available to permit persons wishing to spend the weekend at the park to do so economically. The two-day ticket is $8.75 for adults and $6.75 for children.

Travel lore

by Clare Wright
TRAVEL EDITOR

Venice may be everyone's loss . . .

If Venice should die — as some scientists say she could — the world will have lost one of her greatest treasures.

I cannot bear to think of this queen of cities facing destruction. Yet there she is — slowly, slowly, steadily sinking into the Adriatic.

But now there may be hope. The Venice Committee of the International Fund for Monuments, a non-profit organization headquartered in New York City, has launched a campaign to raise more than $1 million to finance restoration work it has undertaken in the city of canals.

UNDER THE plan, Venetian hoteliers, merchants and restaurateurs have agreed to grant any tourist presenting a Save Venice Committee membership card a 10 per cent discount on all goods and services.

It wasn't so long ago that we walked through the magnificent Piazza San Marco of Venice, and cruised by gondola through the city's canals, as a sad-eyed Venetian pointed out awesome watermarks that tell the tragic story. Venice is sinking at the rate of an inch a year.

Nowhere else in the world can you find anything like Venice. It's a phenomenon of past glory — a thrilling cacophony of sounds — a romantic place where you can wander narrow, winding lanes for hours and come upon exciting, overlooked corners — or step through drab doorways and find tiny, exquisite piazzas or a gem like the Scalzi church, Santa Maria di Nazaret, where the very last of the Doges lies buried.

SURE! WE DID all the obvious things you MUST do when you go to Venice.

We fed the pigeons in the Piazza San Marco, walked across the Bridge of Sighs, marveled at superb Doges' Palace, and took a romantic night-time ride on a sleek, tall-prowed, black gondola.

But there's more to Venice than this. There are twenty-one marvelous museums and art galleries to browse through. And palaces and churches by the dozens.

If you're an antique buff, Venice is filled with shops you'll go wild over — furniture, paintings and jewelry.

WE FOUND most of these shops fairly expensive, but we walked along the narrow streets that swing out of Piazza San Marco from the side of the square opposite the Basilica and found several, all near the Grillo Palace Hotel, where prices are more practical.

We also came across some fascinating arts and crafts shops across the Grand Canal and back of the Accademia Gallery.

One of our favorite memories of Venice is the afternoon we went wandering — partly by gondola and partly on foot — and came upon the small church of San Zaccaria. It's one of the city's oldest and has a magnificent altar piece by Bellini and frescoes by Andrea del Castagno.

Plantation tour a Jamaican feature

RUNAWAY BAY, Jamaica (UPI) — A tourist highlight in Jamaica is the tour of the Runaway Bay Plantation, which grows a variety of exotic crops such as pimiento, coconut, banana, ackee, pineapple, sour sop, sapodilla and a loafah vine.

That same day we had lunch at one of the quayside fish restaurants on the Island of the Giudecca — a favorite spot of artists and writers.

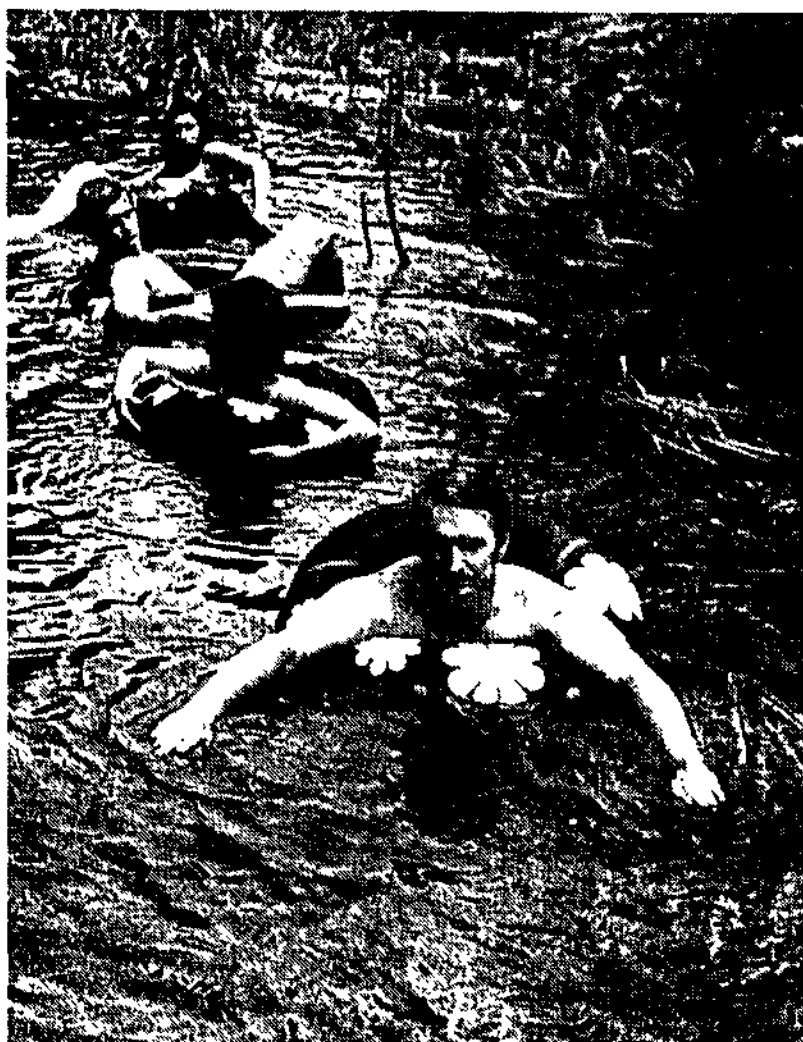

We liked the islands in the lagoon around Venice. Burano is especially picturesque with its lacemakers and fishermen. An old wooden footbridge connects Burano to quiet Mazzorbo. Ancient Torcello has a Byzantine cathedral, a palace and other medieval buildings.

ON THE ISLAND of Murano we watched the glassblowers ply their ancient craft and picked out some exquisite souvenirs.

I'm enough of a cockeyed optimist to trust that Venice WILL be saved. The committee trying to restore this timeless city hopes to enroll 50,000 members in its new drive.

For information on the "Save Venice" plan, write the Venice Committee, International Fund for Monuments, Inc., 15 Gramercy Park, New York, N.Y. 10003.

Venice — with all its glory and charm — its wonderful people and cats and pigeons — its frescoes and piazzas — its great history and culture — simply CAN- NOT die!

NO REFUELING NEEDED! A "floatilla" of tubers splashes its way down North-Central Florida's popular Ichetucknee River.

Save gas — float

In these days of fuel shortages, Florida offers a luxury cruise that's cheap, doesn't use gasoline and puts the cruiser as close to nature as he can get.

The cruise is actually a float trip down three miles of the spring-fed Ichetucknee River, near Fort White on U.S. Rte. 27 in central Florida.

The cruise vessel is an ordinary tire inner tube. The only energy expended is a kick or two, and an arm wave now and then to keep the floater on course.

Ichetucknee Springs, from which the river gets its name, is situated amid a dense growth of hardwoods. The spring water filters through an underground labyrinth of limestone, emerging pure and cool, a constant 72 degrees throughout the year.

Tubing on the Ichetucknee is a gentle adventure and one that is irreversible.

Many floaters wear swim masks and snorkels for a fish-eye view. The white sandy bottom reflects the darting movements of small fish and the slow waving of aquatic grasses, ferns and mosses.

THE ORIENT

The graciousness and beauty of the people of the Orient are legend. The excitement of the busy, big cities can be contrasted with the relaxation of the resort spas off the beaten track. Shopping and bargains are unparalleled, variety in foods, scenery and entertainment is great.

It all can be enjoyed by you if you join me on my Orient Tour, leaving Nov. 2. The 15-day trip includes Tokyo, Beppu, Kyoto, Taipei & Hong Kong with round trip air fare from Chicago, accommodations at elegant hotels, 26 meals, full American breakfasts, comprehensive sightseeing programs, transfers & tips included. Those who wish may accompany me for 7 additional days to Singapore, Penang and Bangkok. Deposits for reservations are being accepted now.

For more information, call 392-6320 or stop in at ROBERTA FISHER TRAVEL AGENCY, Inc., 14 E. Northwest Hwy., across from the train station in Arlington Heights.

State champ Sloan still tosses shot daily; seeks other goal

by ART MUGALIAN

John Sloan got what he was after.

The Rolling Meadows High School senior finally captured that elusive state shotput title after two years of trying. Sloan's winning put of 60 feet, four inches was comfortably ahead of his closest competition at the state meet at Charleston.

But even though the crown is his, Sloan continues to toss the shot every day on the grassy field east of the school. The 6-foot-11, 220-pound Mustang still has more goals in sight.

And Sloan keeps working on technique. The process is a rigorous one that tests the nerves of the big shotputter, his head coach Joe Vitton and his weight tutor Larry Ghilardi.

For Sloan it is a never-ending pursuit of the ideal form, the perfect motion, which will bring him the most satisfying results.

"Each put is a coordination of movement involving every part of the body,"

"When I first saw him, I knew he'd be a good one."

said Ghilardi, a shotputter in his own day at Illinois Benedictine College and an English teacher at Rolling Meadows.

John Sloan's immediate objective is the International Meet to be held this Saturday at Prospect High School.

"Sixty-two or 63 feet should win the International — that's what Coach Vitton said, and I think I can throw sixty-three," Sloan said while working out last week.

The Mustang shotputter started his workout by snapping 10 or 12 puts about 45 feet and doing a few handstands. Then he was ready to begin throwing.

"I was pretty upset with John over some of the things he said to the press at the state meet," Ghilardi noted. "Like saying he doesn't work out uch. That's not the way to get a scholarship. John sometimes tries to make it sound like it comes naturally to him. Actually he works very hard. He might not realize it all the time."

Sloan tossed the 12-pound shot perhaps 30-35 times in the course of the 40-minute workout. But Ghilardi indicated that it was light compared to some other practices they have held.

"He's thrown an hour and a half of straight throws — 80 or 90 of them and all over 60 feet," the weight coach said. "On the Friday of the meet, John had 25 throws. Some coaches would say that's a hard workout."

Ghilardi put Sloan on a training program that emphasized throwing the shot. Sloan lifts weights only once a week.

"We'd go to meets and the other kids would talk about how much weight they had to lift," said Ghilardi. "I believe work and strain are necessary, but my philosophy is that a good workout is always performing the event."

Ghilardi got his first look at the future state champion when Sloan transferred to Rolling Meadows after spending his first year of high school at Elk Grove. As a freshman, Sloan weighed about 175 pounds and he was a high jumper.

"I high jumped and I ran," said this year's top shotputter. "But I pulled too many muscles."

Sloan says with a wide grin that he first threw the shot in sixth grade, but it wasn't until John came to Rolling Meadows and began working with Ghilardi that the 12-pound hunk of iron became a prominent fixture in his life.

"I've coached John ever since Meadows opened up," Ghilardi said. "When I first saw him, I knew he'd be a good one. I was right when I said he'd throw 54 feet as a sophomore, and the first couple days I watched John last year, I had said he would hit 60 and he did."

"This year our goal was 65 feet and I think he's going to get it — maybe in the International Meet."

The 65-foot mark was one of two goals that Sloan, Ghilardi, and Vitton wanted to reach this year. The other goal was the state title.

Last year, as a junior, Sloan developed fast and got off a 60% put in the Mid-Suburban League meet. It represented the season's best throw in the state up to that time and it gave John's coaches some cause for optimism in the state meet.

But Sloan buckled under the pressure at Champaign and he failed to qualify for the finals. He was even surpassed by a pair of rival MSL shotputters.

But at this year's meet at Charleston two weeks ago, the Mustang ace put it all behind him — the pressure, the disappointment, the failure.

"I wasn't thinking about last year," said Sloan, adding with a smile, "I just thought that if I lost, I was going to kill myself. If I lost, I couldn't come back to school here."

Sloan acquired the confidence he needed in 1974. He not only had the best shot put in the state — 61-8 at the Mustang Relays — he owned several of the top puts. John was consistently in the 58-61 foot range in the big meets.

Vitton had predicted the state title for Sloan three days before it came. "John hasn't lost a meet this season and he wants to keep it that way," the Meadows coach had said. "There's only one way he can do that."

The Mustang head man predicts more big things for Sloan. "I think he has unlimited potential as a shotputter in college, especially if he goes to a good track school with a good program."

Sloan has been visited by recruiters from Indiana University and Southern Illinois, primarily, but he has received no full-scholarship offers as yet. Several recruiters have been waiting to see if John would win the state crown.

"Indiana has a coach with a very disciplined training program," Vitton pointed out. "I think that with the addition of a weight program, John will put on 20 or 30 more pounds and he'll be a super thrower. He already has the speed, the natural talent, and the technique. John is a technique man."

And Sloan continued to work on technique in the Rolling Meadows pit.

"Watch John's left elbow," Ghilardi instructed. "If it comes around and points out at us, it will be a good throw. You won't even have to watch the shot. It'll go just to the left of that stake out there and it will be a good throw."

And it was. But Sloan and Ghilardi know that constant work is crucial to shotputters. "We've been working almost two months on the proper timing at that critical point," Ghilardi said. "That split second of release when he moves the arm while the body is driving into the throw."

"It's all a question of the body understanding the throw," continued Ghilardi. "Now John can feel inside himself the difference between a throw that's just right and one that's not right."

Sloan had tossed the shot 65-4 while warming up at the state meet and his coaches were certain he would come close to the state record of 64-2 1/2, and maybe break it. But it didn't happen.

"Sometimes John tries too hard," Ghilardi noted. "And there's always the fear of fouling. In practice, you just let it go, but in a meet the chance of foul is always in the back of your mind."

Now Sloan has one remaining opportunity to set a Herald-area mark in the shot put. At the International meet he will be gunning for Andy Merutka's 62-9 1/2, a record the Palatine star set in 1962. Sloan already holds the MSL mark — 60-4 1/2.

After that, John Sloan must begin thinking about college competition and the heavier 16-pound shot. He will be working with the 16-pounder this summer.

In college, Sloan may be limited to the shot put, even though the recruiters are looking for versatility in track and field prospects. John's experience with the discus is minimal.

"This year we made the shot the main event for him," said Ghilardi. "We just worked on the discus enough to win the meets. But it's too easy to foul up with both events."

The weight coach figures that if Sloan were to concentrate on the discus, it could be his better event. But an athlete has to like what he is doing, Ghilardi pointed out, and Sloan's preference is the shot. For the same reason, the coach feels, John will probably give up football.

For Sloan — a lifelong resident of Rolling Meadows — the shot put is everything, especially at times such as this, out on the field with his coach, tossing the 12-pound shot again and again.

"I think he has unlimited potential as a shotputter in college, especially if he goes to a good track school with a good program."

Right now, John Sloan is just a curly-haired high school kid with a lot of dedication and a state title. Someday, if everything falls into place, he may be world champion.

But right now, as his classmates linger on their way home to glimpse a state champ in action, Sloan works hard on his form.

John Sloan says his long range goal is the 1978 Olympics, and watching him sweat and fume in the hot sun at Rolling Meadows, somehow that seems right.

Harper's plight—just one man short

by DON FRISKE

Harper was just one man short of a first place finish in the Skyway Conference this season.

That one man, according to coach John Ellasik, was a pitcher.

"We had a good season," explained Ellasik, "but we were one pitcher short of winning more games."

The Hawks finished in the second spot in the conference with an 8-3 record, the fourth time they finished in the first division in six seasons.

"If we'd have gotten to play out the season, we probably would have added some wins to the record," said Ellasik.

The team finished 17-8 overall. Due to about two weeks of rain at the end of the campaign, the Hawks had to cancel some games.

Next year, the Skyway Conference hopes to alleviate the weather problem somewhat. They will be scheduling doubleheaders to shorten the schedule while keeping the same amount of games.

This will mean that pitching will be more of a problem for the Hawks next year if they don't come up with some recruits for the position.

"We had some strong pitchers this year," commented Ellasik. "We just lacked depth."

Harper's three top pitchers this year won't be back next year. Terry Kukla, who pitched 44 1/3 innings, finished the season with a 5-1 record and a 2.03 ERA. Ken Gast, with 64 1/3 innings, collected three wins in five decisions, with 45 strikeouts and a 2.95 ERA.

Bob Frantell earned a 4-1 mark with a 3.01 ERA in the 32 2/3 innings that he pitched.

"The Hawks had a strong defensive team and an ample offensive that had four players hitting over .300.

"If you have strong pitching and defense in the Skyway, you're hitting doesn't have to be that strong," said Ellasik.

Triton, the team that finished ahead of the Hawks, won first place with a strong mound staff.

Thier number one pitcher was also number one in the state. Their number two pitcher has been drafted by the White Sox, and their number three was undefeated in Skyway games.

Harper's hitters were led by Mark Jesse, who finished ninth in the state with a .405 average. Rich Luzinski, who hit .367 overall, placed third in conference hitting with a .353 average.

Luzinski, leading the Hawks with 32 hits, was voted as the team's most valuable player. The voting was done by his teammates.

Other .300 hitters for the Hawks were Jim Brown (.333) and Keith Steelman (.326). Joe Dimaggio finished at .294.

Luzinski and Jesse tied for the team lead in runs-batted-in with 16 apiece.

Ellasik felt that the team did well considering that they got off to a slow pre-season start. The Hawks were without an indoor facility and weather was against them in their pre-season conditioning efforts.

Defensive ability and hitting are the two things that Ellasik looks for in his players. Speed doesn't factor much in his evaluation.

This year the Hawks only had two baserunners that Ellasik had confidence in to steal a base.

"My philosophy is that we won't take

FIELD DAY. Key Sprehe accepts a plaque commemorating ceremonies to dedicate Forest View's baseball field in honor of her late husband, Hal. Participating in the pregame activities last Friday were, from left, Athletic Director Bill Beckman, Principal Jack Martin, Kathy Sprehe, Howard Lester, Karla Sprehe, Mrs.

Sprehe, Karen Sprehe and Dr. Lawrence Jenness, who was principal at the school at the time of Hal Sprehe's accidental death five years ago. The former Falcon baseball coach will be honored again this coming Sunday at Prospect through the first annual Hal Sprehe Memorial All-Star game.

ONE OF the reasons why Fremd will be playing in the Mid-Suburban League championship this week is Jeff Brisson, the Vikings' talented centerfielder.

Pirates defeat Falcons in finale

Just like Captain Kidd, Buddy Hughes led the Palatine Pirates on one last raiding party Monday to close out the regular 1974 Mid-Suburban League baseball season and his own impressive prep career.

The result was an 8-0 victory for the plunderers at Forest View and Hughes himself did just about everything from burying the treasure and directing the enemy off the plank to raising the Jolly Roger at game's end.

On the mound the big right hander heaved a four hitter, walking just one and striking out six to notch his third shutout of the campaign. At the plate he went three-for-three including a triple and a home run, stole a base, scored three times and batted in four mates.

Buddy's first swing of the bat was all Palatine needed to send the recently crowned South Division champs down to defeat for only the sixth time in 16 loop meetings this spring. With two away in the top of the first and Chris Burrus, who had walked, and Jim Maycan, who had singled, aboard, he laced one out deep to left center and pulled up at third with his eighth extra base hit of the year.

An error allowed him to score before the side was retired and the visitors owned a 3-0 lead.

In the fourth Hughes led off with a walk, stole second, was singled to third by Jim Luzinski and dashed home after Luzinski had pilfered second base. Palatine picked up two more runs in the fifth when Lon Snyder walked, Burrus reached on a fielder's choice and an error and a single by Maycan brought both runners in to score.

For insurance, the Pirates added another couple of tallies in the seventh. With two away Lon Marchel singled and Hughes proceeded to unload one over the fence in left center for his third home run of the season.

The Falcons had several scoring opportunities but were unable to sustain any rally. Jim Petran walked to lead off the home first and was cut down stealing. Later in the same inning Jim Campbell singled.

A one base-rap by Keith Keller in the fifth and an error off the bat of Tom Culkar in the sixth were the next base runners allowed but they both reached after two outs and never advanced past first.

Then in the seventh Bill Simon led off with a single and one out later pinch hitter Ken Butzen also singled with Simon moving on to third. Hughes however conjured up a strikeout and a ground out to preserve the shutout and Palatine's tenth win against six setbacks in conference play this year.

The decision was also the eighth winning verdict for Hughes in 1974, tying a single season MSL record set last year for victories by Larry Monroe of the Falcons.

Big Buddy also appeared in 12 of Palatine's 16 games this season and padded several other records Monday, which he had set earlier in the spring. He finished with 77 1/3 total innings pitched for one mark and wound up with 109 strikeouts for another.

Western loaded with 'the greats'

Shining through the pages of the Western Open Championship record book are the names of some of the greatest players in the game's history — names which span more than a half-century of winning performances in golf's greatest classic.

One of those names is that of Billy Casper, who won his fourth Western Open last summer at Midlothian. Casper, winner of the 1959 and 1966 U.S. Opens and the 1970 Masters crown, will defend his Western title June 27-30 at Butler National Golf Club in this western suburb.

Should Billy repeat, he'll match the five Western Open titles won by Walter (The Hag) Hogen, one of the game's most colorful stars. Hogen, in addition to those five Western titles, twice was U.S. Open victor, won four British Opens and captured five P.G.A. titles.

Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen each captured Western Open titles and each won the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and the P.G.A. Twice winner of the Western (in 1946 and 1948), "Bantam Ben" won four U.S. Opens, one British Open crown, twice took the Masters and won the P.G.A. classic in 1948 and 1949.

Sarazen won once in Western, U.S. Open, British Open and Masters competition and was a three-time winner of the P.G.A.

Jack Nicklaus, golf's all-time money and major title winner, won the Western in 1967 and 1968. His P.G.A. win last summer gave him his 14th major title, surpassing Bobby Jones' record of 13.

Swimming aides meeting Saturday

There will be an important meeting at Olympic Pool Saturday morning at 10:00 for all Arlington youngsters who wish to serve as swimming aides for the park district pools this summer.

The swimming aides are a volunteer group for youngsters 12 years of age and over who have had junior lifesaving. Their main purpose is to aid the lifeguards in the pools with the beginning classes. A number of the present instructors were former aides for the park program.

All those attending the meeting are requested to bring their swim suits.

There are still many openings in the advanced beginner, intermediate, swimmer, advanced swimmer, diving and lifesaving classes. Also, all youngsters wishing to swim on the local park teams in the City League are requested to register as soon as possible.

The synchronized swim class that was listed in the summer brochure at Olympic will be at Recreation Park instead. It will be directed by Sue Dragoon.

4 Maine players receive berths on CSL star team

The Central Suburban League All-Star baseball team has been released and it was nearly a washout for area schools. Only four players from Maines East, West and North to the 31-man first squad.

East placed senior infielder Ron Parker and junior outfielder Mike Lauesen. West's only qualifier was senior pitcher Jay Liggett who CSL coaches also recommended for All-State honors. North's only honoree was junior infielder Kevin Patten.

The All-Star team was selected from players named to the All-North and All-South division squads. Maine West infielder Jeff Schwarz made the South squad. John O'Connor, Dan Myska and Mike Kelley were honorable mention choices.

Honorable mention on the North division team included Maine North's George Kaufman and Bob Kelley plus East's Mike Donatucci.

The following players were selected first team All-Conference:

Infielders — Maine East's Parker, Maine North's Patten, Deerfield's Curt Anderson, Glenbrook South's Kurt Brucksch and Steve Hurley, Niles West's Chuck DeLeonardis and Bob Krueger, Glenbrook North's Rusty Piggott, Niles North's Scott Wayman, New Trier West's Scott Weiner, Niles East's Lee Wisniewski and Maine South's Keith Zdob.

Outfielders — Maine East's Lauesen, Deerfield's Dave Koopman, Niles North's Dave Kruse, Glenbrook South's George Lallo, Glenbrook North's Rick Liebow, Maine South's Pat Morrison and Highland Park's Neil Swire.

Pitchers — Maine West's Liggett, New Trier West's Dave Bulwa and Les Shapiro, Niles West's Kevin Gillon, Glenbrook South's Mark Kellerman, Niles North's Terry Luckman, Maine South's Dave Patterson and Glenbrook North's Scott Sanderson.

Catchers — Highland Park's Mike Bonamarte, Glenbrook South's Mark Helmrich, Niles East's Rich Rubin and Niles West's Bill Sorenson.

chances until we have the lead," explained Eliasik. "Speed doesn't play that much a part in the make-up of a strong team. It just adds a dimension to a team to make it better."

Eliasik will also be looking for some front-line pitchers next year to bolster his team's chances for a first place conference finish.

The Hawks have earned that distinction twice before and their overall record is 91-69 for six years.

Hersey's sports banquet tonight

Hersey High School will hold its spring banquet at 6:45 p.m. this evening in the main student cafeteria. There will also be a short general meeting of the Boosters club afterwards.

Baird and Warner still No. 1

Baird and Warner Realtors gained five-of-seven points from Hussissian and Associates to maintain first place in standings of the Old Orchard Scratch League last Friday night. The winners were led by Bob Kronn's 36, Jim Kurtyka's 38 and Bill Kleiner's 39. George Johnson shot a 40 for Hussissian.

C. P. Floors and Team No. 8 each won five and one-half points. Floors defeated Sauganash Corporation to maintain second place in the league. Team No. 8 bested Miles and Miles Insurance. Bob Burrows Chevrolet took five points from Team No. 7.

Forties by Jack Shanley and Mike Melchiorre plus a 41 by Clarence Peterson gave C. P. Floors its victory. Bill Hugo gave Sauganash its only winning points with a 40.

Frank Matys shot 36, Bob Lee 40 and Marty Kolar 41 as Team No. 8 picked up its win over Miles and Miles. The losers' only winning points were gained by Jim Walter who shot 40.

Ralph Ganzer shot 34, Ed Jackson 42 and Mark Ganzer 48 as Bob Burrows Chevrolet defeated Team No. 7. Rick Pazderski had 38 and Russ Bedford 43 for the losers' points.

That action enabled Baird and Warner to total 28 points for the season, a four and one-half point lead over C. P. Floors. Third place goes to Sauganash Corporation with 17 points.

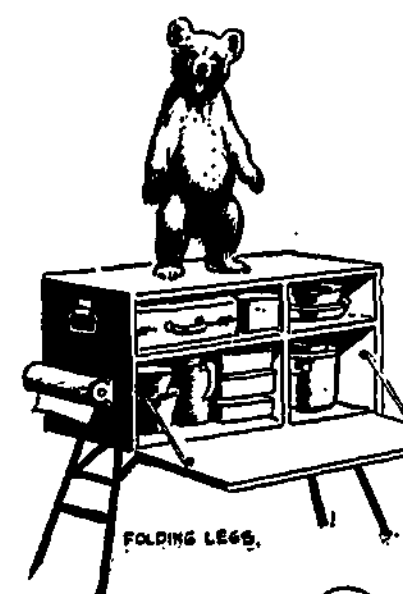

Winners of a Tiffist ball for closest to the pin shots on par three holes were Greg Carney on three, Tom Wallace on seven, Bob Altermott on 11 and Jim Kurtyk on 14.

Northwest Suburban YMCA places third in state gym championship

Northwest Suburban YMCA captured third place in the state championships in Decatur, Ill. with Mike and Gary Dumrauf, Ken Oppenheimer, Todd Moderhack and Kurt Kaunzinger earning awards.

Mike Dumrauf, competing in the Mid-et division, finished second in all-around, third on both parallel bars and floor exercise, fourth on still rings, fifth on high bar and sixth in vaulting.

Gary Dumrauf, participating in the same division as an eight-year-old, garnered thirds on still rings and parallel bars and sixths in floor exercise and all-around.

Fourteen-year-old Ken Oppenheimer notched second on parallel bars in the Junior class, added fourths on high bar and side horse, a fifth in all-around and a sixth in floor exercise.

Moderhack, 13, clicked for a fifth on side horse and a pair of sixths on still rings and in all-around.

In the Prep division, 11-year-old Kurt Kaunzinger recorded fourths on the floor and on still rings; fifths on high bar and parallel bars and sixths in vaulting and all-around.

MAKE HASTE SLOWLY OR PROGRESS BY SMALL STEPS CONSUMERISM - HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES

CONSUMERISM IS AT WORK IN STRANGE WAYS. I WANT TO SHARE MY THOUGHTS WITH YOU, HEART-TO-HEART, ON THE SUBJECT THE NEXT FEW WEEKS. I HOPE YOU'LL PARTICIPATE WITH ME.

There have been three distinct consumer movements, the first two subsiding over a period of years. It is not expected, however, that the third and current flare-up will diminish, but rather that it will become more and more the center of legislative action - not only in America but around the world.

THE EARLY 1900's

The earliest consumer push came from rising prices. Upton Sinclair's writings, and ethical drug scandals. As a result Congress passed the Pure Food and Drug Act (1906), the Meat Inspectors Act (1906) and created the Federal Trade Commission (1914).

THE 1930's

Factors in the second consumerism surge were rising prices (in a depression), the sulfanilamide scandal and the widely imitated Detroit housewives strike. These culminated in a strengthening of the Pure Food and Drug Act and enlargement of the Federal Trade Commission's power to regulate against unfair or deceptive acts and practices.

THE MID - 1960's

An increasingly educated (from 8th grade level average in 1900 to 12th grade level in 1970 - and heading for second year college by 2000) and sophisticated consumer body agitated and increasingly strained relations between standard business practices and their own long-range interests. It was also boosted by General Motors attempts to discredit Ralph Nader (which backlashed and made a consumer hero of him), the thalidomide scandal, rising prices, the mass media and President Lyndon Johnson's "Consumer Interest Message".

There you have a short course in modern consumerism, a topic which is developed in-depth in many thousands of fat books. It is, increasingly, subject matter which finds its way into junior high school, high school and college textbooks and courses. Most people, I think, are encouraged by this educational trend, feeling that consumer emphasis better prepares young people for the exigencies of adult life.

Miss America eats hamburgers

by FRANK S. SWERTLOW

NEW YORK — The reporter walks briskly into the headquarters of the National Broadcasting Co. He is nervous and his eyes dart about the multitude shuttling through the lobby. His mission: lunch with Miss America.

The reporter tugs at his tie, then straightens his hair. He is ready for his appointment and marches through the mammoth building like a doomed man.

In a few minutes, he will meet Miss America, the one Bert Parks gives away each year. And he is a bit shaky.

"What do I say to her?" he asks himself as the elevator lifts him to his destiny. "Will she like me?"

THE ELEVATOR opens and the reporter is met by an NBC public relations woman. She comforts him; she is friendly. But he is still uneasy. She will be his guard on his last mile.

The reporter makes some small talk as they walk down a narrow corridor to the confrontation.

"Let me introduce you to Miss America, Rebecca Ann King," she says.

Flash! The reporter is blinded by a toothpaste smile.

Miss King is joined by Irene, a representative of the Miss America Co.

"I'm just a guardian angel," says Irene as the group heads toward a restaurant on a lower level.

The reporter feels more secure as he sits down at a table with his entourage.

"Maybe someone will recognize her," he thinks. "Maybe they'll think she is his date."

MISS AMERICA then pushes her elegant fingers through her silky, blonde hair as her eyes slide down the menu. She thinks for a moment and then decides:

"I think I'll have a hamburger," she says and smartly folds the menu.

"What an American," the reporter says to himself as he and the others order their meal.

The reporter summons his courage to begin the interrogation.

"Why don't we wait till after we eat?" Irene interrupts.

Flash! He is hit by another smile from Miss America.

"I'm not a beauty queen," she says, putting her smile away. "The Miss America contest is not a beauty pageant. It's more relevant."

The reporter files this in his mental notebook.

"PEOPLE EXPECT me to have a crown on my head all of the time," Miss America says. "Well I don't — and for the swimsuit, you put it away for ever once the contest is over."

The reporter is crestfallen.

Miss America confided that after her reign she plans to go to law school and pursue a career as an attorney. "I don't want to be a corporation lawyer," she says. "But I wouldn't mind owning my own law firm."

Irene slips her drink. And Miss America smiles again...

Win at bridge

Another end play does it

The letter "R" in the code word "ARCHIE" stands for "Review the bidding." It is usually less important than the other letters which stand for "Analyze the lead," "Count your winners and losers" and "How can I make my contract." But there are times when it is important.

South ruffs the third diamond and sees that in order to make his contract he can only afford to lose one spade trick. The simple play to do this is to play East for the jack of spades. However, if South reviews the bidding he will remember that West overcalled one spade and is almost certain to hold the jack.

The play is not obvious but it can be worked out. South starts with two rounds of trumps. The suit breaks so there is no need to play a third round. Then he ruffs dummy's last diamond, plays ace king and another club to eliminate that suit and finally leads out his king of spades.

West takes his ace and is helpless. If he leads the suit back, South lets it ride around to his 10. If he leads something else, South ruffs in dummy and discards a spade.

Transient ischemic attacks—little strokes

I have what they call transient ischemic attacks. I'm on Coumadin to help the circulation of my blood. They told me my blood was flowing good through the veins, but what I can't understand is why do I have the numbness all the time now on my left side. I have been to two doctors. They both told me they could do nothing for the numbness. It bothers me so at night. I hope you can give me some information. I'm 63.

Transient ischemic attacks are sometimes called little strokes. They are the result of disease in the arteries in the brain. It's the same disease that affects the arteries to the heart and causes heart attacks and strokes.

Breaking down the term, ischemia refers to lack of blood. The ischemia of the brain, in this case, is caused by the disease in the arteries. Since they occur as short episodes, they are called transient. The attacks are very much like a stroke, except the episodes are of short duration. Usually they only last five to 20 minutes.

With such episodes it's common to have temporary difficulty in speech or temporary paralysis of an arm or leg or even difficulties in vision. In the more common episodes there is no residual damage. However, the fact that you complain of some continued difficulty suggests to me that you've had some relatively permanent damage to some of the brain cells.

ALTHOUGH FROM your letter this doesn't seem to be your problem, multiple little episodes can eventually destroy many of the brain cells in the gray matter or the brain cortex. This, in turn, can cause individuals to have personality changes and may cause forgetfulness and other mental changes. The personality and mental changes may occur in the absence of any physical findings such as paralysis or difficulty in speech or vision. If one did not know the individual before such little strokes occurred, they might not recognize that the individual had the problem.

Transitory attacks may recur for one or two years, and then suddenly there won't be any. Some individuals only have one or two episodes and don't have any recurrence after that. Anyone who has such a problem deserves a careful study of the circulation to the brain. In some instances there is disease involving arteries outside the skull in the neck region or elsewhere that affects the circulation to the brain. The problems in these areas can often be corrected surgically.

I WOULD presume that the numbness that you complain of is directly related to damage of brain cells and in that case there is, indeed, very little else that can be done about it at this time. It is true that the function of any muscles that are involved with any form of stroke can be improved and helped with physiotherapy. This is sometimes important to prevent loss of function later. So, I would think the important thing in your case might be maintaining the full range of activity and motion of your arms, legs and various muscles.

I note that you refer to the circulation in your veins. Actually the area that doctors are interested in is the circulation through your arteries. I am sure your doctors meant the circulation through your arteries at this time is all right. The Coumadin you are taking is to prevent any further clotting episodes in the arteries that could cause new attacks.

Corruption

Anton R. Valukas, key Thompson aide, sees a change in the public's attitude

The public's attitude toward corruption is changing, according to Assistant U.S. Atty. Anton R. Valukas, a key man in the Justice Department's effort to eliminate bribery and extortion schemes involving suburban Chicago officials.

"I have been disturbed by what has been a casual attitude about corruption," said Valukas, 30, who heads the official corruption section of U.S. Atty. James Thompson's office. "I don't think there's that casualness anymore."

Valukas is typical of the intense young investigator-prosecutors who are using federal law to do something that's never been done before — clean up local government in the Chicago area.

He was a student in one of Thompson's classes at Northwestern University Law School. Later, he worked as a fourth-ration-backed public defender and then joined the Justice Department to handle civil rights cases.

"I have been disturbed by what has been a casual attitude toward corruption . . . I don't think there's that casualness anymore."

A graduate of Pauline High School who now lives in Evanston with his wife and two young daughters, Valukas became an attorney because of the profession's independence. To him, it seemed "the last place where as an individual you could make a difference, change things, improve them. I mean you see in this office 75 men and one United States Attorney and look at the difference that's making in this city," he said.

VALUKAS TALKED about his job and Thompson's office in an interview with Herald staff writer Nancy Cowger. One question dealt with immunity for witnesses who themselves have committed crimes.

"I doubt seriously whether there is any activity in our law enforcement that is less understood and for which we are more criticized than immunity," said Valukas. "And yet the basis for most of our prosecutions in the major cases is immunity. You know, there are normally two persons present when a bribe goes down and neither of them is going to come running into the office to tell you about it."

"Both are equally guilty, OK? But if we have to make a decision to prosecute a public official or a private individual, the bribe giver versus the bribe taker, we will prosecute the bribe taker."

"If you convict a public official, you've taken that individual who might be receiving bribes from 50 different people out of the picture. You gain that much."

Q. Do you believe that most public officials go into office to be corrupt?

A. No, I don't believe that at all. Part of the problem may be that the public, the press, have tolerated this sort of attitude. They've made it acceptable, even laughable. It's almost been a standing joke, if you came from Chicago and Chicago is a corrupt town, and you sort of laugh about it. Well, there's nothing laughable about corruption. And to the extent we joke about it and make light of it and suggest maybe it isn't as bad as it really is, we condone it. And for those persons who are weak, where they realize social pressures are not so great for them not to take money, maybe they are going to do so. If they thought everybody would be so outraged they would "throw the scoundrels out" maybe they wouldn't do it. Now there will be those people who go into public office to profit, period, who are corrupt individuals, who see it as a way of making money. Because I know from talking to some of them, or knowing persons associated with them, that they don't even consider it wrong. For those there's nothing that will help, save don't vote them in. And if you vote them in, try to convict them.

Q. What corrupts those who don't go in expecting to profit from public office?

A. Money. And pressure, peer-group pressure. I know of instances involving police officers, where they had no intention whatsoever of taking money from a tavern shake-down. But the vast majority of officers they were with took money, and it was offered to them. And they would have almost have been like — I won't say they were outcasts, but it was a socially acceptable item and there was a sort of social pressure to take it. I don't believe those officers necessarily went in with the idea of being corrupt police officers. And I think in a different system they would not have been. But they are now.

Q. In Hoffman Estates, there's been sentiment that you went after the public officials more vigorously than Kaufman and Broad. Public officials went to jail and Kaufman and Broad paid $50,000 in fines. But to a Kaufman and Broad, what does $50,000 mean? Why didn't you prosecute corporate heads?

A. Let me take it one step at a time. We granted immunity to only one person of substance in the case. And we granted immunity because it was necessary to make the case. And if there would have been some way to make the case without granting immunity to anybody, we would have. That's a very simple fact of life. We prosecuted Kaufman and Broad to the full extent of the law. And I will assure you, there was no one who was not prosecuted in that case who could have been prosecuted.

Q. Does it bother you that most of the cases you prosecute or indictments you obtain are credited to Jim Thompson.

A. No. It's his office.

Q. Even though you people do most of the work?

A. Let me say this. I believe in what he's doing. And I'm here because I believe in what's going on. What's happening now is kind of one of those things that's happening now and may not pass this way for a long, long time. You wouldn't be down here interviewing me now if that were not so. It's a phenomenon, in a sense, to see this sort of thing happening. And maybe it's a cleansing action that's taking place. And maybe it's going to be a better area because of it sometime. But you won't see it again. Because the next time it happens, if it has to happen again, and I hope to God it doesn't, it'll be the second time around. And it's never better than the first time around.

Q. What is your professional goal? Do you want to be U.S. attorney general someday?

A. I don't think I can frame my goals in terms of an office to be achieved, or a monetary item. I think to me it's a much more introspective item. I want from any job I take, be it the law or if I were to leave the law and teach, or something else, I want to be able to feel that what I'm doing is personally

"Part of the problem may be that the public, the press, have tolerated this sort of attitude. They've made it (corruption) acceptable, even laughable."

satisfying, that I am accomplishing something with what I am doing, whatever job I do. I don't know where that will be from here, I really don't.

Q. Do you have any immediate goal? Should Jim Thompson be elected mayor of Chicago, do you see yourself as a candidate for U.S. attorney?

A. No, I mean, that's not anything I ever conceive of myself as being. And I have no thoughts along those lines, whatsoever. It's just not a realistic situation. My sincerest hope for this office is that whatever we start will be a tradition which will be followed in the future. I would be nothing short of disappointed in the 10th degree if everything happened and stopped after Thompson or his successor left. That would be very difficult to accept.

Q. Does this political speculation on Thompson hamper you at all in your work, either personally or in your contacts with defendants or their attorneys?

A. No, not really. I'll tell you why. Last fall, when there was a lot of speculation about whether or not Jim would be a candidate for office, he held a meeting with the assistants here. And he made it perfectly clear to all the assistants that at no time would he permit anything dealing with politics to have any influence on this office. And that assurance carries a lot of meaning to us, because what we are engaged in has nothing to do with politics, and it has everything to do with law enforcement.

Anton R. Valukas

Q. But you still have to deal with persons who aren't part of this office.

A. I take the position with regard to persons who we are hurting, persons whom we indict, that they will not feel favorably inclined to us. And that's tough. And I will stand on our record of what we do, versus what people say about what we do. I think the vast majority of people view our office like a man who I ran into. He said 'I just wanted to tell you, and I want you to tell your bosses, how happy we are and appreciative of the job that's being done.' When I go out to speak to citizen groups that's the sort of attitude they have. And they believe it, because why shouldn't they? We have, in the areas involving political corruption, never lost a case. We do not bring cases that we do not believe are justified to be brought. We maintain our integrity in that area. And it has brought about change. In the end result, what we do here will only have some meaning if the individual citizen or citizenry as a whole take on the attitude that what has been an acceptable practice is no longer acceptable. We will not tolerate this anymore. It is no longer tolerable to have a public official use his office for his own profit. And there's nothing funny about it. And if we help create that attitude, then we will have done, I think, an immense good. Our firmest belief is that public office is not to be used for personal profit. It is not part of a spoils system. You are elected for a public office, not to do something for yourself, but to do something for the people whom you represent.

Q. You said you have a 100 per cent conviction rate. Is that because you only take sure things into court?

A. Well now, that's an interesting criticism. Because that suggests that we follow our professional duties so well that we are to be criticized for having done so.

Q. Not exactly. It suggests you don't take cases into court unless you've got absolute, 100 per cent, open-and-shut evidence.

A. I would dare say that we have been more than a little bit imaginative in our exercise of federal jurisdiction, and have been upheld by the court of appeals in these areas, which shows that we are not afraid to branch out. On the other half, you are absolutely correct. We do not take lightly the responsibility that falls upon a prosecutor's office in making a decision to indict, because in indicting an individual, you've done a great deal of damage at that point. And we do not take that with a reckless attitude. We don't use this office for publicity, to name names or to create scandals. When I say imaginative, I don't mean frivolous or reckless. I mean that we have researched the law carefully. Let's take mail fraud. Secret profits, obtained by a corporation agent, constituted a fraud on that corporation. And if the mails were used in furtherance of that, it would establish federal jurisdiction. Now that theory, although there was some support for it in the case law, was a new approach. And the Court of Appeals of the Seventh Circuit said it is a viable theory of prosecution, and that theory has been used in other cases. That's what I was suggesting. We don't just look to see whether it was a good old fashioned bank robbery or kidnapping.

"What's happening now is kind of one of those things that's happening now and may not pass this way for a long, long time . . . maybe it's a cleansing action."

Q. The U.S. Attorney's office has just about decimated village government in Wheeling and the former government in Hoffman Estates. When you're about to prosecute a case that involves almost an entire government structure, do you have any thoughts about the impact on the community?

A. Well, Hoffman Estates wouldn't be a good example, because all of the people that were prosecuted in Hoffman Estates were out of office when the indictments took place, and they related to matters of some period past. I have no doubt about the existence of the impact, but I think it would be unfortunate. I remember reading articles which spoke about the tragedy of Hoffman Estates as if it were a black mark on the people of Hoffman Estates, and that's unfortunate. Because crimes are committed by people, they're not committed by communities. It has nothing to do with the people of Hoffman Estates. It has something to do with individuals who engaged in criminal activity. They made that decision themselves. I do know that the present members of the Hoffman Estates government, at least a number of them, were more than cooperative. They were extremely cooperative with assisting the government with regard to any request we had during the course of the investigation and prosecution. And for that, we're of course appreciative.

Q. If you could sit and talk to people in Hoffman Estates now, casually, about avoiding what happened in their future government, what would you say?

A. Let me not take Hoffman Estates. Most of those people who were indicted were in fact voted out of office, so the voters did what they were supposed to do under the electoral process.

"And if there would have been some way to make the case without granting immunity to anybody, we would have."

Q. That is after the fact. What about preventing it?

A. Let's talk about that, but I don't want to suggest that anything was done or not done by the people of Hoffman Estates that could have made a difference. Because I don't know that they could have, without being involved. I'm very impressed, and have been, with the attitude taken not only by the people and their concern about corruption, but also by the press in those areas. I am nothing short of astounded by the investigative reporting done by certain of the newspapers out there, which we subscribe to. That in itself is a very healthy sign, because the newspapers write about things that people will be interested in. And what that's saying is people are becoming interested and realizing unless they do participate and review what their elected officials are doing, unless they voice their concern and don't just sit back and let things go on as they will, they have no real check on what is happening. And maybe they don't even know, if they're not participating, what type of people they're electing out there, or where else they're conducting an election process. That's a very dangerous thing — voting blind. If you really don't know about the man you're voting for, you invest him with a great deal of power and then you're rolling the dice. And maybe you win, maybe you don't. And obviously, in some communities the people did not win.

Q. Would you say then, that the key is to be there when decisions are made?

A. To be there, to be concerned about it, to be concerned about how your money's being spent, because those are your tax dollars. If you don't know where that money's being spent, if you have no concern about it, then what check do you have on what activity is being engaged in by public officials. I believe that books, records and every public official that makes any decision, every bureaucrat, should be in a position that if he's asked a question by a citizen then he should answer it. I feel that every individual public official owes his best judgement in these matters. It is not necessary that he be right, but he owes his best judgement. And if he's wrong, so be it, we are all going to be wrong sometimes. And maybe this decision won't be popular, but he should be in a position to answer questions and he should answer questions. And the citizens should feel it their duty not only to be there but to ask the questions. And I think that is the most active check on this sort of activity that can exist. Because 75 attorneys in this office are not going to make a difference if the citizens don't feel that themselves. When you get that sort of inquiry by the citizens, then you're going to get a real check, because it's no more than really the inquiry that we make in a larger respect when we're investigating things.

Q. Do you see any more of the citizenry doing this type of questioning?

A. Yes, I do. I see it just from the number of people who call this office constantly, to ask questions about their right to know things from public officials and to raise questions concerning the propriety of actions of their public officials. And that type of interest indicates to me very strongly the citizens see the problem and they're no longer willing to tolerate business as usual. There is a change. There is an awareness that democracy and our form of government just will not continue unless public officials are responsible to the citizens. And that means that the first item will always be integrity. The citizens have always to believe that the decisions made by public officials are going to be made at least on the basis of personal integrity.

U.S. attorney's record to date

Even the powerful can't escape justice

Corruption charges by the U.S. Attorney's office have brought down some of the highest and mightiest of Chicago and Cook County politics. Among the fallen:

- U.S. Appeals Court Judge Otto Kerner, former Illinois governor, and Theodore Isaacs, former state revenue director. Both were convicted of tax evasion, mail fraud, bribery in the race track stock scandal.
- Former County Clerk Edward Barrett, convicted of tax evasion, mail fraud, bribery.
- Chicago policemen, indicted on various charges in the tavern shake-down scandal. Sixty were charged, 38 convicted, eight acquitted, the rest await trial.
- Six former Hoffman Estates village board members admitted guilt in a bribery scheme. Kaufman and Broad Inc., developer accused of paying the bribes, pleaded no contest. Former State Rep. Bernard Peskin, K&B's attorney, was convicted of passing bribes and tax evasion.
- James Stavros, Village of Wheeling political boss, and Michael Valenza, ex-village trustee, admitted guilt in a zoning extortion scandal. Four others — including Building Director William Bieber, ex-trustee William Hart and two county officials — await trial on extortion charges. A seventh man, contractor Willis Clark, is charged with filing a false tax return in aiding one of the extortion schemes.
- Ald. Joseph Potempa of Chicago pleaded guilty to extortion and was given a year in prison.
- Ald. Casimir Slesczuk of Chicago was convicted of bribery and given an 18-month sentence.
- Former Ald. Joseph Jambrone of Chicago was convicted of tax evasion.
- Former Ald. Frank Kuta of Chicago is charged with bribery.
- Ald. Thomas Keane of Chicago was indicted on 21 mail fraud counts charging he profited through secret bank trust deals with the City of Chicago.
- Ald. Paul Wigoda of Chicago is accused of extortion and tax evasion in the Edgewater Golf Course rezoning.
- Circuit Court Clerk Matthew Danaher is charged with mail fraud in an alleged payoff scheme involving a home builder.
- Earl Bush, former press aide to Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, is charged with mail fraud in connection with advertising contracts at O'Hare Airport.

• Mayor Curtis Whitaker of south suburban Westhaven was convicted of extortion in the shake-downs of contractors in his community.

• Village Mgr. Howard Olson and Streets Supt. Joseph Scimone of Elmwood Park are charged with obstruction of justice. Scimone is also charged with tax evasion and Olson with witness tampering in an extortion probe by the U.S. Attorney's office.

• Police Chief Robert Rajewski of Calumet City is charged with making false statements to obtain a Small Business Administration flood damage loan and witness tampering.

• Village Mgr. Robert Scott of Brookfield is accused of extortion and filing a false tax return in the shake-down of a tree removal firm.

• Some 75 persons have been indicted in the Federal Housing Administration payoff scandal. More than 95 per cent have been convicted.

In addition, the official corruption section of the U.S. Attorney's office is now investigating county government in Cook, DuPage and Lake counties as well as an estimated 40 suburban municipalities.

Manager hoping building revenues will meet needs

by JOE FRANZ

Buffalo Grove Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said Monday he is hopeful the village can meet operating expenses until at least late October without going to the sale of tax anticipation warrants.

According to Larson, sale of the warrants could be put off that long if a lot of building takes place this summer. If that occurs, Larson said the village might be able to meet its payroll and other expenses through engineering fees and the sale of building permits.

In the last few weeks, Larson said the village has received about $43,000 from various builders. Still more revenue is expected from developers in the next several months, he said.

"There is reason to believe the village might be able to offset tax anticipation warrants at this time," he said. "We're reviewing the amount of cash in the general fund on a week by week basis."

LARSON SAID although the village may not be able to avoid selling tax anticipation warrants, he favors putting it off as long as possible. Since the village can sell the warrants only once each fiscal year, he said he prefers waiting until they are absolutely necessary.

The village may be able to get through the summer on revenue from construction projects. But Larson said later in the year that revenue will stop and the village probably will be faced with a more critical financial situation. Then would be the time to sell tax anticipation warrants, he said.

If the village sells warrants now, it would have to buy them back in October, the time of the next tax collection. The village would then be unable to sell additional warrants if its financial situation worsens later in the fiscal year, Larson said.

IN AN EFFORT to delay the need to sell tax anticipation warrants, village officials have agreed to defer spending on a number of village projects. Larson has recommended the village make no capital expenditures before August.

By delaying some of the non-essential projects, Larson said, the village will have more cash available to meet its necessities, such as its payroll.

Some of the projects that have been deferred are the parkway tree planting program, planting of the Dundee Road median strip, remodeling of the rear of the village hall council chambers, purchase of police department equipment, landscaping and installation of a sidewalk adjacent to the village hall and purchase of two snow plows.

In addition, Larson has proposed that pay increases for village employees be deferred until Aug. 1. The pay raises, which have not yet been approved by the village board, were scheduled to go into effect May 1, Larson said.

VILLAGE BOARD members have said if the village has enough money later, they will consider making the pay raises retroactive to May 1.

Larson said delayed raises, along with the deferment in hiring several new employees, will help keep cash in the general fund from falling too low.

Village officials said about a month ago that the delay in receiving property taxes from Lake County has caused a depletion of cash in the village general fund. There is currently a dispute in Lake County over assessment practices and, until the matter is settled, no money will be disbursed to municipalities, school districts or other taxing bodies.

LAKE COUNTY officials have said it will be at least late September before the village receives its share of the tax money. If the dispute goes to court, the village probably will not get any tax money this year, they said.

If the village's financial situation becomes critical, it could sell tax anticipation warrants to a maximum of 75 per cent of its expected annual tax revenue. Although the village could sell up to $200,000 worth of warrants, Larson has recommended only $100,000 worth be sold.

The Bank of Buffalo Grove has agreed to buy the tax anticipation warrants from the village in the event they become necessary. The village would pay the bank a six per cent interest rate.

THE CHILDREN'S THEATER of the Deaf performed the "Wizard of Oz" using sign language and narration at Wheeling High School last week-end. The production was sponsored by the Center on Deafness, headquartered in Glenview. The center is a non-profit organization.

See related story on Page 1.

Unless a strike by gravel, cement and sand truck drivers ends soon, motorists traveling on Dundee Road may be faced with another treacherous winter.

Albert Sifer, project engineer for the Illinois Division of Highways, said Monday the strike already has caused delays and if it is not settled by July 1, workers may have difficulty finishing the project by next winter.

The drivers went out about two weeks ago in sympathy of a strike called by ready-mix cement drivers. Sifer said workers have been unable to resume paving because construction materials have run out.

THE PROJECT CONSISTS of widening and repaving Dundee Road to four lanes between Elmhurst Road and Ill. Rte. 53. It also includes hooking up the realignments of Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights roads and repairing a 900-foot section of Arlington Heights Road north of Dundee Road.

The entire project is scheduled to be completed by October 1. Sifer said workers are currently doing some minor tasks, but eventually will be unable to work unless more materials are delivered.

The battered portion of Arlington Heights Road adjacent to Buffalo Grove High School was closed recently by village officials and will not be reopened until repairs are made. Public Works Director Charles McCoy said motorists can still drive on the road, but are advised that it is at their own risk.

Remains eligible for replacement service

Village meets quota for blood program

Buffalo Grove has met its quota and will remain eligible in the North Suburban Blood Center's free blood replacement program.

Last week, members of the blood commission said the village had large would no longer be eligible under the program unless seven pints were donated by Saturday.

Although officials Monday could not give the exact number of pints donated, they said the village had satisfied its requirement. Sarah Lewis, who is in charge of donor registration, thanked all donors who responded to last week's plea from the commission.

The blood program provides free blood replacement anywhere in the country for all village residents if 4 per cent of them donate a pint of blood each year. The village population requires that 750 pints be donated annually.

IF THE VILLAGE falls short of its requirement, persons who have donated and members of their immediate families remain eligible. They will be given as much blood as they need for as long as necessary.

Residents interested in donating can make appointments at area hospitals or can call the NSBC at 498-9840. Anyone making a donation should call the village hall at 537-8984 and inform officials.

The next village blood drive is scheduled for July 20 at Buffalo Grove High School, Dundee and Arlington Heights roads. A mobile blood unit will be at the school from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Donors must be between 18 and 65 years old and weigh at least 110 pounds. Persons can donate every eight weeks to a maximum of five times a year.

Stavros sentencing scheduled for today

James Stavros, former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, is scheduled to be sentenced today in U.S. District Court for extorting $92,000 from three Wheeling developers and filing a false income tax return.

Stavros faces a maximum penalty of 63 years imprisonment and up to $35,000 in fines. The U.S. Attorney's Office is expected to outline part of its case against Stavros in arguing for a "stiff sentence" before U.S. District Judge Hubert Will.

Stavros pleaded guilty April 30 to three extortion charges and a tax charge as part of an agreement with the U.S. Attorney's Office in which eight additional counts against Stavros were dropped. Among the eight counts which were dropped were charges of extorting an additional $91,250 from Wheeling developers.

ACCORDING TO the terms of the agreement, Stavros is protected from all further prosecutions stemming from the federal grand jury investigation which led to his indictment. The government also agreed not to call Stavros to testify before the grand jury on that investigation.

In pleading guilty, Stavros admitted to having enough control over village government to prevent construction of the three developments if he opposed them.

Stavros is one of six former and present Wheeling and Cook County officials indicted Jan. 31 following a year-long federal probe into shakedowns of Wheeling developers. He is the second defendant in the case to plead guilty and will be the second sentenced.

FORMER WHEELING trustee Michael Valenza was sentenced to nine months imprisonment after pleading guilty to conspiracy to commit extortion. Judge Bernard Decker said the sentence would have been stiffer if Valenza had not cooperated fully with the government.

There is, however, no indication that Stavros has cooperated with the U.S. Attorney's Office.

The sentencing is scheduled for 2 p.m. at the Federal Building in Chicago.

Judge wants Bieber in court

The attorney for Wheeling Building Director William Bieber said Monday he hopes his client will be released from the hospital and in court by June 10.

Bieber currently is being treated for a back ailment and skin disease at Lutheran General Hospital. He is expected to plead guilty on federal charges against him as soon as he is released from the hospital.

U.S. District Judge Abraham Lincoln Marovitz told attorney David Schippers to have his client in court June 10, the date originally set for trial in the case. Bieber is charged in this case with conspiring with former Wheeling trustee William Hart and former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman James Stavros to commit extortion against Bernard Wasmer of Duo Sign Co.

HART, HOWEVER, is the only defendant expected to stand trial in the case. Stavros pleaded guilty in April to extorting $92,000 from three Wheeling developers, with eight other charges against him dropped at that time. Bieber is also expected to plead guilty to some of the 14 federal charges against him.

Hart waived his right Monday to a jury trial, and Judge Marovitz advised attorneys of preparations for the upcoming trial.

Bieber and Hart are among six former and present Wheeling and Cook County officials indicted Jan. 31 following a year-long federal grand jury probe into shakedowns of Wheeling developers. Two of the six, including Stavros, have already pleaded guilty.

The building director faces charges of extortion, conspiracy to commit extortion, perjury and filing a false income tax return in three other pending cases.

BOTH SCHIPPERS and Assistant U.S. Atty. Steven Kadison Monday asked that U.S. District Judge Bernard Decker have the Bieber case currently in his court transferred to Judge Marovitz. This apparently is the first step in negotiations between Schippers and the U.S. Attorney's Office. The government indicated that the cases against Bieber will all be moved to Judge Marovitz's court, where Bieber will plead guilty.

Schippers said Bieber could not appear in court Monday because he is paralyzed from the waist down. He said that while his client is beginning to get a return of feeling, he has also developed a "painful and embarrassing" skin disease. The attorney said the only way his client could have appeared in court was by ambulance.

The U.S. Attorney's Office said there can be no resolution of the Bieber cases until the building director is able to appear in court.

Arson said to be cause of plant fire

Arson is believed to be the cause of a fire Sunday night that gutted the old Buffalo Grove Utility Co. sewage treatment plant at 145 Raupp Blvd. No one was injured.

Fire Chief Wayne Winter Monday said the fire started among some trash that was accumulated in the building since it was abandoned about six years ago. Although no one was seen leaving the concrete structure, Winter suspects the fire was started by vandals.

Fire officials said that since the old treatment plant was abandoned it has been a favorite gathering place for village youngsters. A concrete settlement tank, outside the plant was the scene of a drowning almost two years ago.

Assistant Fire Chief William Dettmer Monday said the treatment plant will be torn down within a week to prevent further problems. The settlement tank was filled in shortly after the drowning.

Winter said firemen had the blaze under control about 10 minutes after arriving at the plant and spent about 45 minutes making sure it did not rekindle.

The plant serviced the older section of the village prior to the Metropolitan Sanitary District taking over responsibility for treating the sewage.

Stevenson High School wrapup

Instructional, open swim scheduled

Three two-week instructional programs for Lake County elementary and preschool students and open swimming will begin June 14 at Adlai Stevenson High School's indoor pool.

Registration for the summer swim programs will be from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday in the main lobby at the high school. No reservations will be accepted in advance, but reservations may be made the week following for any classes that are not full, according to pool director Hank Andrew.

Open swimming will be Tuesday and Thursday afternoons only, from 1:30 to 3 p.m. during June and July. Admission is 50 cents for residents of Dist. 125, and $2 per person for non-residents.

Elementary school classes will be three times during the morning for two-week periods beginning June 14, June 28 and July 12. The enrollment fee is $10 per student for each two-week period. Beginners, intermediate and advanced swimmers may sign up for any of the classes which will be at 9, 10 and 11 a.m. Classes are limited to 35 students.

In addition, one instructional class will be from noon to 1 p.m. for three and four-year-old preschoolers. Enrollment in this course is limited to 15 youngsters, and each must provide his own life preserver, Andrew explained.

Bilingual program approved

A proposal to establish a bilingual Spanish program among several Vernon Township schools has been approved by the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Called the Greater Vernon Area Bilingual Education Program, which includes Lake County Buffalo Grove, the project involves Stevenson High School, and three elementary schools: districts 96, 102 and 103.

Local school representatives will meet with OSPI officials in Springfield on June 11 to work out details. The original proposal asked for a $20,000 appropriation for hiring a teacher and teacher's aide who would work with Spanish-speaking students from kindergarten through 12th grade. The purpose would be to help students overcome linguistic and cultural differences.

In addition to regular classes, the bilingual instructor would be available for counseling and home visitations.

2 Exchange students selected

Two foreign exchange students have been selected to attend Stevenson High School next fall under the International Student Program.

They are Francoise Gulleit from Chauny, France, who will be living with the Glens Millers of Long Grove; and Yumiko Aoshima of Tokyo, who will live with the Gerald Harolds of Hawthorn Woods.

Adlai Stevenson High School students who participated in vocational programs and graduated in 1973 will be the subject of a special study by the Illinois Followup System. It was announced today by Wayne Schnable, curriculum coordinator.

"We are interested in knowing how well former students felt that their occupational courses prepared them for entering the world of work," Schnable commented. "The survey, which is to be conducted under the direction of the Center for Educational Studies at Eastern Illinois University, will be funded by the Illinois Division of Vocational and Technical Education."

Former students will be asked about their post-secondary schooling and work experience and what recommendations they would make for improving occupational education courses.

Employed respondents will be asked to provide the name and address of their present employer or supervisor so they can be contacted for their recommendations concerning occupational education.

Personnel of the Illinois Followup System will mail questionnaires to former students and their employers, tabulate the responses, and prepare a report for Dist. 125.

Distribute student questionnaires

The Adlai Stevenson High School Freshman Studies Committee has mailed or delivered survey questionnaires to all freshman and sophomore students, parents, and upper-grade teachers, according to John Balmes, District 125 board member and committee chairman.

The questionnaire covers many aspects of the new freshman studies program including whether it should be optional, as some residents have asked. Surveys were designed for each of the groups.

The Freshman Studies Program began in 1972 using the thematic approach to learning by teaching basic courses such as English, math, science and social studies as units rather than separate subjects. Early this year, several parents expressed a desire to see Stevenson return to a more traditional program, or at least provide a traditional program for those parents who wanted it.

Couples to pucker up in record-making try

The Great Kiss Off starts noon Saturday in Schaumburg's Woodfield shopping center when 11 couples from across the United States begin smooching to earn their place in the Guinness Book of World Records.

The current record is held by a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., couple, Louise Heath and Vince Torre, who kept their lips in touch for four days and 32 minutes, said Ruby Ruppert of Woodfield, Ill., Rte. 53 and Golf Road.

Competitors are being flown in from 11 major cities across the United States including Detroit, Milwaukee, Philadelphia and San Diego, said Dave Harrod of WEA Distributors, Des Plaines.

The competition began in Miami, Fla., where the first kissing competition was held to promote the rock group Kiss, he said.

RULES ALLOW For five-minute breaks each hour during the first two days of competition, five minutes every two hours on the third day and five minutes every three hours on the fourth day, Miss Ruppert said.

The contestants play cards, chess and read books while competing, she said, adding winners will also get an eight-day all expense-paid trip to Acapulco.

Kisses will be sold by Playboy bunnies Saturday in a booth near the Grand Mall of Woodfield where the competition will be held. Proceeds will go to St. Jude's Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., she added.

Rolling Meadows attorney forces decision

by KURT BAER

The City of Rolling Meadows apparently forced the cancellation of night racing at Arlington Park Race Track Monday when it threatened to sue the state racing board for a violation of the Illinois open meetings law.

The city's attorney, Donald Rose, Monday objected to a weekend telephone poll of racing board members which had been used as authorization for Arlington Park to schedule its first nighttime horse races since 1969.

Rose said he was less than 20 minutes away from filing a Cook County Circuit Court suit that would have requested an emergency injunction against the night races when the attorney for the racing board, Martin Oberman, called to say the program would be canceled.

The decision was announced just six hours before the 8 p.m. scheduled starting time of the first evening race.

The racing board will hold a hearing at noon today to discuss the possibility of a day-night "double header" at Arlington Park Friday and Saturday.

Rose said he would attend today's hearing to object to any future nighttime racing at Arlington Park because of the potential disturbance it poses to Rolling Meadows residents who live directly across Euclid Avenue from the race track.

ILLINOIS RACING Board Chairman Anthony Scarsano could not be reached for comment Monday on the allegation that the board had violated the open meeting statute. Ironically, it was Scarsano who, as a state legislator, authored and championed the state's tough open meeting law.

"We just weren't aware that there was any opposition to night racing out there," a racing board spokesman, Tom Sommers, said Monday. "In an emergency situation it seemed valid for the board to act without going to the trouble of all getting together in one room."

The "emergency situation" is a contract dispute between horsemen and the operators of Sportsman's Park which forced the cancellation of Monday night's harness racing opener at the track in Cicero.

Calling off the races at Sportsman's will cost the state $100,000 a day in lost revenue, Sommers said.

"Because of the obligation to protect the state's revenue, the racing board agreed to grant permission to run an evening program at Arlington Park," he said.

It was "unclear," he said, whether the board's weekend decision had violated the open meetings law.

ROLLING MEADOWS Mayor Roland Meyer said Monday the city's injunction maintained that the board violated "the public's right to know" when it failed to hold a public hearing on night racing.

"The papers were all drawn up and ready to be taken to court," said Meyer, who had instructed Rose to look into the ethics of the racing board's decision.

Both Meyer and Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said Sunday they had no knowledge that the racing board had acted to approve Monday night's program.

Metron head seeks other bus routes

The president of Metron Systems Corp. said Monday he still hopes to set up Northwest suburban bus routes despite the firm's ending service in Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove.

Metron made its last run Friday for some 100 commuters in the two suburbs, terminating the nine-month-old service because it was costing the firm $4,500 a month in losses.

"We're still in business," Metron Pres. Claude G. Luisada said Monday. "But we don't know what's going to happen."

He indicated he would continue to pursue efforts to set up bus service in other suburbs, including Mount Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

IN EACH municipality, Luisada has made presentations offering to conduct a study of transportation needs, then to set up and manage a bus system to meet the needs.

In Mount Prospect, the Metron proposal is being studied by the village board's fire and police committee, with no decision expected in the near future.

In Rolling Meadows, the city council's public works-building and zoning committee is reviewing the proposal, though Mayor Roland Meyer gave it a cool reception, suggesting that the city rent two buses from a local church and run its own transportation service.

In Schaumburg, the Metron plan is being considered, along with two other proposals and a third for contract bus service, by the village's mass transportation committee. A decision on whether to start bus service is expected to be made by the village board this month.

IN WHEELING, no action has been taken on the Metron proposal.

The bus service in Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove consisted of rush hour rides to and from the Arlington Heights train station from the Northgate, Mill Creek, Ivy Hill, Bertley Square and Surrey Ridge subdivisions and the Windsor Woods and Villa Verde apartments. About 100 commuters regularly took the bus.

Luisada attempted to secure a subsidy from the Village of Arlington Heights in order to continue the bus service, but the village board turned down the request, forcing the closing of the service.

Industrial zoning before panel today

The Wheeling Zoning Board tonight will consider zoning for a proposed industrial park at the northwest corner of Wolf and Hintz roads.

Both the school and park districts have already agreed to release a school-park designation on the property in exchange for a donation. The Wheeling Partnership, petitioner for zoning, is asking that the residential zoning be changed to an industrial classification.

The zoning board will also consider a request for business zoning at 2324-2330 W. Hintz Rd. The Kulwin-Belder Construction Co. is seeking the zoning change.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

Choirs to perform

The Wheeling High School choir will perform today in a spring concert at 8 p.m. in the school's little theater.

The concert choir, varsity choir, advanced girls glee, freshman girls glee and freshman boys glee will appear. Tickets for the concert are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Buffalo Grove High choral meeting today

Parents of students in Buffalo Grove High School choral groups will meet today at 8 p.m. in the school choral room.

It will be the fourth meeting of the newly formed Buffalo Grove High School choral guild whose purpose is to support the school choral groups and promote the activities of the choral department. The guild hopes to finance trips, concerts and scholarships for choral students.

Members are parents of students in the freshman girls choir, the girls glee club, concert choir and bell ringers. The group will install officers tonight and discuss plans for next year. More information is available from Marilyn Krosland, president, 541-6197, and Kathy Rice, publicity, 537-5562.

Choral concert to 'think summer'

"Think Summer" will be the theme of the choral concert Thursday at Buffalo Grove High School.

The concert choir, freshman girls' choir, girls' glee, and ensemble will perform in the school's theater beginning at 8 p.m. Tickets are $1 at the door.

Lylas joins honorary

Lylas Berry, 211 N. Elmhurst Rd., Prospect Heights, recently was initiated to the Southern Illinois University chapter of Pi Lambda Theta, a national scholastic honorary society for women in education.

Average 9.9 per cent pay hike

Teachers' union accepts salary schedule for 1974-75

by LINDA PUNCH

Members of the Dist. 207 teachers' union voted overwhelmingly Monday to accept a 1974-75 pay schedule giving teachers an average 9.9 per cent pay hike.

Malne Teachers Assn. (MTA) Pres. Dewane Barnes said results from Malne West, Malne East and Malne South high schools showed MTA members voting 278 to 47 in favor of the salary settlement. Results from Malne North High School, which has 18 MTA members, were not tallied at press time. Dist. 207 employs 791 teachers.

Barnes said the vote "indicates there is not great objection" to the salary settlement. The board was expected to ratify the pay schedule at their regular meeting last night.

TEACHER AND BOARD negotiators reached agreement on the 1974-75 pay schedule May 17 but school officials withheld public announcement of the settlement until last week. Under the pay schedule, a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree will receive $9,630, an 8.2 per cent increase from the 1973-74 pay schedule.

Top pay for a teacher with 20 years experience and a doctorate is $21,795, an increase of 8.1 per cent from this year. Teachers in the middle of the pay scale averaged a 10.5 per cent cost-of-living increase.

In addition to the pay increase, teachers in the middle of the salary schedule received a 2.25 per cent increase for experience and education.

BARNES NOTED THAT various teaching levels received different pay increases because the board was trying to make the salary schedule comparable to surrounding districts.

"We looked at the pay schedule and salaries for teachers in the middle of the scale were least competitive," he said.

Dist. 207 Supt. Richard Short said the pay increase is comparable to "those school districts to which Dist. 207 is traditionally compared and also reflects a cost-of-living increase." The total settlement reflects a 12.1 per cent increase from last year and will cost the district an additional $1,237,630.

Increases in the salary schedule will also result in increased compensation for extra-curricular assignments and extra pay jobs, including coaching. The board will increase its share of health insurance premiums for the professional staff by approximately $10,000.

AGREEMENT ON THE 1974-75 pay schedule marks the first successful negotiations between the board and the MTA since the teacher's union was organized in 1972. The board and MTA reached an agreement on the 1973-74 contracts after an 11-month contract dispute involving canceled negotiations and lawsuits.

The dispute ended in February with an out-of-court settlement that called for recognition of the MTA as sole bargaining agent for teachers and amendment of the professional negotiations agreement, which previously limited bargaining to salary and fringe benefits.

Norridge man charged in grocery store holdup

A 22-year-old Norridge man was in custody Monday, charged by police with robbing a Des Plaines grocery store of between $90 and $123 in cash with a sawed-off shotgun and making his escape in a stolen auto.

Charged with armed robbery was Ted J. Kloc, 22, of 7736 Gliddings, in the suburb. He was arrested outside his home by Des Plaines police early Saturday.

According to reports, Kloc robbed the 7-Eleven Food Mart, 1950 Touhy Ave., late Friday night. Police said he entered the store about 11 p.m. wearing a paper bag over his head and threatened a clerk and several customers with the shotgun.

Kloc allegedly ordered the clerk, Richard Johnson, 18, to hand over the store's cash register money and wanted additional cash from another register and a safe. But according to reports, Johnson told the bandit the other register was empty and he had no access to the safe.

THE BANDIT FLED the store but witnesses were able to get a description of the car as well as its license number and check of the plates traced the car to Kloc's address.

Det. John Meese said he and Det. James Knutz staked out the residence and took Kloc into custody when he was apparently returning home about 4:45 a.m. Saturday.

Kloc's clothing matched the description of the attire worn by the holdup man, and the auto that Meese said Kloc stole from a Budget Rent-A-Car agency in Park Ridge was found in a shopping center parking lot near the home.

Meese said Kloc put his own license plates on the car.

Kloc told detectives he attended a party that evening, but a witness to the holdup later identified the car as the one the robber made his escape in. Only about half the cash taken in the stickup was recovered.

Kloc was taken before Associate Judge Jerome Burke Saturday and was ordered sent to county jail on $15,000 bond. He will appear Thursday in the Des Plaines branch of circuit court.

Two residents' aim: 'Miss Prospect' title

Two Des Plaines residents are vying for the title of Miss Mount Prospect 1974.

They are Jaye Hoozko, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoozko, 1840 Howard Ave., and Vanessa Olos, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Olos, 251 Springfield Terr. Miss Hoozko is a student at Malne West High School and Miss Olos is a student at Forest View High School.

Five other contestants are entered in the contest, which will be staged June 22, sponsored by the Mount Prospect Jaycees. The winner will go on to the Miss Illinois contest.

Soroptimists: $5,000 for 'finishing touches'

Funds pledged for seniors' housing

A Des Plaines service club has pledged to raise $5,000 to help put the finishing touches on a government-sponsored senior citizens' housing development and is hoping to attract support for the effort from other civic groups.

Representatives of the Des Plaines Soroptimist Club met recently with Victor Walchirk, executive director of the Cook County Housing Authority, to finalize plans for a number of items the group will purchase for the 129-unit apartment building now under construction at Lee and Ashland streets in Des Plaines.

City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach said some of the items the group plans to purchase include ceramic tile for the public washrooms and vinyl wall covering for the area around the elevators throughout the building.

WALCHIRK PRAISED the program and said "community participation is extremely helpful in making this project a real asset to the community."

He noted that the items which are being paid for through the aid of community organizations were eliminated from the project after initial construction bids exceeded the funds budgeted for the $2.3 million building by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

WATER, PLEASE? A lone Des Plaines fireman waits for water to fight a garage fire. The fire struck the garage at 165 N. Mount Prospect Rd. Saturday and caused damages of $2,500, including a 1965 Buick.

Lighted cigaret blamed for fire in car, garage

Fire, possibly started by a lighted cigaret, caused a total of $3,700 damage to a car and the garage of a Des Plaines resident.

No injuries were reported in the blaze but the resident, Edward Holtz, 165 Mount Prospect Rd., told firefighters that shortly before the flames broke out Saturday morning, his wife had warned him she smelled smoke coming from the garage.

Holtz went out to investigate and saw the auto was full of smoke. He went to get a garden hose but the car, a 1965 Buick, burst into flames.

Firemen also were called to the home of Patrick Rollo, 1033 Walter Ave., late Sunday after a couch in the home caught fire.

The blaze broke out shortly before 11:40 p.m. and caused about $200 damage. Use of smoking materials was blamed for that fire also, according to fire department reports.

Firemen pulled the smoldering sofa from the house and gave Rollo oxygen at the scene because he suffered slight smoke inhalation while taking his children from the house.

E. Dundee man charged here on theft counts

A 21-year-old man was arrested after police said he tried unsuccessfully to short change a Des Plaines grocery store attendant of $10. The man later admitted to at least two other such incidents in the city over the few months.

Charged with two counts of theft was John Santini, 211 Howard, East Dundee. He was taken into custody early Friday in an auto with four other persons who were later released without charges.

According to reports, Santini tried to swindle a White Hen Pantry store clerk, 915 Oakton St., several minutes earlier.

Police said Santini was thwarted in his attempts when the clerk, Dillard Baker, 28, realized what Santini was trying to do and refused to give him change.

Santini allegedly left the store and then drove off, but Baker relayed a description of the man and the auto to police. Baker later identified Santini as the man who tried to swindle him, said police.

Under questioning, the suspect told police he used the short change routine to steal at least $30 from the Shakoy's pizza parlor, 865 Elmhurst Rd., on two other occasions.

Short change artists usually try to con unsuspecting counter clerks by asking for change in various denominations of cash, three or four times in one transaction.

He was released on $1,000 bond and has been scheduled to appear in the Des Plaines branch of circuit court July 11.

Threatened lawsuit halts night racing

by KURT BAER

The City of Rolling Meadows apparently forced the cancellation of night racing at Arlington Park Race Track Monday when it threatened to sue the state racing board for a violation of the Illinois open meetings law.

The city's attorney, Donald Rose, Monday objected to a weekend telephone poll of racing board members which had been used as authorization for Arlington Park to schedule its first nighttime horse races since 1969.

Rose said he was less than 20 minutes away from filing a Cook County Circuit Court suit that would have requested an emergency injunction against the night races when the attorney for the racing board, Martin Oberman, called to say the program would be canceled.

The decision was announced just six hours before the 8 p.m. scheduled starting time of the first evening race.

The racing board will hold a hearing at noon today to discuss the possibility of a day-night "double header" at Arlington Park Friday and Saturday.

Rose said he would attend today's hearing to object to any future nighttime racing at Arlington Park because of the potential disturbance it poses to Rolling Meadows residents who live directly across Euclid Avenue from the race track.

ILLINOIS RACING Board Chairman Anthony Scarlano could not be reached for comment Monday on the allegation that the board had violated the open meeting statute. Ironically, it was Scarlano who, as a state legislator, authored and championed the state's tough open meeting law.

"We were forced to trim some of these items, which while not affecting the structural integrity of the structure, certainly would be beneficial for the residents."

Mrs. Rohrbach, who is heading the Soroptimists committee on the senior citizens' project, said a meeting is now being planned for the fall, with representatives of other community organizations in hopes of having these groups contribute funds to purchase items for the new building.

"THE BUILDING will not be ready for occupancy until at least May, 1975, so we will have all of next year to plan for this," she said.

The Soroptimist Club also plans to purchase the flagpole for the exterior and draperies for lounges and other public areas in the building.

Mrs. Rohrbach said other items needed for the facility include a piano, magazine racks and subscriptions for magazines, a public address system, color television, sewing machine, phonograph-radio unit and a motion picture projector.

She added that representatives from groups which may be interested in participating in the program can contact her at the Des Plaines City Hall for additional information.

the state's revenue, the racing board agreed to grant permission to run an evening program at Arlington Park," he said.

It was "unclear," he said, whether the board's weekend decision had violated the open meetings law.

ROLLING MEADOWS Mayor Roland Meyer said Monday the city's injunction maintained that the board violated "the public's right to know" when it failed to hold a public hearing on night racing.

"The papers were all drawn up and ready to be taken to court," said Meyer, who had instructed Rose to look into the ethics of the racing board's decision.

Both Meyer and Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said Sunday they had no knowledge that the racing board

Teacher's teacher

Alice Ekstrom is honored by her lively co-workers

by BOB GALLAS

In these days when awards to teachers are plentiful, Alice Ekstrom is particularly proud of her recent award as "Representative Teacher" in Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59. She values the honor because it comes from a group she's particularly proud of — her fellow teachers.

Sponsored by the Dist. 59 Teachers Council, the award was started this year to give teachers in the district a chance to honor their fellow educators.

Mrs. Ekstrom's career in Dist. 59 began in 1960, just a few years after she started teaching, at the old Higgins Junior High School, which once stood near the intersection of Higgins and Landmeier roads. She later moved to Dempster Junior High School and finally to Lively Junior High School, where she has been since 1969.

A MATHEMATICS teacher, Mrs. Ekstrom says she considers herself a "strict" teacher, perhaps because of the nature of her subject, an exact science.

Mrs. Ekstrom, who has been a resident of Elk Grove Village since 1958, said her responsibility goes further than simply "teaching math." "You have to make the subject challenging and enjoyable, trying not only to prepare the students for next year, but to instill good character as well."

Comparing her eighth graders today with those she had 14 years ago, Mrs. Ekstrom says the main difference is the added maturity and worldliness of young teenagers.

She estimates that she's taught close to 3,000 students during her years of teaching which started in the inner city of Chicago, trying all the time to adhere to one important element of her teaching philosophy — fairness and consistency.

A GRADUATE OF Rosary College in River Forest, Mrs. Ekstrom never really intended to become a math teacher. "When I came to the district they needed a math teacher so I offered," said Mrs. Ekstrom.

She's presently working on her master's degree, now that her two daughters are in high school.

Despite her claim to being a strict teacher, Mrs. Ekstrom admits she does become quite attached to many of her students. "You never let them know it to the last week of school, though."

Burglars take rifle, shotgun from auto

Burglars stole two rifles and a shotgun owned by a Des Plaines man after entering his auto that had been left near 125 Armstrong Rd., according to police reports.

It was unknown how the burglars got into the auto owned by Ellwood Kinman, 618 Millers Rd., but police said it probably happened late Thursday or early Friday.

Burglars also stole a minibike valued at $100 after entering the garage of Paul Hadden, 442 Washington St., late Friday or early Saturday, police said.

There were no signs of forcible entry to the garage, according to reports.

Burglars also broke into the home of Darrel D. Bennett, 563 Forest Ave., late Friday and stole a shotgun of undetermined value.

PREPARING FOR another math class is Alice Ekstrom, a Dist. 59 teacher named "Representative Teacher" in the district by fellow teachers.

Wisconsin man dies in collision

A 22-year-old Janesville, Wis. man died Friday from injuries suffered Wednesday in a collision on Golf Road near Potter Road in Des Plaines.

Dead is Randall J. Kessinger, who succumbed to multiple injuries while in Holy Family Hospital. The accident occurred Wednesday morning when Kessinger's vehicle struck a disabled vehicle stopped on the roadway.

The driver of the disabled vehicle, 23-year-old Gary S. Franchi of Northbrook, had his emergency lights on when Kessinger struck the car from the rear, according to state police. Franchi was not injured.

No tickets were issued by state police.

MTJC registration set

Registration for religious and nursery school classes will be held Sunday at Maine Township Jewish Congregation, 8800 Ballard Rd., Des Plaines, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Maine Township Jewish congregation offers a complete Jewish education program: nursery school, Sunday and religious (Hebrew) school and Post Bar Mitzvah class that leads to the degree of Sar Torah.

Staff members and lay leaders will be present to offer information regarding the educational programs.

Maine Township Jewish Congregation is a United Synagogue of American conservative congregation. Rabbi Jay Karzen serves as spiritual leader and Harry Solowinichik as Cantor.

Earns bachelor's degree

Karen J. Stolle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Stolle of 1128 Seymour, Des Plaines, recently graduated from Eastern Illinois University with a bachelor of science degree in elementary education.

Karen received the Kappa Delta Sorority award for outstanding academic achievement.

Boat check Saturday

Members of the Des Plaines Flotilla, U.S. Coast Guard auxiliary, will be on hand at Nelson Marina, 953 Rand Rd., Des Plaines on Saturday to examine boats between the hours of 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The examinations, which are free of charge, will be conducted at the owner's request and passing vessels will be given the courtesy motorboat decal. The decal, seal of safety, assures the boatowner that his vessel complies with all current state and federal regulations for equipment. Items frequently found missing on small boats include distress flares, fire extinguishers, and proper navigation lights.

For more information call Ken Wurst, 627-0989.

Couples to pucker up in record-making try

The Great Kiss Off starts noon Saturday in Schaumburg's Woodfield shopping center when 11 couples from across the United States begin smooching to earn their place in the Guinness Book of World Records.

The current record is held by a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., couple, Louise Heath and Vince Torro, who kept their lips in touch for four days and 32 minutes, said Ruby Ruppert of Woodfield, Ill., Rte. 53 and Golf Road.

Competitors are being flown in from 11 major cities across the United States including Detroit, Milwaukee, Philadelphia and San Diego, said Dave Herzog of WEA Distributors, Des Plaines.

The competition began in Miami, Fla., where the first kissing competition was held to promote the rock group Kiss, he said.

RULES ALLOW FOR five-minute breaks each hour during the first two days of competition, five minutes every two hours on the third day and five minutes every three hours on the fourth day, Miss Ruppert said.

The contestants play cards, chess and read books while competing, she said, adding winners will also get an eight-day all expense-paid trip to Acapulco.

Kisses will be sold by Playboy bunnies Saturday in a booth near the Grand Mall of Woodfield where the competition will be held. Proceeds will go to St. Jude's Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., she added.

Celebrities expected on the scene include Howard Cosell, Jan Murray, Joel Gray, and disc jockey Larry Lu-jack of WCFL, co-sponsor of the competition with Casa Blanca records.

had acted to approve Monday night's program.

Officials and residents from Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights objected vehemently when Arlington Park's former owner, Marje Everett, first proposed night racing in 1968-69.

However Arlington Heights is barred by the terms of its annexation agreement with Arlington Park from any further objection to night horse racing.

SOMMERS SAID "It was only today that we found out there was opposition. We hope anyone who's interested will attend the hearing (today)."

The racing board is scheduled to convene at noon, on the 10th floor of the State of Illinois Building, 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago.

Arlington Park Pres. Jack Loomie is expected to request permission for day-night races at Arlington Park this Friday and Saturday if the dispute at Sportsman's Park is not resolved.

Students to produce drama at Maine West

"Story Theatre," a dramatization of Grimm's fairy tales by Paul Silks, will be produced at Maine West High School this summer by students enrolled in drama in the summer school program.

Under the direction of Robert Norris, a member of the English department, students will be working on all phases of the production — set construction, make-up, costumes, lighting, sound and acting. The course will meet from 7 - 10 p.m. Monday through Friday from June 17 through July 8.

The production dates will be July 19 through 22.

The 1974 summer school program is, for the first time, a non-tuition program. Maine students, non-Maine students, incoming freshmen and graduates may enroll in drama or in any other course offered.

Registration is now being held in the Maine West personnel office from 7:50 a.m. until 4:20 p.m. Monday through Friday. Additional information concerning courses, credits, time schedules and room assignments may be obtained by telephoning 827-6176 ext. 399.

Golden agers

by JUNE LANDMEIER

The needs of older adults for happy, satisfying, creative activities in the greater leisure which is theirs is a concern of staff and board members of the Des Plaines Park District. A variety of activities are offered to these men and women who have attained the age of 60. These are noted in the summer brochure and in the Golden Agers' calendar. They are available at meetings of the Golden Agers and in the park office, 748 Pearson St.

Location of Parks are: West Park 651 Wolf Rd.; South Park, 1650 Howard St.

June 4 — West Park — noon to 4 p.m. — potluck lunch and table-games.

June 7 — West Park — 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. — An evening of music by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Williams.

June 11 — South Park — noon to 4 p.m. — potluck lunch and table-games.

June 14 — South Park — 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. — The "Over-80" party for members who are at least 80 years of age. The Square Dance Club will also meet at South Park during the same hours. The "Over 80" group might like to join the dancers or just watch the fun. Special refreshments will be served. Reservations from the two groups would be appreciated.

June 18 — Arlington Park Race Track — details will be announced at meetings.

June 21 — West Park — 6 p.m. — annual outdoor buffet, sign-up papers will be distributed at meetings. Each person will bring a contribution of food. The Maine West High School band concert will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Teacher to be cited at reception today

Veteran Des Plaines elementary school teacher Mrs. Laura Eckert will be honored at a reception at 3:30 p.m. today at Forest Elementary School, Fifth and Forest avenues.

Mrs. Eckert, a third-grade teacher at Forest, has taught in Dist. 62 for 28 of her 37 years of teaching. She formerly taught at West and Algonquin schools before joining the staff at Forest School.

Historical unit head will attend seminar

Des Plaines Historical Society director Richard Welch, has been named to attend a seminar on the interpretation of history for local historical societies and museums in Springfield, June 2-14.

Welch, 32, is among 20 historical society and museum directors chosen to participate in the program sponsored by the American Assn., for State and Local History in cooperation with the Illinois State Historical Library.

The seminar will include instruction in care and use of historical manuscripts, photographs, and historical artifacts along with planning and design of school and community programs.

Auditors OK not-for-profit day care center proposal

The Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors Tuesday approved establishment of the township's own not-for-profit day care center.

The center will be established according to a proposal submitted by Dora Fowler at a special meeting last week. The proposal calls for Mrs. Fowler to be hired as a township employee to work "hand in hand" with a citizens' advisory committee to set up the program.

The center would be operated by a not-for-profit corporation composed of citizens with the township board supplying financial support. Mrs. Fowler said her proposed center would be eligible for federal and state funds as well as savings on milk, food and taxes because of its not-for-profit backing.

The estimated cost of operating the center would be $35 per child per week with the township subsidizing on a sliding scale the care for children of low-income families.

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR Robert M. Hall said Mrs. Fowler "is ready to start work next Monday."

During discussion, Hall said, "We would be best to go with the not-for-profit corporation and hire Dora Fowler to run this for us." He gave as reasons a township identity with the center, active citizen participation and "the fact that we won't be using tax money for any private profit corporation."

Three other day care proposals included as part of their plans using existing for-profit facilities or corporations.

The township will get its money for the day care center from Federal Revenue Sharing funds and has budgeted $30,000 for this program.

"Legally there is no problem," with using revenue funds for the center, Hall said, referring to a written opinion from the township attorney. However, the township has yet to set the criteria for defining "low-income."

In other business the township board voted to accept a bid for life and hospitalization insurance covering 16 full-time township employees. The bid was for $572.80 per month from Prudential Insurance Co.

DIST 211 TEACHERS rallied at Fremd High School Monday night to ask for a 10 per cent raise in pay next year. Shirley Mertz, chairman of their negotiating team, reported the progress of bargaining talks as Dan O'Brien, past president of the Dist. 211 Education Assn. looks on.

Teachers rally behind bargainers

More than 250 High School Dist. 211 teachers rallied last night to support their negotiating team's demand for a 10 per cent raise in salary for teachers next year.

Teachers will rally again tonight at 7 p.m. outside the Dist. 211 administration center as teacher negotiators and the board of education's negotiating committee sit down to another round of bargaining.

Many of the teachers said they would be willing to continue bargaining talks to September but would not go back to school this fall without a contract settlement.

The board's most recent offer is a 6.2 per cent increase in pay which would raise the base pay for teachers from $8,950 to $9,500. Teachers want the base pay raised to $9,850.

SHIRLEY MERTZ, chairman of the teachers' negotiating team, told teachers the team is rejecting the board's offer because the consumer price index rose 12.6 per cent from Feb. 1973 to Feb. 1974, while teachers received only a 4 per cent increase in salary.

Next year the index is predicted to rise 12.6 per cent, said Mrs. Mertz. One teacher in the rally suggested that the team ask for a 13 per cent raise in salary next year instead of the 10 per cent figure now being bargained. Mrs. Mertz said the team's goal is to "get you a contract that puts you ahead of the cost of living." Her words were followed by applause from the teachers gathered in the Fremd High School gymnasium.

Mrs. Mertz said the team is unwilling to negotiate with the board throughout the summer because in the past little has been accomplished while school is not in session. If a settlement is not reached by mid-June she said teachers would resume negotiations in mid-August but "our committee feels with mixed emotions, that our teachers should not work without a contract."

DIST. 211'S PRESENT contract with teachers contains a no-strike clause, but some teachers suggested they could call in sick or withhold student grades in retaliation.

If teachers don't hold out for a settlement this year, Mrs. Mertz said "we won't be believed next year or the year after."

DIST. 211 Board Pres. Robert Creek said Friday, "the district is limited in its income." Any increase in the base pay for teachers is in addition to the 5.3 per cent increment teachers receive yearly for additional experience until they reach the top of the salary scale after 16 years, he said.

Mrs. Mertz said last night Creek's argument is unfounded because all teachers grow with experience. "The increment is your reward for additional competence and I don't think there's one teacher at Dist. 211 that doesn't grow in one year."

Elk Grove High spring choral festival tonight

Elk Grove High School will present the annual spring choral festival today at 8 p.m. A program of choral music will be presented by the concert choir, girls glee club, boys glee club, and girls chorus. Elk Grove and Lively Junior High School choruses will also perform at the concert.

Opening the program will be the Grove Junior High chorus under the direction of Harmon Greenblatt singing "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and "Sentimental Journey." The Lively Junior High chorus will sing selections from their recent musical "Music Man," under the direction of Nancy Green. Some of the numbers will be: "Good Night Ladies," "Shipooi," and "Gary, Indiana."

Some of the selections sung by the Elk Grove High School girls chorus will be: "Where is Love," "Sleepytime Bach," "The River," and "Let Us Sing." The Boys chorus program will include, "May God Smile on You," "Bill Grogan's Goat," "The Happy Wanderer,"

"Banana," and "Song of the Vagabonds." "Alleluia," "The Shadow of Your Smile," "In Days to Come," and "It's a Good Day" will be the girls glee club offering.

The concert choir will sing, "All Good Gifts" from "Godspell," arranged by senior Jewel Knoepfle; "The Second Time Around," "Auction Cries," "My Bonnie Lass She Smellth," and "A New Day." The high school groups are directed by Gary Parker and Harry Swenson. Accompanists are Bill Smedley, Jewel Knoepfle and Ken Wennerberg.

The finale number will combine all the choruses in "Song Triumphant," directed by Harry Swenson and accompanied by a brass sextet composed of Scott Moninger, Bill Sprenger, Tom Wold, Stan Quinn, Pat Brooks and Tim Toudinsky.

Rolling Meadows attorney forces decision

by KURT BAER

The City of Rolling Meadows apparently forced the cancellation of night racing at Arlington Park Race Track Monday when it threatened to sue the state racing board for a violation of the Illinois open meetings law.

The city's attorney, Donald Rose, Monday objected to a weekend telephone poll of racing board members which had been used as authorization for Arlington Park to schedule its first nighttime horse races since 1960.

Rose said he was less than 20 minutes away from filing a Cook County Circuit Court suit that would have requested an emergency injunction against the night races when the attorney for the racing board, Martin Oberman, called to say the program would be canceled.

The decision was announced just six hours before the 8 p.m. scheduled starting time of the first evening race.

The racing board will hold a hearing at noon today to discuss the possibility of a day-night "double header" at Arlington Park Friday and Saturday.

Rose said he would attend today's hearing to object to any future nighttime racing at Arlington Park because of the potential disturbance it poses to Rolling Meadows residents who live directly across Euclid Avenue from the race track.

ILLINOIS RACING Board Chairman Anthony Scarpino could not be reached for comment Monday on the allegation that the board had violated the open meeting statute. Ironically, it was Scarpino who, as a state legislator, authored and championed the state's tough open meeting law.

"We just weren't aware that there was any opposition to night racing out there," a racing board spokesman, Tom Sommers, said Monday. "In an emergency situation it seemed valid for the board to act without going to the trouble of all getting together in one room."

The "emergency situation" is a contract dispute between horsemen and the operators of Sportsman's Park which forced the cancellation of Monday night's harness racing opener at the track in Cicero.

Calling off the races at Sportsman's will cost the state $100,000 a day in lost revenue, Sommers said.

"Because of the obligation to protect the state's revenue, the racing board agreed to grant permission to run an evening program at Arlington Park," he said.

It was "unclear," he said, whether the board's weekend decision had violated the open meetings law.

ROLLING MEADOWS Mayor Roland Meyer said Monday the city's injunction maintained that the board violated "the public's right to know" when it failed to (Continued on page 5)

Educator to take summer 'learning' tour to Europe

by FRANCINE SLIMMER

An Elk Grove High School teacher and his wife will be in Europe this summer to share ideas on education with educators and administrators from more than 100 countries.

The teacher, George Ergang, Practical Arts Division Chairman, will be in Switzerland, Hungary, France and Denmark from June 20 to July 19, for a World Council of Comparative Education Societies' Congress and a series of seminars examining the efficiency of secondary education.

"The conference is a chance to meet with heads of educational systems throughout the world," Ergang said. He and his wife Florence, a teacher at Highland Park High School, are among 178 representatives from North America.

THE REPRESENTATIVES were chosen from applications by the Comparative Education Society headquartered at Kent State University. Ergang said the conference would cost him about $1,050, which he himself is paying.

"It's not the kind of trip for tourists," he said. There are four-to-five-day seminars in Hungary, France, West Germany and Denmark and a six-day conference in Geneva, Switzerland. But the day starts at 7:30 a.m. and continues with discussions and sessions until about midnight, he said.

The sessions will take delegates into schools to observe and talk to students, administrators and government education officials, he said. "I hope to learn something to help my own students," he said. Delegates can swap ideas about education in their own schools, districts and states, he said.

NOT ALL METHODS used in some countries can work in others, the United States included, he said. But if the conference was just on possible changes for education systems, "we could go all year," he said. A basic conference question will be "who and what are schools for?" he said. The program lists 10 specific questions under that guideline.

Ergang said he is most interested in technical education, the educational environment, informal education, guidance and counseling. After the conference, he will write a report, which must be English and French, and he said he hopes to use it in his school.

A conference like this "broadens your horizons," he said. He attended a similar conference in the Soviet Union about seven years ago.

Education is reevaluating itself, he said, referring to a New York newspaper article on public schools doing away with mandatory attendance. "You've got to have a feeling for people and their needs, wants and desires," he said. "Degrees don't mean a thing — it's people, and your philosophy on life and education."

Juvenile charged on curfew, marijuana, vehicle counts

A 15-year-old Elk Grove Village youth was turned over to juvenile authorities after police said at least 10 marijuana plants were found in his home.

Delinquency charges, alleging production of marijuana, operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent and curfew violation were placed against the youth, who was not identified because of his age.

According to reports, the youngster was stopped late Saturday by a village patrolman near the west entrance of the Grove Mall shopping center at Biesterfeld and Arlington Heights roads. The auto had no rear license plate, said police.

Upon learning the youth had no driver's license, police followed him home where it was learned he had hot-wired the auto he was driving. The car reportedly belonged to his sister-in-law.

Police said that inside the house, at least 10 and possibly 13 potted marijuana plants were discovered in a living room area.

Conant senior spent five months on project

Chris' Shaksperian mural turns his fellow students on

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Art "should be something that doesn't turn people off," says Chris Ellithorpe, senior at Conant High School.

He ought to know. A blushing Chris received a standing ovation Friday from his fellow students as he unveiled his work of art. Students, teachers and administrators pooled $600 to purchase two panels of his three-panel mural, "The Tragedy of Romeo and Juliet" which is now a permanent fixture in the school library. Chris donated the third panel to the school.

The 12-by 4-foot mural took about five months, or between 200 and 300 hours to complete, says Chris. It was a project in an independent study English class last fall and depicts several scenes from the Shaksperian play.

CHRIS DID HAVE a few problems with the mural because of its large size. He used acrylic paint, mostly blacks, browns and blues, which dried so quickly it was difficult to blend.

Chris worked on the mural at home on weekends and carried it to school on Monday where he would work on it during free periods during the week. His father, a carpenter, made the wood frame for the mural.

"I've been drawing as long as I can remember," says Chris. "About seventh grade I started painting using my brother's set of oils."

Chris now hopes to become a commercial artist and plans to enroll in Northern Illinois University in January. Right now he is looking for a full-time job for this summer and fall.

CHRIS FAVORS two styles of painting. Realism, which is the style of the mural, and surrealism or fantasy. "Some of the art today is very impersonal," says Chris. "I think of art as illustration. It's not something that is hard to understand."

Art is "not just visual," says Chris. "It's something that exists for the pleasure of the viewer." Some of the art today is "so cold people have no way of understanding it or relating to it."

ARTIST AND MURAL received a standing ovation three-panel mural, "The Tragedy of Romeo and Juliet," by Chris Ellithorpe, was purchased by the school and now hangs in the school's library. The painting took about five months to complete.

To determine interest in program

Pre-registration Saturday for hockey

Preregistration for a new combined ice hockey program will be Saturday in Elk Grove Village.

The program will be sponsored jointly by the Elk Grove Hockey Assn. and the Elk Grove Park District. Registration will be from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Lions Park Community Center, 180 Kennedy Blvd.

Rich Ludovissy, superintendent of recreation, explained the need for the preregistration. "We have to know how many boys will be in the program to determine cost and to know how much ice time will be necessary," Ludovissy said. While the actual fee for the hockey program won't be determined until after preregistration, Ludovissy roughly estimated cost to be between $60 and $75 for the "house league" and $75 to $85 for the "traveling league."

"AFTER PREREGISTRATION we'll contact all those who've signed up and give a more exact price," Ludovissy added.

The combined program will replace separate programs previously sponsored by the hockey association and the park district. Due to warm weather conditions which has all but wiped out outdoor winter hockey programs, the park district has been contemplating changing to more expensive, but more reliable indoor ice time, said Ludovissy.

Boys between five and 18 will be eligible to compete in the program which will have a variety of age level groupings.

The preregistration fee will be $5. Further information about the hockey program can be obtained by calling Tom Hunter at the park district, 437-4220.

E. Dundee man charged here on theft counts

A 21-year-old man was arrested after police said he tried unsuccessfully to short change a Des Plaines grocery store attendant of $10. The man later admitted to at least two other such incidents in the city over the few months.

Charged with two counts of theft was John Santini, 211 Howard, East Dundee. He was taken into custody early Friday in an auto with four other persons who were later released without charges.

According to reports, Santini tried to swindle a White Hen Pantry store clerk, 935 Oakton St., several minutes earlier.

Police said Santini was thwarted in his attempts when the clerk, Dillard Baker, 26, realized what Santini was trying to do and refused to give him change.

Santini allegedly left the store and then drove off, but Baker relayed a description of the man and the auto to police. Baker later identified Santini as the man who tried to swindle him, said police.

Under questioning, the suspect told police he used the short change routine to steal at least $30 from the Shakey's pizza parlor, 865 Elmhurst Rd., on two other occasions.

Short change artists usually try to con unsuspecting counter clerks by asking for change in various denominations of cash, three or four times in one transaction.

He was released on $1,000 bond and has been scheduled to appear in the Des Plaines branch of circuit court July 11.

Elizabeth Kalamar honored

Nominated by 31 of her co-workers, Elizabeth Kalamar, 831 Mansfield Ct., Schaumburg, has been named the June employee of the month at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

A licensed practical nurse, she came to Alexian Brothers in September, 1972 and worked on the night staff of the fourth floor medical-surgical unit. She recently transferred to the evening shift and now serves as a "float," filling LPN positions on various nursing units throughout the medical center. The change in working hours will permit her to begin studying during the day for her RN degree.

Elizabeth and her daughter, Mona Marie, 2, live with her parents. She enjoys bicycling and pottery making.

Parents' group urges superintendent resign

by BOB GALLAS

A group of some 20 parents from about half of the schools from Dist. 59 Monday night called for the resignation of their controversial superintendent, James Erviti.

The group, represented by spokesman Mead Killion, an Elk Grove Village resident, presented copies of a letter calling for the resignation to Erviti and members of the Elk Grove Township School Board at the board's regular meeting.

The letter cited Erviti's controversy with the principals in the district, along with a claim of "declining performance in test scores and the recent failure of the state to give instant accreditation to our district," as some of the reasons for the call for Erviti's resignation.

Erviti sat silent and red-faced through Killion's reading. When presented with a copy of the letter, Erviti, even more red-faced, forced a smile and said to Killion, "I'm sorry you didn't speak to me about this." Erviti later declined further comment to the Herald.

NO BOARD MEMBERS offered any comments to the letter which came during the section of the meeting reserved for audience comments.

The letter further stated it did not want to fix blame, saying, "exact cause of the low morale currently existing in Dist. 59 is far less important than the fact that it clearly exists."

The letter continues, "As we view the present harm that has come to Dist. 59, and the potential devastating effect of a further polarization within the district, we have reached the conclusion that the interests of all of us would be better served if you could see fit to resign."

Killion emphasized that the group sending the letter did not claim to represent either all parents or "the administrations at the schools where our children attend."

When asked if he thought the group of parents for Erviti's ouster would grow, Killion said, "That depends on what happens. I don't think the number of names on the letter will have any effect."

MOUNTING PRESSURE for Erviti's resignation or termination has been growing since the disclosure of problems between the superintendent and a majority of Dist. 59 principals over personal and educational issues which center mainly around Erviti's alleged harsh treatment of principals.

Sources say that the majority of members of the school board would like to see Erviti resign, but there is not quite enough support to fire him and pay off the remaining two years of his three-year contract.

Erviti is reported to be looking for another superintendent's position.

Arson is believed to be the cause of a fire Sunday night that gutted the old Buffalo Grove Utility Co. sewage treatment plant at 145 Raupp Blvd. No one was injured.

Fire Chief Wayne Winter Monday said the fire started among some trash that was accumulated in the building since it was abandoned about six years ago. Although no one was seen leaving the concrete structure, Winter suspects the fire was started by vandals.

Fire officials said that since the old treatment plant was abandoned it has been a favorite gathering place for village youngsters. A concrete settlement tank, outside the plant was the scene of a drowning almost two years ago.

Assistant Fire Chief William Dettmer Monday said the treatment plant will be torn down within a week to prevent further problems. The settlement tank was filled in shortly after the drowning.

Winter said firemen had the blaze under control about 10 minutes after arriving at the plant and spent about 45 minutes making sure it did not rekindle.

The plant serviced the older section of the village prior to the Metropolitan Sanitary District taking over responsibility for treating the sewage.

Couples to pucker up in record-making try

The Great Kiss Off starts noon Saturday in Schaumburg's Woodfield shopping center when 11 couples from across the United States begin smooching to earn their place in the Guinness Book of World Records.

The current record is held by a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., couple, Louise Heath and Vince Torro, who kept their lips in touch for four days and 32 minutes, said Ruby Ruppert of Woodfield, Ill., Rte. 53 and Golf Road.

Competitors are being flown in from 11 major cities across the United States including Detroit, Milwaukee, Philadelphia and San Diego, said Dave Herzog of WEA Distributors, Des Plaines.

The competition began in Miami, Fla., where the first kissing competition was held to promote the rock group Kiss, he said.

RULES ALLOW FOR five-minute breaks each hour during the first two days of competition, five minutes every two hours on the third day and five minutes every three hours on the fourth day, Miss Ruppert said.

The contestants play cards, chess and read books while competing, she said, adding winners will also get an eight-day all expense-paid trip to Acapulco.

Kisses will be sold by Playboy bunnies Saturday in a booth near the Grand Mall of Woodfield where the competition will be held. Proceeds will go to St. Jude's Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., she added.

Celebrities expected on the scene include Howard Cosell, Jan Murray, Joel Gray, and disc jockey Larry Lu-jack of WFL, co-sponsor of the competition with Casa Blanca records.

Threatened lawsuit puts halt to Arlington night racing hold a public hearing on night racing.

Both Meyer and Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said Sunday they had no knowledge that the racing board had acted to approve Monday night's program.

Officials and residents from Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights objected vehemently when Arlington Park's former owner, Marjorie Everett, first proposed night racing in 1968-69.

However Arlington Heights is barred by the terms of its annexation agreement with Arlington Park from any further objection to night horse racing.

SOMMERS SAID "it was only today that we found out there was opposition. We hope anyone who's interested will attend the hearing (today)."

The racing board is scheduled to convene at noon, on the 10th floor of the State of Illinois Building, 180 N. LaSalle St., Chicago.

Arlington Park Pres. Jack Loomis is expected to request permission for day-night races at Arlington Park this Friday and Saturday if the dispute at Sportsman's Park is not resolved.

Sue McCormack enters contest

An Elk Grove Village resident is vying for the title of Miss Mount Prospect 1974.

She is Sue McCormack, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McCormack, 9 Wildwood Rd. She is a student at Harper College in Palatine and is employed as a dental assistant.

Six other contestants are in the running. The contest, sponsored by the Mount Prospect Jaycees, will be staged June 22 at Prospect High School in Mount Prospect. The winner goes on to the Miss Illinois contest.

Last-minute move by Rolling Meadows attorney

Threatened lawsuit forces night racing halt

by KURT BAER

The City of Rolling Meadows apparently forced the cancellation of night racing at Arlington Park Race Track Monday when it threatened to sue the state racing board for a violation of the Illinois open meetings law.

The city's attorney, Donald Rose, Monday objected to a weekend telephone poll of racing board members which had been used as authorization for Arlington Park to schedule its first nighttime horse races since 1969.

Rose said he was less than 20 minutes away from filing a Cook County Circuit Court suit that would have requested an emergency injunction against the night races when the attorney for the racing board, Martin Oberman, called to say the program would be canceled.

The decision was announced just six hours before the 8 p.m. scheduled starting time of the first evening race.

The racing board will hold a hearing at noon today to discuss the possibility of a day-night "double header" at Arlington Park Friday and Saturday.

Rose said he would attend today's hearing to object to any future nighttime racing at Arlington Park because of the potential disturbance it poses to Rolling Meadows residents who live directly across Euclid Avenue from the race track.

ILLINOIS RACING Board Chairman Anthony Sciarano could not be reached for comment Monday on the allegation that the board had violated the open meeting statute. Ironically, it was Sciarano who, as a state legislator, authored and championed the state's tough open meeting law.

"We just weren't aware that there was any opposition to night racing out there," a racing board spokesman, Tom Sommers, said Monday. "In an emergency situation it seemed valid for the board to act without going to the trouble of all getting together in one room."

The "emergency situation" is a contract dispute between horsemen and the operators of Sportsman's Park which forced the cancellation of Monday night's harness racing opener at the track in Cicero.

Calling off the races at Sportsman's will cost the state $100,000 a day in lost revenue, Sommers said.

"Because of the obligation to protect

Free passes cool off hot handicappers

Hundreds of cars, carrying several thousand horse racing fans, were turned away from the gates at Arlington Park Race Track Monday evening with the words, "I'm sorry, but tonight's races have been canceled."

Most of the fans took the news with a shrug of the shoulders, and free passes to some other day at the races went a long way toward cooling potentially hot tempers.

"Why wasn't this on the six o'clock news? That's what I wonder," said one man who, with his family drove from Waukegan for what would have been the novelty night of racing at Arlington Park.

Another carload from Milwaukee seemed more interested in what the afternoon's Daily Double had paid, than the parking attendant's explanation of why last night's program had been scratched.

The free passes, though stamped 1973, will be honored on any racing day this season, the attendant said.

the state's revenue, the racing board agreed to grant permission to run an evening program at Arlington Park," he said.

It was "unclear," he said, whether the board's weekend decision had violated the open meetings law.

ROLLING MEADOWS Mayor Roland Meyer said Monday the city's injunction maintained that the board violated "the public's right to know" when it failed to hold a public hearing on night racing.

"The papers were all drawn up and ready to be taken to court," said Meyer, who had instructed Rose to look into the ethics of the racing board's decision.

Both Meyer and Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said Sunday they had no knowledge that the racing board had acted to approve Monday night's program.

RACE FANS ARE directed out of Arlington Park track's season opener. An hour later, cars arriving for an announced evening program were turned away. Under threat of a lawsuit, the Illinois Racing Board canceled the nighttime races.

Power failure hits Lake Louise homes

A power failure in the Lake Louise subdivision left approximately 90 Palatine homes without electricity Monday morning.

Jack Stephens, spokesman for Commonwealth Edison, said the company was notified of the power failure at 7:45 a.m. and within an hour power had been restored to all but 25 of the residents.

The power failure was caused by an underground cable failure and was confined to an area generally bordered on the east by Everett Drive, north by Reynolds Drive and on the west by Ill. Rte. 53.

Lake Louise School was without power in sections of the building but power was restored shortly after classes started without any disruption.

Band and choir to give concerts

The symphonic band and the a cappella choir at Palatine High School will give concerts Wednesday and Thursday at 8 p.m. in the school's Cutting Hall.

Both groups will perform several selections before they join for the finale "Look to This Day." Underclassmen recently promoted to upperclassmen music groups will join in the finale. About 330 students are in music groups this year. There will be 400 next year.

per cent raise in salary for teachers next year.

Teachers will rally again tonight at 7 p.m. outside the Dist. 211 administration center as teacher negotiators and the board of education's negotiating committee sit down to another round of bargaining.

Many of the teachers said they would be willing to continue bargaining talks to September but would not go back to school this fall without a contract settlement.

The board's most recent offer is a 6.2 per cent increase in pay which would raise the base pay for teachers from $8,950 to $9,500. Teachers want the base pay raised to $9,850.

SHIRLEY MERTZ, chairman of the teachers' negotiating team, told teachers the team is rejecting the board's offer because the consumer price index rose 12.6 per cent from Feb. 1973 to Feb. 1974, while teachers received only a 4 per cent increase in salary.

Next year the index is predicted to rise 12.6 per cent, said Mrs. Mertz. One teacher in the rally suggested that the team ask for a 13 per cent raise in salary next year instead of the 10 per cent figure now being bargained. Mrs. Mertz said the team's goal is to "get you a contract that puts you ahead of the cost of living." Her words were followed by applause from the teachers gathered in the Fremd High School gymnasium.

Mrs. Mertz said the team is unwilling to negotiate with the board throughout the summer because in the past little has been accomplished while school is not in session. If a settlement is not reached by mid-June she said teachers would resume negotiations in mid-August but "our committee feels with mixed emotions, that our teachers should not work without a contract."

DIST. 211'S PRESENT contract with teachers contains a no-strike clause, but some teachers suggested they could call in sick or withhold student grades in retaliation.

If teachers don't hold out for a settlement this year, Mrs. Mertz said "we won't be believed next year or the year after."

Dist. 211 Board Pres. Robert Creek said Friday, "the district is limited in its income." Any increase in the base pay for teachers is in addition to the 5.3 per cent increment teachers receive yearly for additional experience until they reach the top of the salary scale after 16 years, he said.

Mrs. Mertz said last night Creek's argument is unfounded because all teachers grow with experience. "The increment is your reward for additional competence and I don't think there's one teacher at Dist. 211 that doesn't grow in one year."

DIST 211 TEACHERS rallied at Fremd High School Monday night to ask for a 10 per cent raise in pay next year. Shirley Mertz, chairman of their negotiating team, reported the progress of bargaining talks as Dan O'Brien, past president of the Dist. 211 Education Assn. looks on.

Contract for repaving Palatine Road awarded

A $1 million contract for repaving and widening of Palatine Road from Algonquin Road to just west of Quentin Road was awarded Monday by the Cook County Board.

A starting date for the project has not been determined, but Hugo J. Stark, superintendent of the Cook County Department of Highways, indicated that a strike by cement truck drivers in the Chicago area could hold up several projects. The Palatine Road work is part of $2,773,809 in contracts the board approved for six highway improvement jobs and three bridge repair projects in the county.

The contractor, Glertz-Melahn Asphalt Co. of South Elgin, will meet with the highway department this week to establish starting and completion dates for the project. A spokesman for the company said Monday that current projects are continuing despite the cement truck drivers' strike, although the Palatine Road work could be delayed.

MOST OF THE six-mile stretch is to be improved with asphalt paving, shoulder work and guard rails where needed. The intersections of Palatine Road with Algonquin, Barrington and Elia roads will be widened to three lanes.

The county will pay for the Palatine Road work with $1,019,917 in Motor Fuel Tax funds. The road passes through Barrington and Palatine townships and the villages of Palatine, Hoffman Estates, Inverness, Barrington and Barrington Hills.

The section of Palatine road through downtown Palatine will still separate the newly improved stretch from the four-lane, divided section east of Palatine. The village is seeking a plan to widen the road within the village limits, although it does not have the authority to do the work.

Sandy Robinson wins medal in 'Olympics'

Sandy Robinson recently won a silver medal in the 1974 Northern Illinois Area Special Olympics Track and Field events in Chicago.

Sandy represented the Little City Foundation of Palatine and finished second in the female 220-yard run for 13- through 15-year-olds. Her time was 35.1 seconds.

Sandy is eligible to compete against winners of the southern, central and western area games at the Illinois State Special Olympics in Chicago on July 11 and 12.

The Illinois Special Olympics is co-sponsored by the Chicago Park District, Mentally Retarded Olympian Program Inc. and the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation.

Parks must look for new pool location

A location for the Salt Creek Park District's summer swim program will likely be discussed today when the district's board of commissioners meets at 8 p.m.

Park officials were notified last week that Arlington Park Towers hotel officials, due to a change in policy, were no longer making available use of the pool to the district. The district has no swimming pool of its own and has for several years been allowed to use the hotel pool free. The district also provided life guards for the hotel's use as part of the program.

The swim program has traditionally been one of the district's most successful, and James Devos, director of parks and recreation, said Friday discussions are under way to attempt to find another pool for the district's use.

NO DECISION WAS reached Monday on the possible use of the Baybrook condominium swimming pool located on Palatine Road near Winston Drive. Devos had said that pool might be used for the summer swim program if an agreement with the project's officials could be reached.

If no agreement is reached, discussions could be held with owners of the Willow Creek development on Northwest Highway and Rohlfing Road for use of that swimming pool.

The board is also expected to conduct a public hearing on the proposed $178,000 budget for the current fiscal year, a 13 per cent increase over last year's $154,579 budget.

The meeting will be held in the Rose Park fieldhouse, 530 S. Williams St., Palatine.

Fremd student wins scholarship to USC

Fremd High School senior Mitchell Durward West will enter the University of Southern California this September as a trustee scholar.

West ranks first in his 524-member graduating class at Fremd. He is one of 11 students to be designated trustee scholars among more than 2,400 incoming freshmen. The honor is given for academic achievement, leadership and talent.

West has been a member of the school band and orchestra and played on the junior varsity football and tennis teams. He has worked part-time as a water meter reader for the Village of Palatine and holds a clerical job with Palatine Elementary School Dist. 15.

Would you like a credit reserve of $300 to $3000 to cover checks beyond the balance in your checking account?

C.R.C.

The end of the overdraw

It happens . . . a genuine once-in-a-lifetime sale is announced . . . unexpected expenses or an emergency comes along . . . and the balance in your check book isn't sufficient to cover the cost. Where will you get the money?

You could apply for a regular loan — if you have the time. Or you could take the easiest, most convenient course of all — and simply write a check for it. With a Credit Reserve Checking account — CRC — you have instant "borrowing power" that lets you write checks for more money than you have in your account. You use your regular personal checks, so no one knows you are borrowing — a feature many users appreciate and you make your purchase just as though you had the money all the time.

A few quick facts about this modern new checking account concept:

☐ You can borrow as often as you like — up to the limit of your credit reserve. Each time you write a check for more money than you have in your checking account, funds are automatically transferred in multiples of $100 from your Credit Reserve to your checking account. When repayment is made, the line of credit is built back to its original amount and can be used again and again.

How much money can you borrow?

A credit reserve of from $300 to $3000 can be established dependent upon your income and ability to make repayments.

Is it costly?

It costs you nothing to open a Credit Reserve Checking Account. In fact, you may never have occasion to use the credit reserve of your CRC account — although it's a good feeling to know that it's there, — and should this be the case, this extra security will never cost you any more than a regular checking account. If and when you do write a check for more money than you have in your account, you pay only a small monthly interest charge.

☐ Repayments will be automatically deducted from your checking account each month in the amount determined by the loan agreement.

☐ Pre-payments can be made at any time without penalty charge.

☐ Notification of all funds deposited to your checking account is sent to you by the bank along with a statement of your Credit Reserve and regular checking account balance.

Last-minute move by Rolling Meadows attorney

by KURT BAER

The City of Rolling Meadows apparently forced the cancellation of night racing at Arlington Park Race Track Monday when it threatened to sue the state racing board for a violation of the Illinois open meetings law.

The city's attorney, Donald Rose, Monday objected to a weekend telephone poll of racing board members which had been used as authorization for Arlington Park to schedule its first nighttime horse races since 1969.

Rose said he was less than 20 minutes away from filing a Cook County Circuit Court suit that would have requested an emergency injunction against the night races when the attorney for the racing board, Martin Oberman, called to say the program would be canceled.

The decision was announced just six hours before the 8 p.m. scheduled starting time of the first evening race.

The racing board will hold a hearing at noon today to discuss the possibility of a day-night "double header" at Arlington Park Friday and Saturday.

Rose said he would attend today's hearing to object to any future nighttime racing at Arlington Park because of the potential disturbance it poses to Rolling Meadows residents who live directly across Euclid Avenue from the race track.

ILLINOIS RACING Board Chairman Anthony Scarlano could not be reached for comment Monday on the allegation that the board had violated the open meeting statute. Ironically, it was Scarlano who, as a state legislator, authored and championed the state's tough open meeting law.

"We just weren't aware that there was any opposition to night racing out there," a racing board spokesman, Tom Sommers, said Monday. "In an emergency situation it seemed valid for the board to act without going to the trouble of all getting together in one room."

The "emergency situation" is a contract dispute between horsemen and the operators of Sportsman's Park which forced the cancellation of Monday night's harness racing opener at the track in Cicero.

Calling off the races at Sportsman's will cost the state $100,000 a day in lost revenue, Sommers said.

"Because of the obligation to protect

Free passes cool off hot handicappers

Hundreds of cars, carrying several thousand horse racing fans, were turned away from the gates at Arlington Park Race Track Monday evening with the words, "I'm sorry, but tonight's races have been canceled."

Most of the fans took the news with a shrug of the shoulders, and free passes to some other day at the races went a long way toward cooling potentially hot tempers.

"Why wasn't this on the six o'clock news? That's what I wonder," said one man who, with his family drove from Waukegan for what would have been the novelty night of racing at Arlington Park.

Another carload from Milwaukee seemed more interested in what the afternoon's Daily Double had paid, than the parking attendant's explanation of why last night's program had been scratched.

The free passes, though stamped 1973, will be honored on any racing day this season, the attendant said.

the state's revenue, the racing board agreed to grant permission to run an evening program at Arlington Park," he said.

It was "unclear," he said, whether the board's weekend decision had violated the open meetings law.

ROLLING MEADOWS Mayor Roland Meyer said Monday the city's injunction maintained that the board violated "the public's right to know" when it failed to hold a public hearing on night racing.

"The papers were all drawn up and ready to be taken to court," said Meyer, who had instructed Rose to look into the ethics of the racing board's decision.

Both Meyer and Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said Sunday they had no knowledge that the racing board had acted to approve Monday night's program.

RACE FANS ARE directed out of Arlington Park track's season opener. An hour later, cars arriving away. Under threat of a lawsuit, the Illinois Racing Board canceled the nighttime races.

Teachers rally behind bargainers

More than 250 High School Dist. 211 teachers rallied last night to support their negotiating team's demand for a 10 per cent raise in salary for teachers next year.

Teachers will rally again tonight at 7 p.m. outside the Dist. 211 administration center as teacher negotiators and the board of education's negotiating committee sit down to another round of bargaining.

Many of the teachers said they would be willing to continue bargaining talks to September but would not go back to school this fall without a contract settlement.

The board's most recent offer is a 6.2 per cent increase in pay which would raise the base pay for teachers from $8,050 to $9,500. Teachers want the base pay raised to $9,850.

SHIRLEY MERTZ, chairman of the teachers' negotiating team, told teachers the team is rejecting the board's offer because the consumer price index rose 12.6 per cent from Feb. 1973 to Feb. 1974, while teachers received only a 4 per cent increase in salary.

Next year the index is predicted to rise 12.6 per cent, said Mrs. Mertz. One teacher in the rally suggested that the team ask for a 13 per cent raise in salary next year instead of the 10 per cent figure now being bargained. Mrs. Mertz said the team's goal is to "get you a contract that puts you ahead of the cost of living." Her words were followed by applause from the teachers gathered in the Fremd High School gymnasium.

Mrs. Mertz said the team is unwilling to negotiate with the board throughout the summer because in the past little has been accomplished while school is not in session. If a settlement is not reached by mid-June she said teachers would resume negotiations in mid-August but "our committee feels with mixed emotions, that our teachers should not work without a contract."

DIST. 211'S PRESENT contract with teachers contains a no-strike clause, but some teachers suggested they could call in sick or withhold student grades in retaliation.

If teachers don't hold out for a settlement this year, Mrs. Mertz said "we won't be believed next year or the year after."

Dist. 211 Board Pres. Robert Creek said Friday, "the district is limited in its income." Any increase in the base pay for teachers is in addition to the 5.3 per cent increment teachers receive yearly for additional experience until they reach the top of the salary scale after 16 years, he said.

Mrs. Mertz said last night Creek's argument is unfounded because all teachers grow with experience. "The increment is your reward for additional competence and I don't think there's one teacher at Dist. 211 that doesn't grow in one year."

Parks must look for new pool location

A location for the Salt Creek Park District's summer swim program will likely be discussed today when the district's board of commissioners meets at 8 p.m.

Park officials were notified last week that Arlington Park Towers hotel officials, due to a change in policy, were no longer making available use of the pool to the district. The district has no swimming pool of its own and has for several years been allowed to use the hotel pool free. The district also provided life guards for the hotel's use as part of the program.

The swim program has traditionally been one of the district's most successful, and James Devos, director of parks and recreation, said Friday discussions are under way to attempt to find another pool for the district's use.

NO DECISION WAS reached Monday on the possible use of the Baybrook condominium swimming pool located on Palatine Road near Winston Drive. Devos had said that pool might be used for the summer swim program if an agreement with the project's officials could be reached.

If no agreement is reached, discussions could be held with owners of the Willow Creek development on Northwest Highway and Rohlfing Road for use of that swimming pool.

The meeting will be held in the Rose Park fieldhouse, 530 S. Williams St., Palatine.

Couples to pucker up in record-making try

The Great Kiss Off starts noon Saturday in Schaumburg's Woodfield shopping center when 11 couples from across the United States begin smooching to earn their place in the Guinness Book of World Records.

The current record is held by a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., couple, Louise Heath and Vince Torro, who kept their lips in touch for four days and 32 minutes, said Ruby Ruppert of Woodfield, Ill., Rte. 53 and Golf Road.

Competitors are being flown in from 11 major cities across the United States including Detroit, Milwaukee, Philadelphia and San Diego, said Dave Herold of WEA Distributors, Des Plaines.

The competition began in Miami, Fla., where the first kissing competition was held to promote the rock group Kiss, he said.

RULES ALLOW FOR five-minute breaks each hour during the first two days of competition, five minutes every two hours on the third day and five minutes every three hours on the fourth day, Miss Ruppert said.

The contestants play cards, chess and read books while competing, she said, adding winners will also get an eight-day all expense-paid trip to Acapulco.

Kisses will be sold by Playboy bunnies Saturday in a booth near the Grand Mall of Woodfield where the competition will be held. Proceeds will go to St. Jude's Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., she added.

Celebrities expected on the scene include Howard Cosell, Jan Murray, Joel Gray, and disc jockey Larry Lu-Jack of WCFL, co-sponsor of the competition with Casa Blanca records.

Auditors OK not-for-profit day care center proposal

The Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors Tuesday approved establishment of the township's own not-for-profit day care center.

The center will be established according to a proposal submitted by Dora Fowler at a special meeting last week. The proposal calls for Mrs. Fowler to be hired as a township employee to work "hand in hand" with a citizens' advisory committee to set up the program.

The center would be operated by a not-for-profit corporation composed of citizens with the township board supplying financial support. Mrs. Fowler said her proposed center would be eligible for federal and state funds as well as savings on milk, food and taxes because of its not-for-profit backing.

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR Robert M. Hall said Mrs. Fowler "is ready to start work next Monday."

this for us." He gave as reasons a township identity with the center, active citizen participation and "the fact that we won't be using tax money for any private profit corporation."

Three other day care proposals included as part of their plans using existing for-profit facilities or corporations.

The township will get its money for the day care center from Federal Revenue Sharing funds and has budgeted $30,000 for this program.

"Legally there is no problem," with using revenue funds for the center, Hall said, referring to a written opinion from the township attorney. However, the township has yet to set the criteria for defining "low-income."

In other business the township board voted to accept a bid for life and hospitalization insurance covering 18 full-time township employees. The bid was for $572.80 per month from Prudential Insurance Co.

Metron chief seeks more bus routes

The president of Metron Systems Corp. said Monday he still hopes to set up Northwest suburban bus routes despite the firm's ending service in Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove.

Metron made its last run Friday for some 100 commuters in the two suburbs, terminating the nine-month-old service because it was costing the firm $4,500 a month in losses.

"We're still in business," Metron Pres. Claude G. Luisada said Monday. "But we don't know what's going to happen."

He indicated he would continue to pursue efforts to set up bus service in other suburbs, including Mount Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

IN EACH municipality, Luisada has made presentations offering to conduct a study of transportation needs, then to set up and manage a bus system to meet the needs.

In Mount Prospect, the Metron proposal is being studied by the village board's fire and police committee, with no decision expected in the near future.

In Rolling Meadows, the city council's public works-building and zoning committee is reviewing the proposal, though Mayor Roland Meyer gave it a cool reception, suggesting that the city rent two buses from a local church and run its own transportation service.

In Schaumburg, the Metron plan is being considered, along with two other proposals and a third for contract bus service, by the village's mass transportation committee. A decision on whether to start bus service is expected to be made by the village board this month.

IN WHEELING, no action has been taken on the Metron proposal.

The bus service in Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove consisted of rush hour rides to and from the Arlington Heights train station from the Northgate, Mill Creek, Ivy Hill, Berkley Square and Surrey Ridge subdivisions and the Windsor Woods and Villa Verde apartments. About 100 commuters regularly took the bus.

Luisada attempted to secure a subsidy from the Village of Arlington Heights in order to continue the bus service, but the village board turned down the request, forcing the closing of the service.

11-story condo apartments sought in Schaumburg

Eleven-story condominium apartment buildings are to be proposed in Schaumburg on the east side of Roselle Road, north of Wise Road.

G-S Building Corp. is asking the village to annex and zone 60 acres for a 926-unit development. Land for the project, owned by the George Longosz family, touches an 80-foot Northern Illinois Gas Co. pipeline easement on the north and is located between the Nantucket Cove condominium development and Lancer subdivision.

The builder is investigating the possibility of converting the vacant easement property to walkways, bicycle paths and other recreational facilities, said Jane Mathieson, a planner with Babbitt and Associates.

"DEVELOPMENT OF this type would take advantage of the pipeline property as well as serve as a method of linking the east and west sides of the village," she explained.

Miss Mathieson said the easement runs from I-90 on the east to the western boundary of the village and indicated that the builder would hope to develop the recreational areas on each side of his project.

The housing development proper would consist of 926 units consisting of townhomes (286) as well as three seven-story and two 11-story condominium buildings. Townhomes, planned in neighborhood clusters of 20, would have at least a one-car garage, plus surface parking. The larger buildings are being designed with underground and surface parking.

A SIX-ACRE commercial area is being reserved in the southwest end of the land as well as a proposed recreation complex which Miss Mathieson values at about $150,000. The facility would contain a pool, children's spray pool, recreation building and social center, plus a beer garden and tennis courts.

She estimated 180 children of elementary school age will be generated from the development and said a meeting is being planned with Schaumburg Township Dist. 211 to discuss the tax impact on the elementary school system which may result.

Approximately 50 high school-age students are expected, she said, noting that property is just west of a Township High School Dist. 211 school site near Plum Grove Road.

A public hearing on the annexation and zoning request is scheduled for 8 p.m. June 19 in Lincoln Hall, civic center, 101 S. Schaumburg Ct.

Hoffman Estates halts K&B residential building

The Hoffman Estates Village Board Monday night ordered a halt to construction of all residential buildings except those already started by Kaufman and Broad Inc.

In a strongly worded resolution the board directed only structures presently being built or those with foundations already in place may be finished by the firm which pleaded guilty in federal court this winter to bribing six former village officials. The order does not apply to commercial structures.

Mayor Virginia Hayter and village Atty. Edward Hofert said the village still is considering filing a lawsuit against K & B as it was urged to do by Loop attorney John Ryan.

Hofert said he could not predict when a decision on the suit will be made.

He and Mayor Hayter declined to comment when asked if the resolution was designed to prompt K&B to sue the village. The resolution notes the 1968 bribery and states K&B has made "substantial and unfair profits from them," which "it ought not in good equity and conscience be permitted to keep."

THE STATEMENT described the K&B development as "particularly unfortunate from a planning standpoint."

Construction cannot be resumed until the village investigates the advisability of the development plan. The resolution authorizes Village Mgr. George Longmeyer to hire planning and other experts as necessary to determine whether existing R-4A zoning on the remaining undeveloped property should be maintained and construction permitted or whether the land should be rezoned.

K&B officials were not warned the village intended to consider the resolution Monday night, although Hofert had said he hoped then to present trustees with a recommendation on the proposed lawsuit. When asked whether K&B would be forced to sue the village because of the resolution, Hofert said he had "no idea as to what they could do."

The resolution was approved unanimously with no discussion by trustees.

Peskin witness before zoning board

by NANCY COWGER

A prosecution witness in the Bernard M. Peskin bribery trial who now is on probation as an accessory to fraud will petition the Hoffman Estates Zoning Board of Appeals for a zoning variance tonight.

A public hearing is scheduled on the request by Maurice Sanderman, partner in Highland Development Group, for an office-warehouse building in the Barrington Square Park for Industry.

The industrial park is being developed by Kaufman and Broad Inc., which pleaded guilty in the zoning bribery scandal involving Peskin and six former Hoffman Estates officials. Sanderman worked for Kaufman and Broad when he became involved in the bribing of a Federal Housing Authority official, and as comptroller for the company he handled payment of $100,000 to Peskin. The $35,000 in bribes Peskin passed to village officials was taken from the $100,000.

IN FEDERAL COURT testimony in Peskin's trial, Sanderman said he pleaded guilty in December 1972 as an accessory in a case in which an FHA official received a bribe for defrauding the FHA. He was sentenced to two years probation. Sanderman confirmed in a telephone interview Monday he still is on probation.

Sanderman also testified he personally kept records of payments to Peskin totaling $100,000 in the guise of legal fees. He was instructed by his superior at Kaufman and Broad to "not treat the payments under normal accounting procedures," and to "isolate them, handle and keep track of them myself."

Monday, Sanderman said "I wasn't involved in any of those things that happened other than being employed in Kaufman and Broad. It all took place before I was there." Sanderman first was employed at the firm in June 1968, received Stulberg's instructions that November, made the payments in ensuing months, pleaded guilty in the FHA case in December, 1972, and left the company last August.

ASST. U.S. ATTY. Tyrone Fahner, who prosecuted Sanderman, said Sanderman's involvement in the FHA case was such that he was "low man on the totem pole, in terms of culpability. He was caught in the middle, and has paid dearly for his actions." Fahner added Sanderman "was most cooperative and helpful to the government. He was very candid with us." Fahner declined to comment further.

Village officials' reactions varied as to whether Sanderman's background has any relevance to the pending zoning vari-

DIST. 211 TEACHERS rallied at Fremd High School Monday night to ask for a 10 per cent raise in pay next year. Shirley Mertz, chairman of their negotiating team, reported the progress of bargaining talks as Dan O'Brien, past president of the Dist. 211 Education Assn. looks on.

Teachers rally behind bargainers

More than 250 High School Dist. 211 teachers rallied last night to support their negotiating team's demand for a 10 per cent raise in salary for teachers next year.

Teachers will rally again tonight at 7 p.m. outside the Dist. 211 administration center as teacher negotiators and the board of education's negotiating committee sit down to another round of bargaining.

Many of the teachers said they would be willing to continue bargaining talks to September but would not go back to school this fall without a contract settlement.

The board's most recent offer is a 6.2 per cent increase in pay which would raise the base pay for teachers from $8,950 to $9,500. Teachers want the base pay raised to $9,850.

SHIRLEY MERTZ, chairman of the teachers' negotiating team, told teachers the team is rejecting the board's offer because the consumer price index rose 12.6 per cent from Feb. 1973 to Feb. 1974, while teachers received only a 4 per cent increase in salary.

Next year the index is predicted to rise 12.6 per cent, said Mrs. Mertz. One teacher in the rally suggested that the team ask for a 13 per cent raise in salary next year instead of the 10 per cent figure now being bargained. Mrs. Mertz said the team's goal is to "get you a contract that puts you ahead of the cost of living." Her words were followed by applause from the teachers gathered in the Fremd High School gymnasium.

Mrs. Mertz said the team is unwilling to negotiate with the board throughout the summer because in the past little has been accomplished while school is not in session. If a settlement is not reached by mid-June she said teachers would resume negotiations in mid-August but "our committee feels with mixed emotions, that our teachers should not work without a contract."

DIST. 211'S PRESENT contract with teachers contains a no-strike clause, but some teachers suggested they could call in sick or withhold student grades in retaliation.

If teachers don't hold out for a settlement this year, Mrs. Mertz said "we won't be believed next year or the year after."

Dist. 211 Board Pres. Robert Creek said Friday, "the district is limited in its income." Any increase in the base pay for teachers is in addition to the 5.3 per cent increment teachers receive yearly for additional experience until they reach the top of the salary scale after 16 years, he said.

Mrs. Mertz said last night Creek's argument is unfounded because all teachers grow with experience. "The increment is your reward for additional competence and I don't think there's one teacher at Dist. 211 that doesn't grow in one year."

Developer seeks zoning variance

A variance permitting a smaller rear yard than required by Hoffman Estates ordinance will be requested of the zoning board of appeals tonight.

The zoning board will hear the petition by Maurice Sanderman, partner of Highland Development Group, to permit construction of a 119,000-square-foot office-warehouse facility at 2195 and 2225 Stonington Ave. The hearing will open at 8 p.m. in the municipal building, 1200 N. Gannon Dr.

Sanderman said Monday the facility will be built in two stages, with the first stage, about 35,000 square feet, planned for occupancy late this fall. The structure will be leased for common small business uses, he said, with each tenant having roughly 10 per cent office space with the remainder devoted to warehouse area and loading docks. The precise division of space will depend on the needs of the user, he said. No tenants are committed, although negotiations are under way with some potential tenants, he said.

Sanderman said his firm needs the variance because the two lots are "extremely irregular in shape," and because the property includes a 50-foot easement which interferes with land use. Poplar Creek also passes through the rear portion of the lots, he said. The zoning ordinance specifies the rear yard building set back equal 20 per cent of property depth.

Jewelry store armed robbery victim—again

For the second time since Woodfield Jewelers of Schaumburg opened last June, the store has fallen victim to an armed robber. Sunday, a bandit netted about $100 in cash in a holdup.

About 1:30 p.m. a man entered the jewelry store in the Woodfield Commons Shopping Center, Golf and Meacham roads, police said. He brandished a blue-steel revolver and ordered Mrs. Betty Gunn, owner-operator of the store, to hand over all the money in the cash drawer, police reported.

The man scooped up the bills from the drawer and fled on foot, authorities said. It was unknown if a vehicle was used in the robber's escape, police said.

Police were summoned by an alarm from the store after the robbery and were unable to locate the gunman. The robber was described as being about six-foot tall and about 25 years old.

Last August, Mrs. Gunn was pistol-whipped by an armed robber who made off with about $12,000 worth of rings from the store.

Couples to pucker up in record-making try

The Great Kiss Off starts noon Saturday in Schaumburg's Woodfield shopping center when 11 couples from across the United States begin smooching to earn their place in the Guinness Book of World Records.

The current record is held by a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., couple, Louise Heath and Vince Torro, who kept their lips in touch for four days and 32 minutes, said Ruby Ruppert of Woodfield, Ill., Rte. 53 and Golf Road.

Competitors are being flown in from 11 major cities across the United States including Detroit, Milwaukee, Philadelphia and San Diego, said Dave Herzog of WEA Distributors, Des Plaines.

The competition began in Miami, Fla., where the first kissing competition was held to promote the rock group Kiss, he said.

RULES ALLOW FOR five-minute breaks each hour during the first two days of competition, five minutes every two hours on the third day and five minutes every three hours on the fourth day, Miss Ruppert said.

The contestants play cards, chess and read books while competing, she said, adding winners will also get an eight-day all expense-paid trip to Acapulco.

Kisses will be sold by Playboy bunnies Saturday in a booth near the Grand Mall of Woodfield where the competition will be held. Proceeds will go to St. Jude's Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., she added.

Celebrities expected on the scene include Howard Cosell, Jan Murray, Joel Gray, and disc jockey Larry LaJack of WCFL, co-sponsor of the competition with Casa Blanca records.

Probe of Schaumburg builder off

The official corruptions section of Cook County State's Attorney's office has decided not to investigate Schaumburg builder Elmer Gleich and his relationship with village officials, but specific reasons for the denial have not been explained.

The probe was requested several weeks ago by owners of four condominium units at Gleich's Bar Harbour because plans and specifications approved by the village were not strictly followed when the 90-unit building at Schaumburg and Meacham roads was constructed. Residents there complained of severe heating problems last winter due to omission of strip heaters called for in the original plan.

Village officials contend that they have no recourse in the matter because Gleich followed minimum building codes even though he did not do exactly as he said he would do.

HOFFMAN ESTATESER Dick Bick says he considered applying for the trustee vacancy there but decided to hold off. He plans to run for a village board post next year after gaining more experience. He has been a member of the plan commission for the past two years.

JOHN J. CARSELLO just smiled when asked if the Schaumburg Township Regular Democratic Organization (he's executive secretary) plans to run a village slate in Schaumburg next spring.

He gave no reply but the smile broadened when questioned about a Democratic candidate opposing his daughter-in-law, Village Clerk Sandy Carcello, whose second term expires in 1975. As an incumbent, Sandy would most assuredly be Schaumburg United Party (SUP)-supported, though she is known to be on the opposite side of the national political scene John J. represents.

His only comment these days is "The DOTS" are coming but Carcello indicated people will have to attend organization meetings to find out what "DOTS" represents.

Stolen school supplies are recovered

About $1,000 worth of school supplies were recovered over the weekend after Schaumburg Police arrested a man on a charge of possession of stolen property.

Kevin Kenny, 18, of 133 Hickory Ln., a former part-time school district employee, was charged after authorities picked him up Sunday morning outside Dirksen School, 116 W. Beech Dr. Police said he was intoxicated.

After police received permission to enter his car to drive it to the station they noticed a large quantity of goods in the back seat. After police questioning, Kenny admitted the items were stolen.

The items believed taken from Jane Addams Junior High School, 720 Spring-insguth Rd., ranged from cameras and accessories to aquariums and office supplies, police reported. Also taken were four cassette tape recorders and a quantity of kitchen supplies, and various tools. Additional merchandise was retrieved at his home.

Kenny was released on $1,000 bond and is scheduled to appear July 7, in Schaumburg branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

About $125 worth of checks and cash were taken in a break-in Sunday in the office of Addams Junior High School, in another incident.

Mayor Virginia Hayter said "It's interesting information," but when asked if it was relevant said, "I can't answer that because I don't know legal precedents, if any." She learned yesterday Sanderman's application was pending but was not aware until informed by a reporter of Sanderman's conviction and testimony in the Peskin trial.

ZONING BOARD Chairman Robert Valentino, who did not know Sanderman's background, said the information was overwhelming and surprising but irrelevant to the variance request.

Valentino's only reservation to the variance, after having inspected the land, is potentially inadequate parking, he said. "Depending on the use of the spaces (in the building), it's going to be tight" parking, he said.

Richard Rogan, chairman of the village plan commission, said he plans to consult with Village Atty. Edward Hofert about village liability or limitations, if any, in doing business with Sanderman's firm, and to examine development plans "very carefully" to guarantee compliance with village laws. The commission reviews engineering and site plans for all development in the village.

BUT HE WAXED vocal about the recent apparent success he and Democratic Committeeman John F. Morrissey claim in efforts to convince Cook County that Bode Road needs reconstruction.

With surveying done and stakes posted, Carcello predicted that areas just east of Springinsguth and west to Sheffield Manor will soon be repaved.

HOFFMAN ESTATES trustees will make their annual tour of the park district June 29 on a bus trip now being arranged by Al Blinder, director of parks and recreation.

SEND CONDOLENCES to Schaumburg's Al Larson, whose mother died last week.

"SOME PEOPLE USE words like underwear, to merely cover the subject but others use them like lingerie, to present it at its best," believes Phil Ossifer.

The local scene

Restaurant opening tonight

Swiss Bavarian Village restaurant will hold its grand opening tonight. The restaurant at 707 E. Golf Rd., Schaumburg, features fondue dishes. It will be open from 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. Monday through Thursday and from 11-2 a.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Entertainment also will be featured Friday and Saturday nights. A cocktail hour will be held every night from 4 to 8 featuring cheese hors d'oeuvres.

High school concert set

The year's final Schaumburg High School music department concerts will be presented at the school Wednesday and Thursday at 8 p.m.

Wednesday, "A Choral Festival" will feature the concert choir. The wind ensemble, concert band and jazz band will perform "A Graduation Concert" on Thursday.

The wind ensemble will perform selections they will play on an upcoming tour of Washington, D.C.

Music awards presented

The Schaumburg High School music department held its annual awards banquet recently.

Awards were presented to Roy Cavazos, outstanding instrumentalist; Keith Illig, Arion Foundation and Schaumburg Women's Club camp scholarship; Dan Stahnke, national band association; Dan Borowski, John Philip Sousa award; Greg Wallar, Louis Armstrong Jazz award; Pamela Mefford, most improved player; Steve Short, outstanding concert band member; Wayne Morgan, showmanship; Beth Lemrise, outstanding vocalist; Robin Walltschek, outstanding choir member; and Diane Pietrucha, Arion Foundation.

The banquet was sponsored by the Schaumburg VIP's and parents of music students.

Rolling Meadows attorney forces decision

by KURT BAER

The City of Rolling Meadows apparently forced the cancellation of night racing at Arlington Park Race Track Monday when it threatened to sue the state racing board for a violation of the Illinois open meetings law.

The city's attorney, Donald Rose, Monday objected to a weekend telephone poll of racing board members which had been used as authorization for Arlington Park to schedule its first nighttime horse races since 1968.

Rose said he was less than 20 minutes away from filing a Cook County Circuit Court suit that would have requested an emergency injunction against the night races when the attorney for the racing board, Martin Oberman, called to say the program would be canceled.

The decision was announced just six hours before the 8 p.m. scheduled starting time of the first evening race.

The racing board will hold a hearing at noon today to discuss the possibility of a day-night "double header" at Arlington Park Friday and Saturday.

Rose said he would attend today's hearing to object to any future nighttime racing at Arlington Park because of the potential disturbance it poses to Rolling Meadows residents who live directly across Euclid Avenue from the race track.

ILLINOIS RACING Board Chairman Anthony Sciarano could not be reached for comment Monday on the allegation that the board had violated the open meeting statute. Ironically, it was Sciarano who, as a state legislator, authored and championed the state's tough open meeting law.

"We just weren't aware that there was any opposition to night racing out there," a racing board spokesman, Tom Sommers, said Monday. "In an emergency situation it seemed valid for the board to act without going to the trouble of all getting together in one room."

The "emergency situation" is a contract dispute between horsemen and the operators of Sportsman's Park which forced the cancellation of Monday night's harness racing opener at the track in Cicero.

Calling off the races at Sportsman's will cost the state $100,000 a day in lost revenue, Sommers said.

"Because of the obligation to protect the state's revenue, the racing board agreed to grant permission to run an evening program at Arlington Park," he said.

It was "unclear," he said, whether the board's weekend decision had violated the open meetings law.

ROLLING MEADOWS Mayor Roland Meyer said Monday the city's injunction maintained that the board violated "the public's right to know" when it failed to hold a public hearing on night racing.

"The papers were all drawn up and ready to be taken to court," said Meyer, who had instructed Rose to look into the ethics of the racing board's decision.

Both Meyer and Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said Sunday they had no knowledge that the racing board had acted to approve Monday night's program.

Officials and residents from Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights objected vehemently when Arlington Park's former owner, Marje Everett, first proposed night racing in 1968-69.

However Arlington Heights is barred by the terms of its annexation agreement with Arlington Park from any further objection to night horse racing.

SOMMERS SAID "It was only today that we found out there was opposition. We hope anyone who's interested will attend the hearing (today)."

The racing board is scheduled to convene at noon, on the 10th floor of the State of Illinois Building, 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago.

Arlington Park Pres. Jack Loomer is expected to request permission for day-night races at Arlington Park this Friday and Saturday if the dispute at Sportsman's Park is not resolved.

Varied July 4th activities planned

A full range of activities designed to interest Hoffman Estates residents of every age is being planned for the annual Independence Day celebration.

Theme for the parade, scheduled to begin at 10 a.m., is Ethnic America 1974. It will begin at Illinois Boulevard and Payson street and travel a mile course to the old village hall.

Floats in three categories, theme, patriotic and commercial, will be eligible for awards and the John Sheehan Marching Award will be given to the outstanding non-professional marching group. Sheehan was the first president of the village Independence Day committee.

AWARDS WILL BE given to pet parade entries for the "funniest dressed" and most unusual pets and trophies will be presented to the best girl and boy bicycle and best decorated girl and boy tricycle.

Free bingo, a watermelon eating contest, races, a tug of war and teen car smash are also planned. Hoffman Estates Athletic Assn. will hold a punt-kick competition for boys from 7 to 15 years of age and exhibition soccer for girls 8 to 12 years old and boys 13 to 15 years of age. A drum and bugle corps competition is scheduled from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at Conant High School athletic field. The event is being organized by the village Independence Day Committee.

Schaumburg state Bank announces

Would you like a credit reserve of $300 to $3000 to cover checks beyond the balance in your checking account?

C.R.C. The end of the overdraw

It happens . . . a genuine once-in-a-lifetime sale is announced . . . unexpected expenses or an emergency comes along . . . and the balance in your check book isn't sufficient to cover the cost. Where will you get the money?

You could apply for a regular loan — if you have the time. Or you could take the easiest, most convenient course of all — and simply write a check for it. With a Credit Reserve Checking account — CRC — you have instant "borrowing power" that lets you write checks for more money than you have in your account. You use your regular personal checks, so no one knows you are borrowing — a feature many users appreciate and you make your purchase just as though you had the money all the time.

A few quick facts about this modern new checking account concept:

☐ You can borrow as often as you like — up to the limit of your credit reserve. Each time you write a check for more money than you have in your checking account, funds are automatically transferred in multiples of $100 from your Credit Reserve to your checking account. When repayment is made, the line of credit is built back to its original amount and can be used again and again.

How much money can you borrow?

A credit reserve of from $300 to $3000 can be established dependent upon your income and ability to make repayments.

Is it costly?

It costs you nothing to open a Credit Reserve Checking Account. In fact, you may never have occasion to use the credit reserve of your CRC account — although it's a good feeling to know that it's there, — and should this be the case, this extra security will never cost you any more than a regular checking account. If and when you do write a check for more money than you have in your account, you pay only a small monthly interest charge.

☐ Repayments will be automatically deducted from your checking account each month in the amount determined by the loan agreement.

☐ Pre-payments can be made at any time without penalty charge.

☐ Notification of all funds deposited to your checking account is sent to you by the bank along with a statement of your Credit Reserve and regular checking account balance.

S-curve speeders will be ticketed, promises Doney

Mount Prospect Police Chief Ralph J. Doney last night vowed to crack down on motorists who exceed the speed limit along the notorious S-curve on S. Elmhurst Road.

Doney made the pledge during a meeting with 13 residents of the area and Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley, in which the residents sought added traffic controls to slow down cars on Elmhurst (also known as Main Street and Illinois Rte. 83).

The curvy strip of road between Milburn Avenue and Shabonee Trail is regarded as one of the most accident-prone sections of the village. Though it measures only three-eighths of a mile in length, it accounted for 29 accidents in 1973—1 per cent of the total number of accidents on Mount Prospect's 115 miles of roads—and was the scene of a fatal accident May 12.

DONEY PROMISED stricter enforcement of the 25-mile per hour speed limit along the S-curve after noting police statistics that show no tickets issued in 1973 for drivers going as fast as 10 miles per hour over the posted limit. Some 38 citations were issued to motorists traveling at a rate of 34 to 40 miles per hour, 93 citations for 41 to 45 miles per hour, and 37 citations for over 46 miles per hour.

Doney told the residents that when he took over as police chief May 17, "I immediately said to my people I expect radar control on the S-curve. We're out there as often as possible."

He indicated that while some leeway must be allowed for faulty speedometers, police would begin writing tickets for motorists driving at a rate of 30 miles per hour.

One of the residents, Harold Bremer, 210 Wille St., said more ticket-writing would aid in slowing down traffic. "Even if the judge throws it out, it's still going to slow down traffic if the man knows he's going to get a ticket for going 30. If he knows he can go 35 miles an hour without getting a ticket, he's going to do that."

THE SPEED crackdown was among several measures village officials indicated they would look into. Others:

- Installing a traffic signal. Plans have been drawn for a $250,000 pedestrian-activated signal at Elmhurst and Lincoln Street. The village has appropriated half the funds, and has applied for a matching state grant. If the grant is awarded, the signal would be installed this year; if not, installation would be next year.

- Posting yellow warning lights in advance of the traffic signal.

- Installing a guard rail along the curve.

- Putting in brighter lighting.

- Condemning the small island at Elmhurst and Lincoln to revamp the curve to a 90-degree turn with stop signs.

One resident, Mario Esposito, 306 S. Main St., said bluntly: "Unless we do something about this curve, every one of us shouldn't sleep at night." He noted three particular problems with the road—trees are close to the roadway, curbs are banked and low, and the curve itself is not banked—in endorsing a traffic signal. "It's going to back up traffic, but it's better for people to sit five minutes in their car."

RACE FANS ARE directed out of Arlington Park track's season opener. An hour later, cars arriving away. Under threat of a lawsuit, the Illinois Racing Race Track Monday evening at the close of the for an announced evening program were turned Board canceled the nighttime races.

Threatened suit halts night racing

by KURT BAER

The City of Rolling Meadows apparently forced the cancellation of night racing at Arlington Park Race Track Monday when it threatened to sue the state racing board for a violation of the Illinois open meetings law.

The city's attorney, Donald Rose, Monday objected to a weekend telephone poll of racing board members which had been used as authorization for Arlington Park to schedule its first nighttime horse races since 1969.

Rose said he was less than 20 minutes away from filing a Cook County Circuit Court suit that would have requested an emergency injunction against the night races when the attorney for the racing board, Martin Oberman, called to say the program would be canceled.

The decision was announced just six hours before the 8 p.m. scheduled starting time of the first evening race.

The racing board will hold a hearing at noon today to discuss the possibility of a day-night "double header" at Arlington Park Friday and Saturday.

Rose said he would attend today's hearing to object to any future nighttime racing at Arlington Park because of the potential disturbance it poses to Rolling Meadows residents who live directly across Euclid Avenue from the race track.

ILLINOIS RACING Board Chairman Anthony Scariano could not be reached for comment Monday on the allegation that the board had violated the open meeting statute. Ironically, it was Scariano who, as a state legislator, authored and championed the state's tough open meeting law.

"We just weren't aware that there was any opposition to night racing out there," a racing board spokesman, Tom Sommers, said Monday. "In an emergency situation it seemed valid for the board to act without going to the trouble of all getting together in one room."

The "emergency situation" is a contract dispute between horsemen and the operators of Sportsman's Park which forced the cancellation of Monday night's harness racing opener at the track in Cicero.

Calling off the races at Sportsman's will cost the state $100,000 a day in lost revenue, Sommers said.

"Because of the obligation to protect the state's revenue, the racing board agreed to grant permission to run an evening program at Arlington Park," he said.

It was "unclear," he said, whether the board's weekend decision had violated the open meetings law.

ROLLING MEADOWS Mayor Roland Meyer said Monday the city's injunction

Village to consider building permit hike

The Mount Prospect Village Board tonight is expected to raise fees for building permits by about 25 per cent.

The proposed increase has been studied by the board's building and fire and police committees.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Negotiators to meet with teachers

Representatives of the Dist. 23 Board of Education negotiating team will meet at 3:15 p.m. Wednesday with members of the Prospect Heights Education Assn. at MacArthur Junior High School.

The session is the first of four steps which must be taken before an outside mediator can be brought in to help arbitrate a deadlock in negotiations for a 1974-75 teacher contract.

Negotiations between the board team and the PHEA hit a snag last week when the board representatives declared an impasse in bargaining.

ACCORDING TO Ken Bates, president of the PHEA and a teacher at MacArthur Junior High, representatives of the board negotiating team will present a written statement to the entire PHEA membership. Bates will present a verbal answer to the statement, and the meeting will then be open to questions.

The PHEA negotiating team will then meet Wednesday night in executive session with the entire school board to discuss the current status of talks.

Following Wednesday, two steps will remain before a mediator can be brought into the talks, including a meeting of the negotiating teams with their respective organizations and other meeting between the two negotiating teams.

Only $17,500 separates the two sides in their proposals for monetary packages, with the board offering a total of $108,500 and the PHEA seeking a package of $123,000.

Seven vying for Miss Mount Prospect title

Seven candidates are in the running for the title of Miss Mount Prospect 1974.

Four of the seven are from Mount Prospect, two are from Des Plaines and one is from Elk Grove Village.

The contest, sponsored by the Mount Prospect Jaycees, will be conducted June 22 at Prospect High School. Chairman Dennis Kinzel indicated competition will include evening gown, bathing suit and talent categories. The winner will go on to the Miss Illinois contest.

THE CONTESTANTS:

- Jaya Hooczko, 18, daughter of

- Mr. and Mrs. John Hooczko, 1849 Howard Ave., Des Plaines; a student at Maine West High School.

- Judy Huck, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Huck, 1805 Wistaria Ct., Mount Prospect; a student at John Hersey High School.

- Sue McCormack, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McCormack, 9 Wildwood Rd., Elk Grove Village; a student at Harper College and employed as a dental assistant.

- Vanessa Olos, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Olos, 251 Springfield Terr., Des Plaines; a student at Forest View High School.

- Janis Pearce, 10, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Pearce, 201 N. Maple St., Mount Prospect; a student at the University of Illinois.

- Debbie Rhodes, 18, daughter of Mrs. Claudia Severson, 1443 Fern Dr., Mount Prospect; a student at Forest View High School.

- Debbie Ursin, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ursin, 707 N. Fairview Ave., Mount Prospect; employed at Montgomery Ward and Co.

The winner of the contest will receive a scholarship and use of a car for the summer.

Lil Floros

Welcome to our friendly town

Welcome to new people who have recently moved into Mount Prospect.

Recent arrivals from Monterey, Calif., are Julie and Leo DeAngelis of 6 S. Owen. They have a two-year-old youngster, Brian, and are expecting another child shortly.

Dorothy and Ed Kuscevic of 804 S. Maple are newcomers from Fredonia, Ky. They have one child at home — Mike, a recent graduate of the University of Kentucky. Other children are grown and living elsewhere.

Julienne and Randolph Brundage recently moved from Des Plaines to 207 S. School St. They have two boys, three- and one-year-old.

OTHER NEW ARRIVALS are Paul and Rebecca Bandurski of 1 N. Lancaster. Paul is originally from Chicago and was in service in Maryland where he met and married Rebecca four years ago. The couple settled first in Northlake until their recent move to Mount Prospect.

Gary and Carol Griffin of 1202 Robbin Ln. came to our town from Des Plaines. They have two daughters, Laura, 4½, and Jennifer, 2.

The Dennis Cunninghams of 811 S. WeGo Trail are recent newcomers from Rolling Meadows. She is originally from Lincolnwood, he from San Francisco. They've been married five years, and have a daughter.

From Chicago's Northwest Side are Claire and Frank Riggio of 685 Bel Aire. They have two daughters, 20 and 17 years old.

Kathy and Douglas Shaffer, 219 N.

Owen St., are from the Rogers Park area of Chicago. They have two daughters, 3 and 4 years old.

John and Pam Collins recently moved into a home at 217 N. Owen — moving from a smaller house right next door. When the larger home became available because of the owners' move to Canada, the Collins' quickly shifted. John and Pam are originally from Chicago's south suburbs and moved to Mount Prospect a year ago because John works in this area. They have a daughter aged five.

MARK AND MARLENE Horning and their two children of 111 N. Waverly did the same as the Collins', moving from one house to another right next door.

Joseph and Karen Fraczek, 7 S. William, moved to Mount Prospect from an apartment in Chicago. "We love it out here," says Joe. "It's beautiful." The Fraczeks decided on this area because they have friends here.

Tom and Paula Moore recently moved to 205 N. Owen but they are not really newcomers to Mount Prospect. They both grew up in the area. Paula went to Westbrook School, Tom attended Sunset Park School, and they both were students at Lincoln Junior High. The Moores had been living in Palatine.

Paula Moore's maiden name, Kinneman, is a familiar one in this area. Her dad was a coach in the boys' physical education department at Prospect High School for many years.

Sandy and Frank Kolman moved from Chicago to buy a house at 705 Prospect Manor. A couple of owners ago, we lived at 705. It was our first home in Mount Prospect 16 years ago.

$30,000 budgeted from U.S. funds

Township approves day care center

The Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors Tuesday approved establishment of the township's own not-for-profit day care center.

The center will be established according to a proposal submitted by Dora Fowler at a special meeting last week. The proposal calls for Mrs. Fowler to be hired as a township employee to work "hand in hand" with a citizens' advisory committee to set up the program.

The center would be operated by a not-for-profit corporation composed of citizens with the township board supplying financial support. Mrs. Fowler said her proposed center would be eligible for federal and state funds as well as savings on milk, food and taxes because of its not-for-profit backing.

The estimated cost of operating the center would be $35 per child per week with the township subsidizing on a sliding scale the care for children of low-income families.

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR Robert M. Hall said Mrs. Fowler "is ready to start work next Monday."

During discussion, Hall said, "We would be best to go with the not-for-profit corporation and hire Dora Fowler to run this for us." He gave as reasons a township identity with the center, active citizen participation and "the fact that we won't be using tax money for any private profit corporation."

Three other day care proposals included as part of their plans using existing for-profit facilities or corporations.

The township will get its money for the day care center from Federal Revenue Sharing funds and has budgeted $30,000 for this program.

"Legally there is no problem," with using revenue funds for the center, Hall said, referring to a written opinion from the township attorney. However, the township has yet to set the criteria for defining "low-income."

In other business the township board voted to accept a bid for life and hospitalization insurance covering 16 full-time township employees. The bid was for $572.60 per month from Prudential Insurance Co.

Parents' group urges superintendent resign

by BOB GALLAS

A group of some 20 parents from about half of the schools from Dist. 59 Monday night called for the resignation of their controversial superintendent, James Erviti.

The group, represented by spokesman Mead Killian, an Elk Grove Village resident, presented copies of a letter calling for the resignation to Erviti and members of the Elk Grove Township School Board at the board's regular meeting.

The letter cited Erviti's controversy with the principals in the district, along with a claim of "declining performance in test scores and the recent failure of the state to give instant accreditation to our district," as some of the reasons for the call for Erviti's resignation.

Erviti sat silent and red-faced through Killian's reading. When presented with a copy of the letter, Erviti, even more red-faced, forced a smile and said to Killian, "I'm sorry you didn't speak to me about this." Erviti later declined further comment to the Herald.

NO BOARD MEMBERS offered any comments to the letter which came during the section of the meeting reserved for audience comments.

The letter further stated it did not want to fix blame, saying, "exact cause Dist. 59 is far less important than the fact that it clearly exists."

Housing plans for 'Harper' site to be heard

Preliminary plans for a housing development on the possible site of Harper College's second campus will be presented to the plat and subdivision subcommittee of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission today.

Raymond and Raymond developers of Evanston have announced tentative plans for 1,947 units of housing on the 146-acre site at Schoenbeck and Palatine roads.

According to village planner Joe Kessler the proposed development will be similar to Regency Park with a mix of apartments, townhouses, condominium apartments and single-family homes.

The land, owned by the Mayo Foundation of Rochester, Minn., has been put forward as a possible site for Harper's second campus. Representatives of the college will be meeting with the village trustees later this month to discuss the proposal.

The Arlington Heights Park District also wants part of the land set aside as part of a series of connector parks in the northern end of the village.

REPRESENTATIVES of the college and park district as well as school district 23 have been invited to attend the meeting today.

Mayo Foundation officials have said they would be willing to sell the property to Harper, but are unwilling to tie it up while the college attempts to get approval for the second campus site from the state.

The meeting is scheduled for 3 p.m. at the village municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The meetings are part of a streamlined procedure for bringing projects before the plan commission. The preliminary sessions are to work out problems, bring proposals into compliance with village ordinances and to give developers a reading of village feelings.

Referendum to voters today

The fate of a $1.1 million referendum will be decided today by Prospect Heights Park District voters. Only one polling place, the Prospect Heights Public Library, 12 N. Elm St., Prospect Heights, will be open for the referendum. Ballots may be cast from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The referendum seeks approval for a major renovation of the Lons Park pool on Camp McDonald Road and the construction of an adjacent community center-sports complex.

Park officials estimate the cost of the referendum to property owners in the district will be about $17.89 a year per $10,000 assessed valuation for 16 years. Officials add, however, that the yearly cost may be higher in the beginning, but will lessen as various apartment complexes within the district are completed, occupied and taxed.

Woman, 44, is found dead in parked car

Jean Marie Smith, 44, of 1905 Seneca Ln., Mount Prospect, was found dead in a car parked in the family garage, apparently of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Police said the key was in the car's ignition and the gas tank was half full when the body was discovered by Mrs. Smith's husband, Leonard, and daughter, Terry, at 10:19 a.m. Sunday. She was last seen at 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

Police said no suicide note was found. An inquest into the death has been scheduled for 1 p.m. Friday at Oehler's Funeral Home, Des Plaines.

Window broken

Windows were broken over the weekend at Kopp swimming pool and at Big E's hot dog stand in apparently unrelated incidents. At Kopp, a 14-year-old was apprehended for allegedly throwing rocks through a glass dome over the pool, causing $100 damage. At Big E's, a piece of metal thrown through glass windows caused an estimated $1,000 damage.

Couples to pucker up in record-making try

The Great Kiss Off starts noon Saturday in Schaumburg's Woodfield shopping center when 11 couples from across the United States begin smooching to earn their place in the Guinness Book of World Records.

The current record is held by a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., couple, Louise Heath and Vince Torro, who kept their lips in touch for four days and 32 minutes, said Ruby Ruppert of Woodfield, Ill., Rte. 33 and Golf Road.

Competitors are being flown in from 11 major cities across the United States including Detroit, Milwaukee, Philadelphia and San Diego, said Dave Herzog of WEA Distributors, Des Plaines.

The competition began in Miami, Fla., where the first kissing competition was held to promote the rock group Kiss, he said.

RULES ALLOW FOR five-minute breaks each hour during the first two days of competition, five minutes every two hours on the third day and five minutes every three hours on the fourth day, Miss Ruppert said.

The contestants play cards, chess and read books while competing, she said, adding winners will also get an eight-day all expense-paid trip to Acapulco.

Kisses will be sold by Playboy bunnies Saturday in a booth near the Grand Mall of Woodfield where the competition will be held. Proceeds will go to St. Jude's Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., she added.

Celebrities expected on the scene include Howard Cosell, Jan Murray, Joel Gray, and disc jockey Larry Lu-jack of WCFL, co-sponsor of the competition with Casa Blanca records.

Threatened lawsuit puts halt to Arlington night racing maintained that the board violated "the public's right to know" when it failed to hold a public hearing on night racing.

"The papers were all drawn up and ready to be taken to court," said Meyer, who had instructed Rose to look into the ethics of the racing board's decision.

Both Meyer and Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said Sunday they had no knowledge that the racing board had acted to approve Monday night's program.

Officials and residents from Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights objected vehemently when Arlington Park's former owner, Marjorie Everett, first proposed night racing in 1968-69.

However Arlington Heights is barred by the terms of its annexation agreement with Arlington Park from any further objection to night horse racing.

SOMINERS SAID "it was only today that we found out there was opposition. We hope anyone who's interested will attend the hearing (today)."

The racing board is scheduled to convene at noon, on the 10th floor of the State of Illinois Building, 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago.

Arlington Park Pres. Jack Loomis is expected to request permission for day-night races at Arlington Park this Friday and Saturday if the dispute at Sportsman's Park is not resolved.

Last-minute move by Rolling Meadows attorney

by KURT BAER

The City of Rolling Meadows apparently forced the cancellation of night racing at Arlington Park Race Track Monday when it threatened to sue the state racing board for a violation of the Illinois open meetings law.

The city's attorney, Donald Rose, Monday objected to a weekend telephone poll of racing board members which had been used as authorization for Arlington Park to schedule its first nighttime horse races since 1969.

Rose said he was less than 20 minutes away from filing a Cook County Circuit Court suit that would have requested an emergency injunction against the night races when the attorney for the racing board, Martin Oberman, called to say the program would be canceled.

The decision was announced just six hours before the 8 p.m. scheduled starting time of the first evening race.

The racing board will hold a hearing at noon today to discuss the possibility of a day-night "double header" at Arlington Park Friday and Saturday.

Rose said he would attend today's hearing to object to any future nighttime racing at Arlington Park because of the potential disturbance it poses to Rolling Meadows residents who live directly across Euclid Avenue from the race track.

ILLINOIS RACING Board Chairman Anthony Scariano could not be reached for comment Monday on the allegation that the board had violated the open meeting statute. Ironically, it was Scariano who, as a state legislator, authored and championed the state's tough open meeting law.

"We just weren't aware that there was any opposition to night racing out there," a racing board spokesman, Tom Sommers, said Monday. "In an emergency situation it seemed valid for the board to act without going to the trouble of all getting together in one room."

The "emergency situation" is a contract dispute between horsemen and the operators of Sportsman's Park which forced the cancellation of Monday night's harness racing opener at the track in Cicero.

Calling off the races at Sportsman's will cost the state $100,000 a day in lost revenue, Sommers said.

"Because of the obligation to protect

Free passes cool off hot handicappers

Hundreds of cars, carrying several thousand horse racing fans, were turned away from the gates at Arlington Park Race Track Monday evening with the words, "I'm sorry, but tonight's races have been canceled."

Most of the fans took the news with a shrug of the shoulders, and free passes to some other day at the races went a long way toward cooling potentially hot tempers.

"Why wasn't this on the six o'clock news? That's what I wonder," said one man who, with his family, drove from Waukegan for what would have been the novelty night of racing at Arlington Park.

Another carload from Milwaukee seemed more interested in what the afternoon's Daily Double had paid, than the parking attendant's explanation of why last night's program had been scratched.

The free passes, though stamped 1973, will be honored on any racing day this season, the attendant said.

the state's revenue, the racing board agreed to grant permission to run an evening program at Arlington Park," he said.

It was "unclear," he said, whether the board's weekend decision had violated the open meetings law.

ROLLING MEADOWS Mayor Roland Meyer said Monday the city's injunction maintained that the board violated "the public's right to know" when it failed to hold a public hearing on night racing.

"The papers were all drawn up and ready to be taken to court," said Meyer, who had instructed Rose to look into the ethics of the racing board's decision.

Both Meyer and Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said Sunday they had no knowledge that the racing board had acted to approve Monday night's program.

The racing board is scheduled to convene at noon, on the 10th floor of the State of Illinois Building, 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago.

Arlington Park Pres. Jack Loomis is expected to request permission for day-night races at Arlington Park this Friday and Saturday if the dispute at Sportsman's Park is not resolved.

RACE FANS ARE directed out of Arlington Park track's season opener. An hour later, cars arriving away. Under threat of a lawsuit, the Illinois Racing Board canceled the nighttime races.

Motorcyclists leave bike following chase

Two motorcycle riders eluded police by running from their cycle after a high-speed chase early Saturday that originated in Mount Prospect and wound up in Arlington Heights.

According to Mount Prospect police, the chase began at Golf Road and Na-Wa-Ta Avenue in Mount Prospect and proceeded at speeds exceeding 90 miles an hour to Fernandez Avenue in Arlington Heights.

The riders abandoned the cycle at 1308 Fernandez, and escaped police by running through yards. The cycle did not have a license plate.

Village trustee Salinsky quits post

Ted Salinsky

Arlington Heights village trustee Theodore Salinsky announced his resignation from the board Monday night.

Salinsky, 1106 E. Carlyle Ct., said he was accepting a vice presidency of a Houston-based international corporation. He declined to name the company.

The resignation was effective immediately. Salinsky said he and his wife would be moving from the village this week.

The announcement was made by Village President Jack Walsh in a hastily reconvened meeting. The board was going into executive session when it was recalled to hear Salinsky's resignation.

Salinsky, an eight-year resident of the village, was elected to the board of trustees in April, 1971. His term expires in 1975.

SALINSKY WAS THE lone insurgent Caucus Party candidate from a field of four in the 1971 election to win office.

He served on the board's finance committee and was chairman of the community service committee.

Walsh said, in accepting the letter of resignation, that Salinsky was not a resident who "settled into his lawn, his television and Little League," but rather chose to become wholeheartedly involved with community issues.

The resignation was not entirely unexpected. There had been rumors of his departure circulating for several weeks.

Salinsky had been vice president of Power Regulators Co. and is a native of Hazelton, Pa.

The village board is expected to announce a replacement to fulfill the remaining 11 months of Salinsky's term.

'74 completion of Dundee Road work threatened

See related story on Page 4.

Unless a strike by gravel, cement and sand truck drivers ends soon, motorists traveling on Dundee Road may be faced with another treacherous winter.

Albert Sifrer, project engineer for the Illinois Division of Highways, said Monday the strike already has caused delays and if it is not settled by July 1, workers may have difficulty finishing the project by next winter.

The drivers went out about two weeks ago in sympathy of a strike called by ready-mix cement drivers. Sifrer said workers have been unable to resume paving because construction materials have run out.

THE PROJECT CONSISTS of widening and repaving Dundee Road to four lanes between Elmhurst Road and Ill. Rte. 53. It also includes hooking up the realignments of Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights roads and repaving a 900-foot section of Arlington Heights Road north of Dundee Road.

The entire project is scheduled to be completed by October 1. Sifrer said workers are currently doing some minor tasks, but eventually will be unable to work unless more materials are delivered.

The battered portion of Arlington Heights Road adjacent to Buffalo Grove High School was closed recently by village officials and will not be reopened until repairs are made. Public Works Director Charles McCoy said motorists can still drive on the road, but are advised that it is at their own risk.

Parents' group urges Erviti resign

by BOB GALLAS

A group of some 20 parents from about half of the schools from Dist. 59 Monday night called for the resignation of their controversial superintendent, James Erviti.

The group, represented by spokesman Mead Killion, an Elk Grove Village resident, presented copies of a letter calling for the resignation to Erviti and members of the Elk Grove Township School Board at the board's regular meeting.

The letter cited Erviti's controversy with the principals in the district, along with a claim of "declining performance in test scores and the recent failure of the state to give instant accreditation to our district," as some of the reasons for the call for Erviti's resignation.

Erviti sat silent and red-faced through Killion's reading. When presented with a copy of the letter, Erviti, even more red-faced, forced a smile and said to Killion, "I'm sorry you didn't speak to me about this." Erviti later declined further comment to the Herald.

NO BOARD MEMBERS offered any comments to the letter which came during the section of the meeting reserved for audience comments.

The letter continues, "As we view the present harm that has come to Dist. 59, and the potential devastating effect of a further polarization within the district, we have reached the conclusion that the interests of all of us would be better served if you could see fit to resign."

Killion emphasized that the group sending the letter did not claim to represent either all parents or "the administrations at the schools where our children attend."

When asked if he thought the group of parents for Erviti's ouster would grow, Killion said, "That depends on what happens. I don't think the number of names on the letter will have any effect."

MOUNTING PRESSURE for Erviti's resignation or termination has been growing since the disclosure of problems between the superintendent and a majority of Dist. 59 principals over personal and educational issues which center mainly around Erviti's alleged harsh treatment of principals.

Sources say that the majority of members of the school board would like to see Erviti resign, but there is not quite enough support to fire him and pay off the remaining two years of his three-year contract.

Erviti is reported to be looking for another superintendent's position.

Village begins traditional fight against summer weeds

The Village of Arlington Heights has begun its annual battle with the summer's bumper crop of weeds.

A total of 43 citations were sent out last week for violations of the village weed ordinance, and 60 more were put in the mail yesterday, according to village health director Frank Charlton.

Nine lots already have been cut by village order, he said.

Arlington Heights' weed control ordinance prohibits weeds over one foot in height. Property owners whose lots become overgrown are notified by mail of the ordinance restriction and given 10 days in which to get the weeds cut.

AFTER 10 DAYS, the village orders the weeds mowed and sends the bill to the property owner who then has 60 days in which to pay. If the bill goes unpaid, a lien is placed on the property title.

Serious complaints about weed-glutted lots should be directed to the village health department either by mail at 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd., or telephone 253-2340.

Last summer, problems with getting a person to cut the weeds at village order set the enforcement program back, but so far this year there have been no problems, according to Charlton.

A village-ordered weed cutting costs from $25 for a 60-by-120-foot lot to $80 for a lot 200-by-200. Additional charges are levied if debris has to be cleared before a lot can be cut, and a lien on the property adds $15 to the cost due to legal fees.

Last year, about 150 lots were cut at the direction of health department officials. A total of $5,500 has been budgeted for this year's anti-weed campaign.

Planners to hear request for hot dog 'gas' station

The gasoline station on the southwest corner of Dryden and Kensington Road will be recycled into a hot dog stand, if the efforts of Carl and Todd Behrens are successful.

The Behrens will appear before the Arlington Heights Plan Commission Wednesday to seek approval for their proposed diner, "The Filling Station."

According to plans submitted to the village, the Filling Station will retain as much of the service station motif as possible. The counter area will be in the former service bay and grease rack of the old station, which has been vacant for several months.

THE BEHRENS originally planned to seat about 25 customers, but reportedly have scaled down the inside seating at the request of the village. It was estimated more than half the proposed restaurant's business would be carry-out.

Another problem that must be surmounted is the parking area and drive-ways. At preliminary hearings, village officials said the exit pattern for cars was insufficient to handle the expected volume. Reduced parking slots would lessen the interior traffic and would provide more room for screening of property with shrubbery, planners said.

The hearing will be at 8 p.m. in the board room of the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Library's '3-S' club starts soon

Story time for school-aged children who have impaired hearing will be held this summer at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, beginning June 17.

The "3-S" club, Stories in Speech and Signs, will be held every Monday afternoon from 1:30 to 2:15 p.m. in the Dunton Room of the library, 500 N. Dunton.

Ceryl Homuth, story teller, will work with children by using sign language, visual expression and vocal language.

The summer program is open to any one from any community. Persons who know of any child of elementary school age with hearing impairment, are encouraged to inform parents of the story hours.

These children and parents are invited to visit the Children's Department at the library for books, magazines and audiovisual materials.

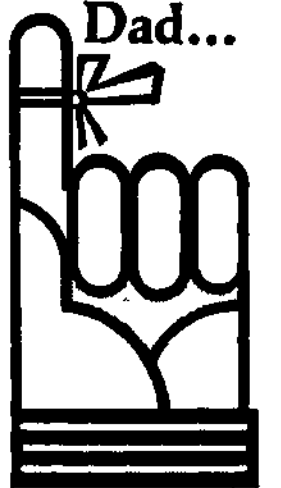

PTA notes

The annual children's hour at Berkley School, 2501 N. Chestnut in Arlington Heights, will be held Thursday from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and from 2 to 3:30 p.m. An evening performance will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Friday.

Music, dancing and magic acts will be featured. Children's art, crafts and hobbies will be on display. The scenery that will be used in the evening has been made by students.

Parents are invited to attend any of the performances.

Troop 66 paper drive Saturday

Boy Scout Troop 66 of St. James Parish in Arlington Heights, will hold its bimonthly paper drive Saturday.

Paper will be picked up at the curb Saturday afternoon in the area bounded by Arlington Heights Road, Euclid Avenue, Northwest Highway, Wilke Road and Thomas Street.

Anyone living outside of this area may bring paper to the parking lot of the St. James grade school, 821 N. Arlington Heights Rd., from 1 to 4 p.m. A van for the newspapers will be located there.

Proceeds from the paper drives are used to purchase additional equipment for the troop and to help defray the cost of summer camp for the boys.

For further information, call Bruce Reiter at 392-2654 or Frank Dawson at 253-6611.
